SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
17 LAUREL BROOK DR.
OAKLAND, MD 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Christopher Beitzel, dated August 31, 1998, and recorded in Liber 748, folio 490 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occurred thereunder, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., at the Court House Door, Oakland, on

NOVEMBER 26, 2002, AT 1:04 PM

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND and the improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD, and described as Unit No. 17, Laurel Brook Condominium and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $6,000 by cash or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. Time is of the essence as to the purchaser. If the purchaser defaults, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property shall be resold at the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Purchaser shall pay for documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. (Matter #84447)

NOTICE OF AUCTION SALE,

BIDDING PROCEDURES AND AUCTION

Property: New Savage Plant Seller: Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, Grantsville, Maryland
Cherrington Corporate Center
Moon Township, PA 15108

PLEASE BE ADVISED that, on October 24, 2002, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania (the "Court") entered an Order approving certain Bidding Procedures for the sale of certain real and personal property of Harbison-Walker Refractories Company ("H-W") located in Grantsville, Maryland, and more commonly known as the New Savage Plant (the "Premises").

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, an offer to purchase the Premises is currently pending in the amount of $1,000,000, but the sale is subject to higher and better offers. Upon request to the name and address below, the following information may be obtained: (a) a full and complete description of the Premises to be sold; (b) a copy of the Bidding Procedures approved by the Court; (c) a copy of the Purchase Agreement outlining the initial bid for the Premises; and (d) the place, date and time under which the Premises may be examined prior to sale.

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, all interested bidders should read carefully the Order and Bidding Procedures. To the extent there are any inconsistencies between the Order and Bidding Procedures and the summary description of their terms and conditions contained in this Notice, the terms of the Order and Bidding Procedures control.

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, pursuant to the Bidding Procedures, any Bidder desiring to submit a bid at the Auction (a "Bid") shall send a letter of interest to Debtors' counsel and shall be qualified by the Debtors (a "Qualified Bidder"). Qualified Bidders, as determined by the Debtors in their discretion, shall deliver their bid in writing with a bid deposit of at least $100,000 in cash or immediately available funds to Debtors' counsel, Reed Smith LLP, 435 Sixth Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15219, attn: David Ziegler, Esq., such that the Bid and deposit is actually received not later than November 18, 2002, at 11:00 a.m. (EST).

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, pursuant to the Bidding Procedures, an Auction for the Premises will be conducted at the offices of Reed Smith, LLP, 435 Sixth Avenue Pittsburgh, PA 15219 on November 20, 2002, at 11:00 a.m. (EST).

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, on November 22, 2002, at 10:30 a.m. (EST), in Courtroom A, 54th Floor, U.S. Steel Tower, 600 Grant Street, Pittsburgh, PA 15219, the Court shall conduct a hearing upon the conclusion of the Auction (the "Sale Confirmation Hearing") to consider entering an order authorizing and approving the sale of the Premises free and clear of all liens, claims, and encumbrances, subject to the terms of the Purchase Agreement. The Sale Confirmation Hearing may, however, be adjourned from time to time by notice in open court.

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED that, pursuant to the Bidding Procedures, the Debtors may, subject to Court approval, (i) impose additional terms and conditions at or prior to the Auction, (ii) extend the deadlines set forth in the Bidding Procedures and/or adjourn the Auction at the Auction and/or Sale Confirmation Hearing in open court without further notice, (iii) withdraw from sale the Premises at any time prior to or during the Auction and to make subsequent attempts to market the same, and (iv) to reject all bids, if in the Debtors' reasonable judgment, no bid is for a fair and adequate price.

PLEASE BE FURTHER ADVISED THAT ALL REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION CONCERNING THE PREMISES SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO:

David Ziegler, Esq.

HEARING

Amendment to the Garrett
Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Thursday, November 7, 2002, at 9:00 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an amendment to the Garrett County Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. McKenzie plan to establish a campground (Roam Around Campground) located on Church Run Road. The plan is for approximately one hundred (100) campsites and eight (8) cabins. The plan also provides for comfort stations with water and sanitary facilities in central locations. The cabins will have showers, water closets, and light cooking provisions.

The project will appropriate 16,000 gallons per day of groundwater and will discharge 16,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater. This is a private project that will be constructed with private funds. It will also be maintained privately and will not be connected to a public water or wastewater system.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on November 7, 2002, to determine if this amendment to the Garrett County Water and Sewer Master Plan is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the proposed service area and if feasible financially and from an engineering standpoint.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Town of Oakland, on the 4th day of November, 2002, introduced an Annexation Resolution, in accordance with the provisions of Article 23A, Section 19 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, for the annexation of the area known as the Memorial Drive Area Annexation, and providing that the area to be annexed shall be zoned as "Residential Institutional Professional" (RIP) category as defined by the Oakland Zoning Ordinance. The full resolution as introduced is as follows:

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND

(ANNEXATION NO. 2 - MEMORIAL DRIVE AREA ANNEXATION)

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 19(b) of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland have initiated this Resolution to enlarge the corporate boundaries of the Town by annexation of land adjoining and contiguous to the existing corporate boundaries, and being the area known as the Memorial Drive Area Annexation, as is depicted in detail on a plat dated September 26, 2002, prepared by Kerry S. Shultz, Surveyor; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Town Council have caused to be made a verification of the fact that the said annexation has been consented to by not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the persons who reside in the area to be annexed, and who are registered as voters in County elections, and from the owners of not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the assessed valuation of the real property located in the area to be annexed, as evidenced by the signatures of said persons on writings establishing their consent.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THAT ALL THE LAND LYING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF THE HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED PARCEL OR PARCELS SHALL BE ANNEXED TO AND BECOME PART OF THE TOWN OF OAKLAND:

ALL THAT AREA KNOWN as the Memorial Drive Area Annexation, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 7 of Garrett County, Maryland, lying north and south of Memorial Drive, approximately 0.6 miles northeast of the intersection of U.S. Route 212 and Memorial Drive, more particularly described as follows:

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
Notice of Intent to Establish a Total Maximum Daily Load of Mercury for Savage River Reservoir in Garrett County, Maryland

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act requires Maryland to (1) identify waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSs), where technology-based effluent limitations and other required controls cannot achieve water quality standards; (2) establish Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for each listed water for pollutants preventing the attainment of water quality standards; and (3) offer an opportunity for public review and comment on the proposed TMDLs.

Savage River Reservoir (basin code 02-14-10-06), located northeast of Deep Creek Lake in eastern Garrett County, is identified on the State's 2002 list of WQLSs due to elevated levels of mercury in fish tissue. Therefore, the Department is establishing a TMDL of mercury for Savage River Reservoir. The TMDL sets the maximum load limit for this substance. The TMDL also reflects load allocations to point sources, nonpoint sources, and a margin of safety that accounts for uncertainty in the procedures used to estimate the TMDL.

Once established by the State, the TMDL will be subject to approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). This TMDL will support measures needed to protect public health, as well as highlight the need to reduce nationally emitted mercury emissions from coal-fired power plants (the primary source of mercury atmospheric deposition) located both in-state and upwind of Maryland.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT

A 30-day public comment period for the draft of Savage River Reservoir TMDL document will take place from October 31, 2002 to November 29, 2002. Copies of the draft document have been placed in the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, 6 N. Second Street, Oakland MD 21550-1393 (301-334-3996) and in MDE's Library. The draft document is also available on the Internet at website <http://www.mde.state.md.us/Programs/WaterPrograms/TMDL> or by contacting Ms. Sheila Franklin by mail at the Water Management Administration, Maryland Department of the Environment, Montgomery Business Park Center, 1800 Washington Boulevard, Suite 540, Baltimore, MD 21230-1718, or by telephone at 410-537-3599 (outside the Baltimore area dial 1-800-633-6106, x3599). Anyone wishing to review the draft TMDL and supporting information may call Ms. Franklin during normal business hours. For technical information, contact Ms. Elaine Dietz at the Technical and Regulatory Services Administration using the aforementioned address or by telephone at 410-537-3667 (outside the Baltimore area, dial 1-800-633-6106, x3667).

Written comments concerning the draft TMDL document may be submitted to the Department on or before November 29, 2002 and should be sent to Ms. Franklin at the above address or emailed to sfranklin@mde.state.md.us. If the Department determines there is sufficient interest, a public hearing on this matter may be held. All comments received during the comment period will be considered and the draft document may be revised accordingly prior to its submittal to EPA for approval.

ORDER OF PUBLIC

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property, located and situate in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County, Maryland, to the Garrett County Commissioners, who assigned same unto the plaintiffs in this proceeding, consisting of .63 of an acre, more or less, designated as Lot 4 of Section 4, Block F, Piney Mountain Corporation, Garrett County, Maryland, and recorded in Liber 422, page 824, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. The complaint states, inter alia, that the amount necessary for redemption has not been paid. It is thereupon, this 22nd day of October 2002, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that notice be given by insertion of a copy of this order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three (3) successive weeks, warning all persons interested in the property to appear in this Court, by the 23rd day of December 2002, and redeem the property and answer the complaint, or thereafter a final judgment will be entered, foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the plaintiffs a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

West Virginia

News from Preston, Tucker, Grant and Mineral Counties.

GOSPEL SING AT BETHEL CHURCH

A gospel concert will be presented Sunday afternoon, Nov. 10, at 2 p.m., at the Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run. Appearing will be David Poling and his group of singers from New Wilmington, Pa. Everyone is invited to attend.

YOUTH LEAGUE SIGN-UPS SLATED

The Aurora Youth League is meeting Wednesday.

Terra Alta Church Talent Night Set

The Terra Alta First United Methodist Church is sponsoring a talent night on Sunday, Nov. 17, featuring the talents of its own members. Approximately 12 vocal and instrumental numbers will be included in the evening's program, which will begin at 7 p.m.

Pastor Michael Daniels welcomes the community to "a diversified hour of entertainment."

TA Resident Reports For Basic Training

Chester S. Fitchett, Terra Alta, has reported for basic training at For Sill, Lawton, Okla.

Fitchett, a 2001 graduate of Preston High School, Kingwood, joined the U.S. Army under the Delayed Entry Program. The program gives young men and women the opportunity to delay entering active duty for up to one year.

The enlistment gives the new soldier the option to learn a new skill, travel, and become eligible to receive as much as $50,000 toward a college education, according to an Army spokesperson.

After completion of basic military training, soldiers receive advanced individual training in their career job specialty prior to being assigned to their first permanent duty station.

Cranberry Club Offers Holiday Craft Workshop

Persons are invited to sign up for a workshop sponsored by the Cranberry Garden Club of Preston County and scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 14, at 10 a.m. to learn how to make a holiday kissing ball from fresh and dried materials.

The workshop will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the West Virginia University Extension Office in Kingwood. Coffee and sweet rolls will be served, but participants should bring their own bag lunch. All materials will be provided at a cost of $15 per person. The garden club noted appreciation to Dori Braniff, owner of East Preston Floral, for her assistance in organizing this program.

The Cranberry Garden Club welcomes women and men as members, and meets monthly in the Kingwood and Terra Alta areas. To register for the workshop or for more information, persons may contact Peggy Nagel at 304-789-5555 or Susan Weisbrod at 304-789-3032.

SHORT NOTES

The annual meeting of West Virginia United Methodist Women was held Nov. 1 and 2 at Canaan Valley Resort and Conference Center. Business included the election of state officers. Attending from Aurora United Methodist Church, and assisting with ushering duties and providing cookies, were Alma Snyder, Wilda Harsh, Resie Conrad, Doris Arnold, and Martha Bolyard. Sunshine Kits made by the local UMW units were gathered at this time, also.

A Sunday Officers' Training and Achievement for Preston County 4-H Clubs was held Nov. 3 at Preston High School. Those who attended from Eglon Mountaineer 4-H were Sara Lewis, Craig Rembold, Ashley Wilt, Ashley Bachtel, and Kari Harsh. The club was recipient of a red ribbon, and the secretary's book was awarded a blue ribbon.

Recent donations were made to the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department by Aurora-Terra Alta Post 578 VFW and by Richard Lee and Donna Blamble.

PERSONAL MENTION

Gene Hauser was transferred to HealthSouth MountainView Regional Rehabilitation Hospital, 1160 Van Voorhis Road, Morgantown, WV 26505. He will be receiving rehabilitation to enable his return to his home at Gnegy Church. He will appreciate hearing from friends.

Pat Wolfe remains a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, which she entered Oct. 28. She is reportedly showing slight improvement, but reportedly remains quite ill and is unable to receive her planned bone marrow exchange.

Keith and Delores Douglas made a weekend visit to Ohio to visit their children. They returned Sunday to their home at Aurora.

Elda "Sue" Fike of Mtn. Lake Park, Carolyn Harsh of Eglon, and Cynthia

Bachtel of Horse Shoe Run were Oct. 26-27 visitors with the former's children: Eugene and Ruth Fike at Zanesville, Ohio, Calvin and Barbara Radcliff at Parkersburg, and Bonnie and Alton Lee Currance at Lancaster, Ohio.

Former pastor John Crowe and his wife Linn, Mtn. Lake Park, were given a farewell and commissioning service Sunday night at Oak Park Church of the Brethren. They had served as pastors at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren until the illness of John's parents, Ross and Opal Crowe, required more of his attention and he had resigned. The couple will leave Nov. 19 for Cairo, Egypt, where he will assume pastorate of the Heliopolis Community Church, an international and inter-denominational church. Friends from this area were in attendance at the service.

The Maple Spring Youth, their parents and helpers all join in expressing their appreciation to all who turned out for the buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Nov. 2, and apologize for the delay. "Only as many cakes as griddles have room at one time," reported a member of the group.

On Nov. 1, the Preston County Farm Bureau met at the Union Ambulance squad hall for its annual business meeting and election of officers. Remaining in the president's position is Joe Montgomery, with his wife Becki as secretary. About 25 members and guests were present for the pork roast dinner, the business, the evening's fun, and information. Bill Aiken of Accident spoke to the group and enlivened the evening with his stories of horse ownership.

On Saturday, Stanley Harsh of Amboy was injured. He was reportedly working with his cattle when he was trampled. He was taken to a hospital for treatment, where he was kept overnight and released to return home Sunday, Nov. 3.

Pastor Dave Parker, his wife and daughter have left the Accident (W.Va.) community, where he had served the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church. He will assume a pastorate in Ohio.

International Education Week Slated At Garrett

In observance of International Education Week (Nov. 17-23), special programs of the International Film Festival are being planned at Garrett College, with an event planned for each evening.

Two feature films, Schindler's List and Braveheart, will be shown that week, each preceded by an evening's informal presentation about the historical and cultural environment in which the movie is set. The programs are being sponsored by the college's Global Education Center and are open to the public free of charge.

Opening the week's activities will be a presentation by Tom Abels, instructor at Northern High School, who will share his research on the Holocaust of World War II in Room 314 of the Continuing Education Center on Monday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m. This informative program will lead to the showing of Schindler's List the following evening in the Student Center loft beginning at 7:30 p.m. This film is about a businessman who starts a factory in Poland during the war, witnesses the horrors endured by Jews, and risks his life to save them. Prior to the movie, the Lakers Café will be selling sauerkraut, kielbasa, and German potato salad.

On Wednesday, Nov. 20, the scene will shift to Scotland as Jerry McGee, pipe major of the Garrett College Pipes and Drums, presents the history of the bagpipes, British rule in Scotland and the Scottish culture. Members of the band will demonstrate the pipes while wearing different types of uniforms—formal dress, casual, military and civilian. This program will be given in the auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Braveheart will be shown in the loft in two parts on Thursday, Nov. 21, and Friday, Nov. 22, beginning at 7:30 p.m. each evening. It is the story of a heroic 13th century Scottish warrior, William Wallace, who rallies his countrymen to combat the tyranny of England's King Edward. The Lakers Café will serve a Scottish dinner of meat patties, Celtic stew, and soda bread on Thursday before Part I of the movie.

Reservations should be made for the dinner by calling 301-387-3041. Anyone desiring further information about the International Film Festival may call Darlene Preston, coordinator of the Global Education Center, at 301-387-3010.

Board Of Ed. Meeting Slated

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 12, in the board room located on the third floor of the administrative office building at 40 South Second Street, Oakland.

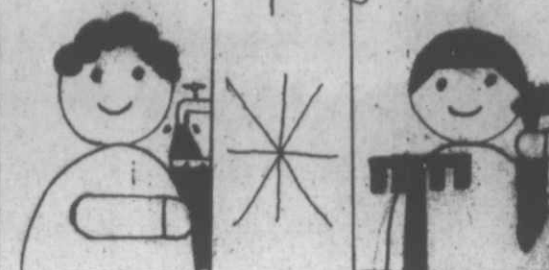

Action items will include a revise Capital Improvement Plan, professional leave requests, a Proclamation of American Education, and personnel matters.

Additional agenda items include recognition of Garrett County's Teacher of the Year, recognition of the operations staff, home and hospital teaching and students records, reports on the Maryland Association of Boards of Education meetings, and a review of the Board of Education goals.

Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The board will meet in closed session from 4:05 to 5:30 p.m., and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter.

* KIDS HELPING KIDS *

ACCIDENT

BEAR CREEK CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

The Bear Creek Church of the Brethren will host the West Marva District Youth Ministry Team on Sunday, Nov. 17, at 10:30 a.m. The service will include dramas, music, and instrumentalists. The church is located along Brethren Church Road, Accident. The public is welcome.

TOWN NEWS

The town is going to sponsor newspaper recycling the first Thursday of every month beginning at 9:30 a.m. Residents are asked to place newspapers, without the advertising inserts, in a plastic bag and place them along the curb.

The next meeting of the mayor and town council will be held this evening, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Accident Town Hall.

NORTH STAR 4-H

The Awards committee for North Star 4-H Club met recently at the home of Rachel, John, and Darlene Schmidt to plan the awards to be given out at the Christmas party to be held Sunday, Dec. 8, at the Accident fire hall. Those present were Bonnie and Kevin Haenfling, Nancy and Kara Savage, Melissa Paugh, and the Schmidts.

The North Star 4-H Club will meet Tuesday, Nov. 12, at the home of Rob and Danielle Moats on the Accident Bittering Road at 6:30 p.m. for a movie and to make tin-can ice cream. Election of officers will also be held at this time. All members need to be present with a parent to complete re-enrollment forms. All baby beef ticket money needs to be turned in at this time, and members should also bring the Operation Christmas Child shoeboxes to the meeting.

ACCIDENT HEAD START

Accident Head Start held a fall fun day recently for the children. Parents came and did various activities with the children, such as cutting up pumpkin and cooking it, making pumpkin cookies, making popsicle and foam picture frames, making bean bags for a bean bag ABC toss game, making handprints with a poem for their parents, decorating cupcakes, and making a springing pumpkin. Those helping were Fran Shugars, Tammy Friend, Jessica Perry, Melissa Smith, Tonya Georg, Ruth Georg, Danielle Moats, Paul McClintock, Mary Green, and Barbara Roy.

ENGINEERING SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AVAILABLE - Northrop Grumman Corporation's Electronic Systems sector, based in Linthicum, recently announced plans to provide nearly a quarter million dollars in college scholarships next year to high school students who plan to study engineering. Posing above with a symbolic check to mark the launch of the Northrop Grumman Engineering Scholars Program, left to right, are Reginald L. Dunn, vice president of the Maryland State Board of Education; Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools; and Robert P. Iorizzo, president of Northrop Grumman's Electronic Systems sector. Individual merit-based scholarships of $10,000 will be awarded early next year by the company to students in each of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. A committee of Northrop Grumman employees will select the scholarship winners. Engineering Scholars application packets may be obtained from the guidance offices at all public and private high schools across the state, according to a company spokesperson.

She is the daughter of Denise Keener, and the granddaughter of Carol Paugh, Leon Paugh, and Joan Jenkins.

St. Paul's Slates Country Barn Dance, Supper

St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, will host a "country-filled" evening on Saturday, Nov. 16, beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the church's fellowship hall.

"It promises to be a foot-stomping, fun time for all ages," said a church spokesperson about the evening.

The event will kick off with supper at 5:30. The menu includes ham, beans, corn bread, cole slaw, beverage, and dessert. The cost is $6 for adults and $2 for children under 5 years.

Following the dinner, barn dance will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. A caller will be on hand to help all

"Building Blocks For Caregivers" Course Slated

"Building Blocks for Caregivers," a joint presentation of the Alzheimer's Association, Greater Maryland Chapter, Western Maryland Region, and the Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission, will be presented in Allegany County on Wednesday, Nov. 20, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at LaVale United Methodist Church, 565 National Highway, LaVale. The workshop is designed to provide people with effective training in non-disease specific basic caregiving skills.

Instructing the classes will be Ellie Booth, R.N., a graduate of Memorial School of Nursing who received her B.S.P.A. from St. Joseph's College, Windham, Maine. She has previously served as a hospice nurse manager and part-time philosophy instructor, and is a parish nurse. In addition to Ms. Booth, there will be guest presenters on various related topics.

"Building Blocks for Caregivers" is a learning opportunity for family members and friends who are or will soon be assisting a person with home health care. Meant for the adult with no previous medical training, the workshop will provide practical information, hands-on practice, and take-home reading materials that address most of the complex issues in home care that must be dealt with, including: preparing the home, home safety, assisting with physical movement, nutrition, maintaining cleanliness and skin care, communication and feelings, managing the medications, personal hygiene and incontinence management,

Wet Conditions Limit Progress

Wet conditions hindered progress for the fourth consecutive week, allowing Maryland farmers only 2.5 days suitable for fieldwork. Farmers have not had a week with more than four suitable days for fieldwork since early October.

While the precipitation is needed to restore subsoil moisture, many areas are experiencing surpluses in topsoil moisture. The cold, damp weather has prevented fields from drying out, making planting and harvesting activities near impossible in soggy fields.

Topsoil rated in surplus supply is 24 percent, an increase of 19 percent from the previous week, and 21 percent from two weeks ago. Topsoil moisture is rated 24 percent in surplus supply, 67 percent adequate, 8 percent short, and 1 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is rated 4 percent surplus, 42 percent adequate, 42 percent short, and 12 percent very short.

Soybean harvest has fallen further behind schedule. Fields have been too wet for harvesting activities to keep up with normal progress. Soybeans are 34 percent harvested, advancing only 2 percent from the previous week, 41 percent behind last year, and 26 percent behind the five-year average. Farmers may be late in planting cover crops meant to follow soybeans if fields don't dry out soon.

Small grain seeding progress was also minimal. Winter wheat planting advanced only 1 percent from the previous week. Wheat is 58 percent planted, 17 percent less than last year, and 12 percent less than the five-year average. Winter wheat condition is rated 9 percent excellent, 59 percent good, 29 percent fair, 2 percent poor, and 1 percent very poor. Barley planting is nearing completion at 95 percent, matching last year, and 2 percent ahead of the average. Barley is rated 15 percent in excellent condition, 64 percent good, 20 percent fair, and 1 percent poor.

Preston FSA Sets Borrower Training Class

A free training course in financial management and recordkeeping has been slated by the USDA Farm Service Agency for 7 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 3, at the White Hall USDA Service Center, located near Fairmont. This program is required for anyone who has received a USDA-FSA direct loan or debt restructuring on their account during the past two years.

"By attending this year's training session, farmers will learn basic accounting, farm financial recordkeeping, and farm production recordkeeping," said Farm Loan manager Douglas Cyphers, who will be presenting the program along with Farm Loan officer Karen McBee. Farmers will be able to prepare information for their taxes and FSA year-end analysis for 2002 and be able to start their 2003 records.

Producers should bring their individual record books, so that the Farm Loan staff will be able to address any questions or problems with records. Refreshments will be served. Reservations are requested, and may be made by calling 800-245-1989, ext. 209.

Assessment Now Being Collected On Horse Feed

The Maryland Horse Industry Board will now collect a $2 per ton assessment on commercial equine feed from manufacturers. Money from the assessment will be used for education, research, and promotional materials and activities to help the state's equine industry.

"The horse industry is very important to Maryland, and the members of the horse board work hard to make people aware of it," said Agriculture Secretary Hagner R. Mister. "The feed assessment will help the board do its work, and it allows horse owners from all disciplines and all breeds to support promotional and research programs fairly."

The assessment was passed by the Maryland General Assembly in 2002. Maryland regulations requiring assessment on commercial feed that is labeled as being intended for equines are in effect as of Nov. 1, 2002.

Manufacturers of equine feed sold in Maryland are subject to the $2 per ton assessment and may pass the fee on to retailers, who may in turn pass it on to buyers. If less than one ton of feed is sold, the assessment will be prorated. For example, on a 50-pound bag of feed, the assessment totals 5 cents. Fees must be paid quarterly to the Maryland Horse Industry Board, which is housed at the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA). Fees collected between Nov. 1 and Dec. 31 are due to the MHIB by Jan. 30, 2003.

of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, all appointed by the governor. The board promotes the development and use of horses in Maryland and supports research related to equine health. The board also oversees licensing and inspection of stables to ensure that certain standards of care are met at public stables in the state.

For further information, persons may call the MHIB at 410-841-5861 or visit its web site.

New Hope for Heart Attack Victims

A heart attack (medical term is myocardial infarction) occurs when blood that supplies the muscles of the heart is cut off or restricted in some manner, starving the heart of needed oxygen. Blood flow can be restricted by clots, vessel wall spasms, or by enlarged or bursting plaques of cholesterol attached to vessel walls. During the heart attack symptoms may include pain in the chest, abdomen, or arms, faintness, sweating, or a heavy pounding of the heart. Some people have only mild symptoms or no symptoms at all.

On the way to the hospital, a heart attack victim may be told to chew an aspirin tablet to enhance survival. Different drugs may be given to slow the heartbeat and make the heart work with less effort. In some cases streptokinase (Streptase) or tissue plasminogen activator (TPA) are given to break up formed clots. Surprising new animal research may decrease the size of a heart attack and damage to heart muscle. In a different study, people given simvastatin in the hospital emergency room seemed to experience fewer complications sometimes seen after heart attacks.

Applications Due For Deficiency Payment Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced that the deadline for Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) applications is Tuesday, Nov. 12, for 2001-crop grains. The 2002 Farm Bill provides special provisions for the 2001-crop year, which extend LDPs to commodities on farms that were not enrolled in Production Flexibility Contracts under the seven-year AMTA Program.

Any farmer who produced corn, oats, wheat, or barley in 2001, and who has not visited the Preston County Farm Service Agency to file for a Loan Deficiency Payment is encouraged to do so as soon as possible. The FSA office is located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, and may also be reached by phone at 304-329-1923.

Deadline Extended For Cover Crops Planting Program

Farmers who have been approved to participate in the Maryland Agricultural Cost-Share (MACS) Winter Crop Program have until this Monday, Nov. 11, to complete seeding, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister has announced. The original Nov. 1 planting deadline was extended because recent rains have prevented farmers from harvesting summer crops and seeding winter cover crops.

"While it is important to get the cover crop seed planted in a timely manner, farmers simply have not been able to get out in the fields because of recent soaking rains," said Secretary Mister. "We want to give farmers every opportunity to get their cover crops in the ground so that excess nutrients are absorbed and do not run off into waterways."

All Nov. 1 cover crop planting dates were extended. Eastern Shore and southern Maryland farmers have until November 11 to plant rye, triticale, and wheat; and farmers in central and western Maryland have until Nov. 11 to plant their rye crop.

In addition to extending the seeding deadline, farmers also will have until Thursday, Nov. 14, to certify seeded acres with their local soil conservation districts.

Established in 1983, MACS provides farmers with financial assistance to install pollution prevention practices, such as cover crops, to protect water quality. The cover crop program reimburses Maryland farmers who plant cover crops such as rye, wheat, barley, spring oats, and triticale (rye/wheat hybrid).

MARKETING ASSISTANCE LOANS AND LOAN DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS FOR WOOL AND MOHAIR

The Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (the 2002 Farm Bill) provides 2002 through 2007 crop year Marketing Assistance Loans and Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs) for wool and mohair to eligible producers who produce and shear wool and mohair from live sheep and goats.

For producers to be eligible for either a Marketing Assistance Loan or an LDP, they must (1) meet the definition of an eligible producer; (2) comply with highly erodible land and wetland provisions; (3) produce and shear eligible wool and mohair; (4) have a beneficial interest in the commodity; and (5) own, other than through a security interest mortgage or lien, the sheep and goats for a period of not less than 30 calendar days prior to shearing.

For wool and mohair to be eligible for loans or LDPs, the wool and mohair must: (1) have been produced and sheared by an eligible producer; (2) be in existence and in shored condition; (3) be of merchantable quality suitable for loan; and (4) be produced and shorn from live animals of domestic origin in the United States.

Wool and mohair producers will be able to apply for certified farm-stored loans, field direct LDPs, and basic LDPs. Producers applying for loans and LDPs for wool must indicate "graded" or "ungraded" as the type of wool on the application.

The final availability date to request a wool or mohair loan or LDP is January 31 of the year following the year in which the wool or mohair is sheared.

Market gains and LDPs received by a wool or mohair producer are subject to one $75,000 payment limitation per crop year for wool, mohair, and honey.

Producers who lost beneficial interest in their 2002 wool or mohair before the publication of the regulations are eligible to receive an LDP. Producers are required to provide acceptable production evidence which indicates the date beneficial interest was lost. In these cases producers must file applications by January 31, 2003.

Eligible producers who lost beneficial interest in their wool and mohair after October 11, 2002, and before November 4, 2002, are eligible to request an LDP based on the date beneficial interest was lost in the commodity. Producers must submit acceptable production evidence with the LDP application. LDP applications fitting this situation must be filed by December 6, 2002.

Following are the national loan rates for the 2002 through 2007 crop year for wool and mohair.

Commodity	Loan Rate
Graded Wool	$1.00 per pound
Ungraded Wool	$0.40 per pound
Mohair	$4.20 per pound

To obtain the graded wool loan rate, the wool must be core tested by a CCC-approved testing facility to objectively measure through laboratory analysis the fiber diameter (micron) and yield.

Marketing loan repayment rates for wool and mohair will be announced weekly by press release on a date to yet be determined.

To file a Loan Deficiency Payment or Marketing Assistance Loan application on 2002 wool or mohair or to obtain further information, persons may visit the Preston County Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or telephone 304-329-1923.

Local Women Attend Vermont Scout Reunion

Four Garrett County women — Carolyn Livengood, Linda Fleming, Rita Savage, and Pat Williamson — attended the Girl Scout Round-Up Reunion which was held in August at Button Bay on Lake Champlain in Ferrisburg, Vt. Each of the women attended one of the original GS Round-Ups.

The Round-Ups were originally held in 1956 at Milford, Mich.; in 1959 at Colorado Springs, Colo.; in 1962 at Button Bay, Vermont; and in 1965 at Farragut Bay, Idaho. During those gatherings Girl Scouts from around the world met to share two weeks of their lives while living together in a camp setting. Swap items, representative of each girl's home area, were exchanged, as were languages and songs. The military provided security for the encampments, but the escalation of the Vietnam War in 1967 led to the demise of the triennial events.

YOU CAN TAKE THE GIRLS OUT OF THE SCOUTS, but you sure can't take Scouting out of the girls. These local residents, shown from the left — Pat Williamson, Linda Fleming, Carolyn Livengood, and Rita Savage — traveled to Vermont in August for a Girl Scout Round-Up Reunion. There were four Girl Scout Round-Ups that took place for girls who were active Scouts at the time, but the events came to a halt in the mid-1960s. Each of the four women were selected to attend one of the original Round-Ups. See story.

Carolyn O'Brien Livengood and Linda Teets Fleming were senior Girl Scouts in Swanton Troop 11 when they were selected to attend the 1959 GS Round-Up. They joined six other girls from the Tri-Towns Lone Troop Association to form the Pot-O-Mac Patrol. Like other Girl Scouts from across the country, they traveled to Colorado on a special Round-Up train, the mode of transportation that carried girls to all four round-ups.

Pat Williamson, who now resides in McHenry, was a senior Girl Scout in Pasadena, Md., when she was selected to attend the 1962 Round-Up.

Rita O'Brien Savage was a member of Swanton Girl Scout Troop 111, part of the Shawnee GS Council, when she was selected to attend the final Round-Up in 1965. All four women continued to be active in Girl Scouting after their Round-Up experiences. They served as scout leaders, trainers, day camp directors, and service unit managers. Today, Rita Savage serves as the leader of the Swanton GS troop of Southwestern Pennsylvania Girl Scout Council, and Pat Williamson serves as a trainer for the same council. Carolyn Livengood and Linda Fleming are lifetime Girl Scout members.

Nat'l MS Society Launches Nov. Letter Campaign

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society recently launched a grass roots letter-writing campaign called Helping Hands.

In the month of November, NMSS members are expected to write more than 1 million letters to family, friends, and neighbors updating them on the latest progress in the fight against multiple sclerosis and asking for their help in finding a cure.

"Those who are personally impacted by the effects of MS are familiar with the unpredictability of the disease," said Lyndi Richards, public relations manager for the National MS Society's Maryland Chapter. "Family and friends are also impacted, and they often express their desire to do something to help. While there are many things people can do to offer support on a day-to-day basis, one of the greatest gifts they can give is to contribute to the Helping Hands Campaign."

Multiple sclerosis attacks the central nervous system, slowly wearing away control over the body. "It generally strikes people between the ages of 20 and 50, when life decisions are being made," said Richards. "That's why we call it 'the prime of life disease.'"

According to Richards, most people know someone who has MS. "You may not know they have MS, because some people try to hide it as long as they can from colleagues and even friends, fearing discrimination," she said. "Chances are they benefit from the services of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, which is often the first place people turn for accurate information and for help adjusting to the disease they will be living with for the rest of their lives."

The MS Society has been helping people with multiple sclerosis for almost 60 years.

Persons receiving letters of support are asked to consider the impact they have on those who are facing life with multiple sclerosis.

Thanksgiving Meal Delivery Help Requested

Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging is seeking volunteers from the community to share a meal from their tables and deliver it to a homebound elderly person on Thanksgiving Day.

"Some of our frail elderly in the community will not be with family and friends on Thanksgiving sharing a turkey dinner," said Glenn Tolbert, Main Street manager.

The Area Agency on Aging will identify the persons in need of a meal and give that name to the volunteer. Persons interested in volunteering may call the agency at 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll free at 888-877-8403.

FUNDS DONATED FOR MS RESEARCH — The Garrett County Multiple Sclerosis Support Group, a once active group which disbanded several years ago, has donated the funds left in its treasury, which were originally donated to the group by Lohr Distributors, American Legion Ladies Auxiliary, and the Oakland Elks Ladies Auxiliary, to the Oakland Elks Lodge staff and the Long Branch Saloon. These two local establishments have participated for many years in the U.G.L.Y. (Understanding, Generous, Lovable, and Young-at-heart) Bartender Contest to raise money to support multiple sclerosis research. This fund-raiser started in 1993, with all proceeds going toward research and creating new medications for MS. Former members of the support group donated the funds to these two establishments because they are taking part in the contest again this year, and the money, which will be added to the national as well as international research efforts, will also give the establishments points toward recognition for their work in the statewide contest. Other establishments that have raised funds in the U.G.L.Y. challenge in the past are Red Run Lodge and the Black Bear Tavern. According to former support group members Bernice Kepple and Judy Smith, the local support group disbanded partly because of the difficulty involved in fitting meetings into their already stressed lives, and the availability of a vast amount of information on the Internet. However, any local person with MS or a family member of caregiver of someone with MS who needs information or support may call Kepple at 301-387-9312, or Smith at 301-533-1037. Because of the money raised for research, there are five new medications to treat symptoms of MS. Lohr Distributors also recently sponsored a Poker Run, and all the proceeds were donated to Long Branch Saloon for their MS fund-raiser. Pictured above, seated from the left, are Smith, Kepple, and Richard Williams of Long Branch Saloon. In the back are Shellie Knotts, manager of the Oakland Elks Lodge; Cathy Lohr of Lohr Distributors; and Rebecca Williams of Long Branch.

Statement Of Maryland Black Bear Task Force

The following statement, addressed to all Maryland citizens, was released this week by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Black Bear Task Force. The statement provides a background of the task force's mission, an overview of the group's 15 recommendations for managing the black bear population, and guidelines for public comment, which will be accepted from Thursday, Nov. 14, to Friday, Dec. 13. The task force will host a public meeting at Garrett College, set for 7 p.m. Nov. 14, that will provide an avenue for citizens to provide input, which will also be accepted via e-mail and regular mail. (Explanatory details appear at the end of the statement.)

MISSION

The Maryland Black Bear Task Force (BBTF) worked for nearly a year to examine past efforts under the 1992 Maryland Black Bear Management Plan, identify important public values to consider for bear management, and provide recommendations to Maryland Department of Natural Resources on the future of black bear management in Maryland.

One of the charges of this task force was to solicit and consider input from individuals and groups that may have disparate opinions on bear management. Please review the Draft Black Bear Task Force Report and Recommendations and share with us your comments. All comments are welcome and will be made part of the public record, except for those that include offensive language or suggest violence toward any person or organization.

In particular, we hope that you will provide comments that speak to the draft recommendations that were produced by the Maryland Black Bear Task Force.

OVERVIEW OF RECOMMENDATIONS

For many recommendations the task force was unanimous, while for others there was significant differences of opinion. The task force decided that a 60-percent majority would be necessary for a recommendation to be included in this draft report. The task force also felt that it was important to communicate significant values and opinions of individual task force members to the Maryland public. Each task force member has been provided the opportunity to provide commentary as part of this report.

- The task force feels that black bears are a valuable natural resource, that efforts should be used to conserve black bear habitat, but bear populations should be maintained at levels compatible with land use and property concerns.

- The most controversial issue addressed by the task force was whether to allow black bear populations to reach biological carrying capacity, or to achieve a specific population objective through appropriate management strategies. "Population management in a given area will impact the occurrence of human/bear problems. Generally as black bear populations increase, human-bear problems increase as bears encounter humans more frequently. Conversely as black bear populations decrease, human/bear problems generally decrease." (Bear Plan, Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, 1991.) Ultimately the task force voted 6 to 4 to recommend "regulated hunting" as a tool to achieve a targeted population objective.

- "Regulated hunting of black bear populations has become a controversial social issue. Perhaps the most contentious issues involve fair chase and the ethics of certain methods of harvest." (Bear Plan, Va. Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, 1991.) The task force has recommended that black bear hunting methods in Maryland be fair and sportsmanlike and conform to the ethics of "fair chase." The following bear hunting techniques should not be permitted: baiting, use of dogs, and spring hunting.

- The task force wants to ensure that bear hunting activities are consistent with and respect the rights of private property owners and other Maryland citizens.

- The task force encourages DNR to provide opportunities for non-hunting recreation associated with bears in Maryland with a focus on information and education designed to minimize negative human/bear interactions.

- Maryland's bear management program should promote human safety, protect agricultural income and personal property, and address conflicts between humans and bears while attaining black bear population objectives. The task force encourages DNR to prioritize black bear education and information programs and to increase its aggressive public education campaign to teach residents and tourists what they can do to minimize conflicts with bears.

- The task force recommends that DNR establish procedures under which individual problem bears are handled. These procedures should categorize bear behavior into that which requires no action to that warranting destruction of an individual bear. These procedures may include non-transferable permits to individuals experiencing ongoing and intolerable damage to kill offending animals in the most humane manner possible.

- The task force recommends that DNR conduct a public attitude survey to determine the perceptions, desires, and attitudes of people in Maryland (including regional variation) concerning black bears and to enable the public to provide input on the bear management program. Public understanding and support are imperative for an effective management plan.

- The task force recommends that DNR use revenue from bear hunting licenses and permits, etc., as a funding source for the bear management program to include bear damage compensation.

- The task force recommends to discontinue the sale of black bear conservation stamps as a revenue-generating program for the bear damage compensation program. The present investment in this program (time, energy, manpower, and materials) appears to be greater than the revenue generated.

- The Task force encourages city and county governments to enact local ordinances to mandate or provide incentives for the use of bear-proof trash containers in residential areas, developments, and tourist areas where bears have become acclimated to trash as a food source.

- The task force encourages DNR to work with public safety agencies to develop an emergency plan to be implemented in the extremely rare event of a black bear attack on a human. Personnel who are first responders to these situations need to be adequately trained and have the proper equipment to dispatch a bear.

- The task force recommends that the state of Maryland provides 100 percent compensation for eligible bear damage claims. The BBTF suggests that DNR submit a request to the General Assembly for a $50,000 annual appropriation from the state's General Fund as a source of funding for bear damage compensation.

- The task force encourages the General Assembly to authorize new avenues of funding that would be directed to the DNR for the purpose of black bear management, research, education, habitat protection, and conflict resolution, such as: (1) a Maryland state lottery game; or (2) speeding ticket fines.

- At the present time hunting license revenues and federal excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition provide the primary funding source for wildlife management in Maryland. In the event that a regulated bear hunting program is not initiated, the task force recommends that DNR change the classification of the black bear from a "game" to a "non-game" species. At the same time hunting license revenues should no longer be used as the primary funding source for bear management.

HOW TO SUBMIT COMMENTS

Written comments about the Black Bear Task Force recommendations will be accepted from Thursday, Nov. 14, to Friday, Dec. 13.

- Comments can be e-mailed to customerservice02dnr.state.md.us. All comments received via e-mail will be posted on the Wildlife and Heritage Division web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/wildlife.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

We need two things: volunteers and donations.

To volunteer as a shopper in Oakland, please contact Linda Thomas at 301-387-6203. To volunteer as a shopper in Northern Garrett County, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen at the newspaper office at 301-334-3963.

THE REPUBLICAN

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before November 20, 2002. Those collected after November 20 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Bear Meeting To Take Place At GC Tonight

A public meeting slated for 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Nov. 14, in the Garrett College auditorium will give local citizens the opportunity to provide input into the Maryland Black Bear Task Force's recommendations for managing the state's bear population numbers. Those wishing to comment tonight must sign up prior to the start of the meeting, must adhere to a stated time limit for verbal comments, and should be prepared to submit written comments.

The group released a 37-page draft report, recently which was summarized in last week's issue of The Republican, and which is currently available from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The task force recommendations included a proposal for a limited bear hunting season in Maryland; the abolishment of the Black Bear Conservation Stamp program, which has failed to meet its mandate of compensating farmers for agricultural damage caused by bears; and provision of 100 percent agricultural damage reimbursement from the state's general fund.

The draft report may be viewed on the Internet at www.dnr.state.md.us, while printed copies may be obtained from the Mt. Nebo Wildlife district office, located along King's Run Road just off Garrett Highway (301-334-4255), or requested via e-mail at customerservice@dnr.state.md.us.

Public comment on the recommendations will be accepted until Friday, Dec. 13. In addition to tonight's meeting, citizens can submit their input via e-mail at the "customerservice" address listed above, or through the U.S. mail to Black Bear Management Plan, P.O. Box 1138, Cumberland, MD 21502.

Following the close of the public comment period, the task force will prepare its final report for forwarding to the secretary of the Department of Natural Resources.

"We are very much interested in what the people of Maryland think about our proposals," said task force chairman Tom Mathews, a retired DNR wildlife biologist who lives in the Cumberland area. "We will digest and consider all public comment and could possi-

DOING THEIR PART TO HONOR VETS - While exploring the character traits of caring and giving, students in Kimberly Paul's pre-kindergarten class at Friendsville Elementary School recently completed a special project that also involved Veterans Day. The children collected several items to be included in a package to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Martinsburg, W.Va. They all went to the Friendsville post office to mail off their special gift. Jan Leverenz, postmaster, is pictured above as she accepts the package from Bethany Meyers and her fellow students. The act of kindness and remembrance was only one of many such observations occurring this week in Garrett County, as several schools and civic organizations took note of Veterans Day and celebrated accordingly. ## One Injured In Structure Fire Near Accident

A visitor at a 2½-story wood-frame house sustained minor burns to his face and hands Sunday evening when a fire gutted that structure, located at 1335 Aiken Miller Road near Accident.

Phillip Reams, who was visiting friends at the house, was transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland, where he was treated and released. An unidentified Deep Creek VFC firefighter was also treated and released at GCMH for exhaustion.

Responding to the 8:27 p.m. incident were volunteers from the Accident, Bittering, Deep Creek, and Grantsville fire departments after Heath Snyder, one of the occupants of the house, discovered the fire in the kitchen and called 911. A spokesperson for the occupants said that the residents and several visitors barely

American Music Concert Set By GC Concert Band

The Garrett Community Concert Band, under the direction of Jerry McGee, will present its fall concert this Saturday, Nov. 16, in the Garrett College auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The concert will be a tribute to American composers and American music.

"The audience will hear a New Orleans jazz funeral, a New York 1927 traffic jam, Broadway show tunes, movie themes, marches, and more," McGee said. "It will truly offer something for everyone."

There is no admission charge for the concert; however, there is a suggested donation of $5 per adult. The concert is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, and a number of local businesses.

The Garrett Community Concert Band consists entirely of volunteer musicians, and McGee said that new members are always

Schools Awarded Monies For Test Improvements

Twelve Garrett County schools were recently honored at the Garrett County Board of Education meeting for achieving significant growth in reading and/or mathematics on the 2001 administration of the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP).

The Maryland State Department of Education will be issuing a check in the amount of $14,462.63 to the board to be divided among the recognized schools. The schools honored were: Accident Elementary for improvement in third grade math, $1,257.62; Bloomington School for eighth grade reading, $628.81; Broad Ford Elementary for third grade reading, $628.81; Dennett Road Elementary for fifth grade reading, $1,257.62; Friendsville Elementary for fifth grade reading, $628.81; Grantsville Elementary for third grade math, $628.81; Kitzmiller Elementary for third grade reading and math, $2,515.24; Northern Middle School for improvement in the functional math test and improvement in special education, $1,257.62; Route 40 Elementary for fifth grade reading and math, $3,144.05; Southern Middle School for improved functional math test and in special education, $628.81;

Over 300 Attend VICA Gathering At Wisp Resort

The Wisp Resort in McHenry was the locale for the first SkillsUSA-VICA fall leadership conference, held Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. A total of 250 students and 63 advisors from throughout the state of Maryland participated in the event, which was held to help student office-holders sharpen their leadership skills.

The skills were taught in "round robin" sessions with titles such as Balance In Life, Committees, Communications, Teamwork, Alumni, and the History of Maryland. Attendance at these sessions was mandatory for members to qualify to receive statesman pins.

Questions concerning the organization also had to be answered for candidates to be eligible to earn degrees. Among those attending were Southern High School students Brittini Brown, Alasha Rush, and Meghan Kelly.

Students who earned the statesman degree at previous conferences had the opportunity to qualify for the advanced statesman degree. They attended sessions for the two days in which they learned about business meetings, meeting agendas, parliamentary procedure according to Robert's Rules of Order, and job applications. They also received guidance on participating in an interview.

Various other activities were planned for the conference, such as a chair lift ride and tour of Swallow Falls, but these events had to be cancelled because of the icy weather conditions.

In addition to the workshop sessions, participants attended an opening ceremony, a buffet dinner with keynote speaker Charlie Ross from the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, a dance featuring DJ Mark Stevens, and a breakfast meeting. The conference culminated in an awards ceremony, during which the pins and certificates were presented to the students.

Commissioners Sign Emergency Aid Compact

The Garrett County commissioners last week signed the Maryland Emergency Management Assistance Compact. Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, described the agreement as a key tool in fighting disasters and recovering from them.

The compact will help counties develop their own risk-management plans and allow them to form partnerships with neighboring jurisdictions — both inside and outside the state — during emergency situations.

Locally, several mutual-aid agreements already exist. For example, Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va., volunteer fire departments assist each other. Grantsville and Salisbury, Pa., fire departments also help each other. Frantz said the compact will help extend this type of cooperation.

The state asked all counties to sign off on the agreement, with Allegany County being the first to sign.

Frantz stressed, however, that the agreement was strictly voluntary. The county would provide only as much assistance as it could spare.

For example, if Baltimore City asked for six fire trucks and the county could only spare three, then that is all that would be sent to the emergency situation.

Final Election Numbers To Be Talled Friday

The final results of the general election, held on Nov. 5, will be tallied tomorrow, according to a spokesperson from the Garrett County Board of Elections. This count includes the ballots from overseas, as well as some absenteees.

While officials do not expect any changes in the local elections with this final count, other statewide races may be affected as the final counts take place in neighboring counties. Speaker of the House Casper Taylor Jr. has asked for a recount of the ballots in his race against LeRoy Myers Jr. Myers defeated the incumbent Taylor by a slim margin.

The results of two local write-in campaigns have been released by the election board. Wendell Beitzel, an incumbent commissioner who lost his re-election bid in the primary, received a total of 1,079 write-in votes.

George Falter, a second write-in candidate, was given 83 votes.

RUNNIN' RAMS WIN SILVER - The members of the Southern High School girls' cross country team returned home Saturday toting silver medals from the 2002 Maryland State Championships, hosted by Herford High School, as the Runnin' Rams finished second only to Williamsport in the 1A race. Two members of the team, Melissa Durst and Natalie Domenick, retained their All-State status by finishing among the top 15 of the 80 runners in the competition. Pictured from left, front, are: Mandi Stahl, Lisa Wade, and Elizabeth Thayer. In the second row are: Natalie Domenick, Stephanie DiSimone, and Sarah Cosner. Standing are Melissa Durst and Emily Cosner. It was the final year of coaching for Ram mentor Louis Newcomb, whose teams garnered two state championships and three runner-up trophies. ## Garrett County Fair Board Says "Yes" To Exhibit Hall

The Garrett County Fair Board voted this week in favor of having the proposed county exhibit hall on its McHenry fairground property.

County agriculture marketing specialist Cheryl DeBerry, the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, Garrett County commissioners, and fair board members have been discussing the issue for several months.

The involved parties met Tuesday evening at the commissioners' office to work out outstanding issues and to finally decide if the board members wanted the exhibit hall on their property.

Economic Development director Jim Hinebaugh told board members that a minimum of $2 million in grant money was lined up for the project. He added, however, that his office was under pressure now by the funders to show that some progress was being made on the project. If not, the county could lose the funding.

"The first sign of progress is coming up with a location," he said. The fairgrounds is considered the best location for the hall by county officials because of its connection to the agricultural community, central location in the county, nearness to hotels and restaurants, and visibility from and easy access to U.S. Rt. 219.

"We want to do something that enhances the fairgrounds, the county, and the agricultural community," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel. "We can work out the details later."

Commissioner Fred Holliday pointed out that if the county had to purchase property elsewhere, less money would be available for the facility, which would greatly diminish the scope of the project.

DeBerry presented board members with a draft of the exhibit hall proposal that addressed some of the concerns that board members had voiced since the idea was first proposed to them. Below are some of the 13 points in that draft:

"The fair board may own the building, if this arrangement is acceptable to the funding agencies. If it is not possible, a 99-year lease will be granted."

"The county will operate and manage the hall."

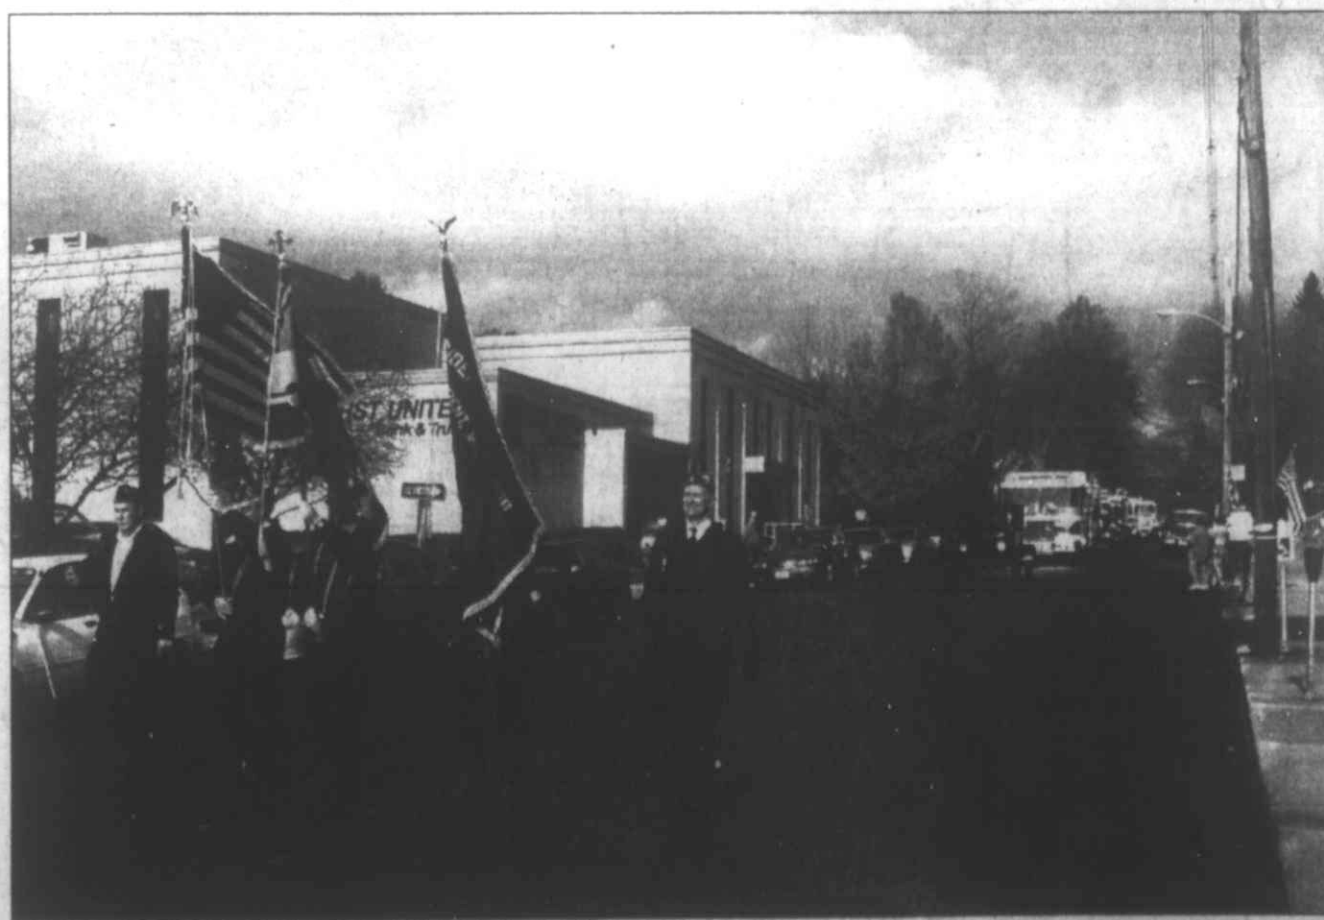

"The county will pay hall

DECADES HAVE PASSED since a Veterans Day parade has been held in Oakland to celebrate and honor the sacrifices made by the men and women of the United States military. Perhaps the event may now become a tradition, with its beginning taking place this past Sunday. Several units were included in the afternoon parade, and although this picture does not show it, a fair number of spectators came out to watch. The Stars and Stripes billowed in the breezes, and the sun shone. Following the parade, spectators moved on to Southern Middle School for a variety show to continue the celebration of the country's veterans. ## Juvenile Jailed After Allegedly Firing Shotgun

A 17-year-old New Germany Road youth was arrested by Maryland State Police troopers Tuesday night after he allegedly fired two rounds of buckshot at neighbors during a dispute. No one was injured in the 10 p.m. incident, which resulted in charges of first-degree assault, reckless endangerment, and disturbing the peace being filed against the suspect. The unidentified juvenile was later released from the Garrett County Jail after posting a $25,000 bond.

Responding to the scene were Trooper K. Whitaker, and Tics. M DeValk and D. L. Delauter. No further information was available from the MSP.

Blaze Ravages Mobile Homes At Swallow Falls

The cause of a fire that resulted in an estimated $30,000 damage to a pair of connected mobile home trailers near Swallow Falls Sunday evening remains under investigation, according to a report from the office of the Maryland state fire marshal.

Volunteers from the Oakland, Deep Creek, Gorman, Terra Alta, Deer Park, and Bayard fire departments were summoned to the 300 block of Sines Cemetery Road near Swallow Falls State Park at 7:10 p.m. after a neighbor reported seeing smoke coming from the pair of 12'x48' trailers that were used as hunting cabins.

The structures were owned by James Hanes, who was evidently not present at the time of the fire. Some 50 firefighters brought the blaze under control in about 30 minutes. Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

VICA DONATES TO WARM THE CHILDREN - Over 300 students and advisors involved in Maryland's VICA program gathered at Wisp Resort recently for the first SkillsUSA-VICA fall leadership conference. The purpose of the conference was to help teach leadership skills to the state's student office-holders. One of the main efforts of SkillsUSA-VICA is to be very involved in community projects and to be aware of community needs. To that end, students from the Southern Garrett High School chapter of SkillsUSA-VICA collected money at the conference to donate to the Warm the Children campaign sponsored by The Republican newspaper. A total of $200 was collected. Pictured above at the check presentation, from left, are Mary McEwen, director of Warm the Children, and SHS VICA members Britni Brown and Meghan Kelly. Both Brown and Kelly earned statesmen degrees at the conference. Also attending from Southern was Alasha Rush. See story for more details.

Burning Of Leaves Is Prohibited; Compost, Landfill Options Suggested

The Garrett County Environmental Health Office reminds homeowners that Maryland air quality regulations prohibit burning of leaves in areas where collection is available. Burning sometimes seems to be the easiest solution for disposal, but is becoming more and more unacceptable because of air quality concerns and adverse health effects from air pollutants, according to an office spokesperson. The smoke from burning leaves contains high concentrations of hydrocarbons, particulate matter, carbon monoxide, and nitrogen oxides.

Pollutants resulting from leaf burning can greatly aggravate the condition of persons suffering from respiratory disorders such as asthma, bronchitis, and emphysema, and can cause eye and nose irritations, fever, coughing, and cramps in a healthy person, the spokesperson said. Additionally, the pollutants in leaf smoke can cause house paint to deteriorate, injure plants and shrubbery, and generally deteriorate air quality. Residents in areas where there are too many leaves to be collected or where no collection is available should investigate using leaves for mulching, erosion control, and compost piles. It may also be possible to use mechanical shredding equipment or lawn mowers to chop up the leaves. This process returns needed nutrients to the soil, while efficiently eliminating the leaves.

Composting is a method that is gaining in popularity and can be easily started in one's back yard by enclosing growth and save soil moisture. To obtain more information on leaf composting, persons may call the Cooperative Extension Service (301-334-7760) or Environmental Health Services (301-334-6960).

Hauling leaves to the landfill would be preferable to burning, the spokesperson said. The Garrett County landfill will accept leaves from county homeowners for a fee of a penny and a half per pound ($1.50 for 100 lbs.). If the leaves are bagged, they must be emptied at the landfill site. The Mellott farm in the Swallow Falls area will also accept leaves free of charge. If bagged, they must be dumped. They will sell the finished, composted leaf mulch for $12/cubic yard or $2/bag (~40 lbs.). Once the leaves break down, a rich organic matter similar to peat moss is achieved which can provide excellent mulch and fertilizer. For more details, the Mellotts may be reached at 301-387-6815.

Most municipalities within Garrett County have some type of leaf collection plan this fall. The collection schedules may vary depending on availability of equipment and when most of the foliage has dropped. Persons are encouraged to contact their town hall for details. If leaf burning is conducted within town limits where leaf collection is available, a notice of violation may be issued which could result in a fine.

Should collection be unavailable and other means of leaf disposal be ineffective, leaves originating on the premises may be burned by householders as a last resort. The fire may not be closer than 200 feet of the nearest neighboring residence and not create a nuisance. Since the health department does not condone the burning of leaves because of the negative impact to air quality, burning permits will not be issued.

Additionally, DNR regulations require that burning be conducted between the hours of 4 p.m. and midnight (E.S.T.) if the burning location is in a wooded area or within 200 feet of a wooded area. A 10-foot wide fire break must surround the fire, and a responsible person should remain on the scene until it is completely extinguished. It is also important to contact the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management at 301-334-1929 prior to burning of leaves.

Woman Slightly Injured In Single-Vehicle Mishap

A Grantsville woman sustained minor injuries when her sedan went out of control on an ice-covered section of Bittering Road Friday evening, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barracks.

Heather Nicole Broadwater, 18, was traveling south at approximately 5:53 p.m. when her 2000 Chevrolet Cavalier started sliding. The car struck the east side guard rail, then went across the road and into the ditch off the west shoulder.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Broadwater to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

No charges were filed by the state police.

Northern Band Ends Successful Marching Season

The Northern High School Marching Band, under the direction of Bill Robinson, concluded another highly successful field show competition season by participating in the nine-state Tournament of Bands Atlantic Coast Championships on Sunday at Scranton, Pa. Only the top 25 bands in that nine-state area earn an invitation to compete in the ACC tournament.

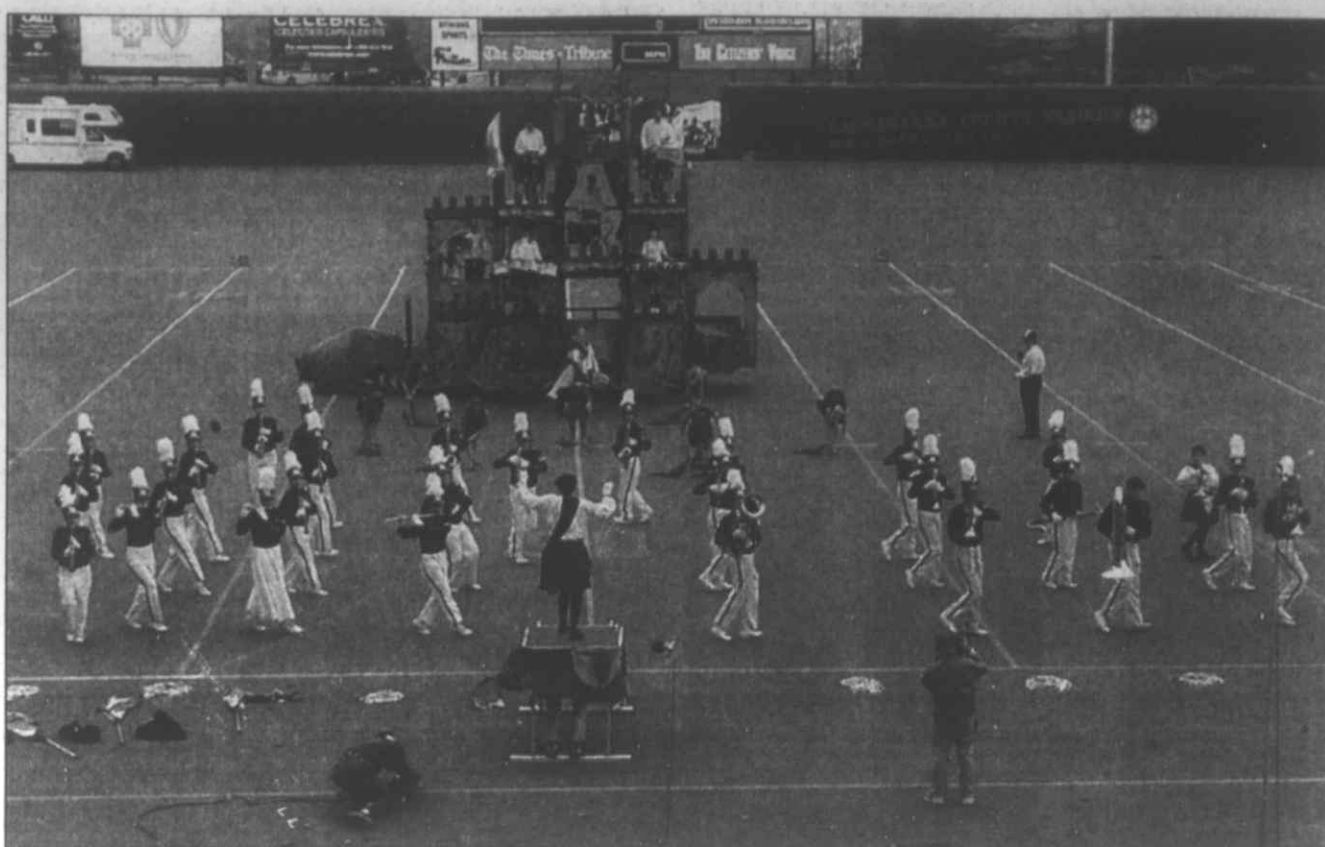

The band finished 15th in the Group I division of the championships, held at Lackawanna Stadium, an accomplishment that pleased Robinson since his band was able to practice only one day in the two weeks prior to the event because of weather conditions.

"These kids just never cease to amaze me," Robinson said. "We had to go to Scranton with just one day of practice outside, and they gave their best performance of the season. I'm very proud of them."

Northern had numerous outstanding performances during the regular season, in which they captured seven first places, one second, and two third in Group I competition. They also earned an unprecedented 12th Chapter 13 TOB title out of the past 14 seasons, a record few other bands in any division have matched.

"It's only through the hard work and talent of our band students, and the support of their parents, that such success can be achieved and maintained," Robinson said.

This year's show was titled "A Wee Bit of Irish," and featured traditional Irish songs, as well as tunes from River Dance. The show was characterized by numerous judges as "one of the most entertaining shows presented by a Group I band," as well as "one of the most difficult." Throughout the season the band's wood-

NHS BAND ENDS SEASON AT SCRANTON - Another highly successful field show competition season for the Northern High School Marching Band was concluded Sunday in Scranton, Pa., where the band placed 15th in the prestigious Atlantic Coast Championships of the Tournament of Bands, an event to which only the top 25 bands in a nine-state area are invited. Despite having only one practice in the two weeks prior to the championships because of weather conditions, the band had its best performance of the season, according to director Bill Robinson, and placed 15th. In the regular season the band earned seven first places in 10 competitions, including its 12th Chapter 13 championship in the past 14 years. The photo above was taken Sunday during the band's performance in the ACC tournament, held at Lackawanna Stadium in Scranton. Pictured below with Robinson (the guy with the beard) are the seniors who concluded their personal field show careers as members of the NHS band. Kneeling in front is Amanda Friend. FEMA, totaling $1,768,944.

Fire departments from across the country submit proposals for federal funding through FEMA's Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program. Fire departments can apply for money for training, firefighting equipment, protective gear, fire prevention programs, and firefighting vehicles.

According to Mikulski's office, FEMA received more than 19,500 applications this year, totaling $2.2 billion in requests. FEMA expects to award 5,500 grants this year, through $360 million appropriated in FY 2002 in the Veterans, Housing, and Independent Agencies (VA-HUD) Appropriations Bill. Mikulski chairs the VA-HUD Appropriations Subcommittee, which funds FEMA and its Firefighter Grant Program.

School Bus, Van Collide In Grantsville

Maryland State Police troopers reported this morning that a Garrett County school bus was involved in a two-vehicle accident in Grantsville. No one was injured on the loaded bus, which was filled with students being transported to the Northern Middle and Northern High School complex in the Cove area.

The 8:21 a.m. collision between the bus and a van occurred on Grant Street, shortly after the bus had departed from a boarding site at Grantsville Elementary School. An occupant of the van was injured in the mishap, and was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. That individual's identity and medical treatment status was not available from state police troopers, who were continuing to investigate the accident as of this writing.

Emergency services personnel from the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office assisted at the scene, and personnel from the Garrett County Board of Education responded as well.

Further details will appear in next week's issue.

WINS SKI PASS - The Northern High School Husky Marching Band recently raffled off an unlimited 2002-03 season ski pass to the Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort. Larry Nesline, above left, of Bittinger was the winner. Devon Harman, right, is the NHS band member who sold him the ticket. The pass was donated for the raffle by the Wisp Ski Resort to support the band's many activities.

Robinson noted that the leadership of the senior members is also crucial to the band's success. Those seniors are Amanda Friend, Erin Smith, Dallas Miller, Autumn Kitchen, Sophia Holtschneider, Lindsay Swearman, Elizabeth Rogers, Katie Garlitz, Beth Long, and Ben Winter.

"The NHS Band seniors will be continuing their education in a wide variety of endeavors, ranging from child care to engineering, and in all cases will be able to use many skills that they have learned by participat-

Bloomington VFD Receives FEMA Grant

Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department will receive a $29,889 grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). The announcement was made last week by U.S. Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes and Congressman Roscoe Bartlett.

The Maryland State Firemen's Association previously awarded a partial $157,100 grant to the department to purchase a new tanker truck. With the FEMA grant, the department will be able to purchase equipment for that truck which will enable it to meet National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) standards.

The new equipment will include hoses, nozzles, a hydrant valve, a vehicle-mounted generator, and six 45-minute Self-Contained Breathing Apparatus (SCBA) systems.

The FEMA and Maryland State Firemen's Association grant applications were written by Cathy Bever of the Bloomington VFD.

Bever said the department is expected to receive delivery on the new 6-passenger tanker truck on Dec. 20. The Bloomington VFD contributed $80,000, while the county allocated $5,000 for the tanker. Additional fund-raisers will be held to pay for the remaining tanker's cost, said Bever.

So far this year, 25 Maryland fire departments, including Oakland's, have received funding from

It's a Win-Win...

Among the truly good news in today's issue of this newspaper is the announcement that the Garrett County Fair Board this week voted in favor of allowing the county to construct a $2 million exhibit hall on the county fairgrounds in McHenry. Convincing the majority of board members that this is a great idea has been a long, tedious process, but we believe they will look back on it in the relatively near future and realize that it was one of the best decisions they ever made.

This 50,000-square-foot structure will be a fantastic addition, not only to the annual Garrett County Fair, but also as an enhancement of the local economy, as it will provide a centrally located, public space to house a wide variety of events, shows, conventions, and other functions. Such a space currently does not exist in the county. Every event held at the new facility will potentially generate new revenue, from which many local businesses and their employees will benefit.

The deal offered to the fair board by the county commissioners and economic development director Jim Hinebaugh is not only fair, but also quite generous, one that we believe could hardly be refused by the fair board. The county will arrange for the funding and design of the building, take responsibility of managing and maintaining it, give free use of it to the fair board during fair week and for 12 other days throughout the year, and, for the icing on the cake, pay the board $7,500 per year as compensation. It's a win-win arrangement.

We understand the concerns of the members of the fair board who were reluctant to vote in favor of the project. They had many good questions about things such as insurance, ownership, lease agreement, scheduling, exact location, and how the building's presence would affect the fairgrounds in general. Protection of the fair and fair property is their charge as board members. Most of the concerns, however, have been addressed, and any remaining ones will be, before a memorandum of understanding between the county and the fair board is drafted. But at least the board has given its go-ahead, which will prevent the loss of the government funding that will be needed for the project.

This represents major change, and change is difficult for most of us. But we are pleased that the members of the fair board have demonstrated the courage to take this huge step and the vision that it will ultimately be in their, as well as the community's, best interest. Likewise, appreciation is due the commissioners and John Hinebaugh for pushing this project to fruition.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to publicly commend the Allegheny Power crews for the superb job they did during the recent surprise ice storm. Most of us have no idea how adverse the conditions were under which they had to work.

My job requires me to travel throughout Garrett and Allegany counties. The devastation and damage created by the storm is unbelievable.

While many of us were inconvenienced by not having electricity for several days, others had to wait longer. However, the Allegheny Power employees, county and state road employees, and volunteers worked very long days and nights in the clean-up and power restoration efforts.

In closing, I would like to express my appreciation to all involved.

To the Editor:

There have been many times through the years during my "Republican Night" reading that I have commented, "I have to write a letter to the editor about that issue." Whether a negative or positive concern, I never took the time.

But after reading my copy of Garrett County: At Home And At War, I just had to express my heartfelt thanks and congratulations to the students, faculty, family of Mr. Matt Novak, and all who helped in any way make this book a beautiful gift to the people of Garrett County. I cried and laughed at many of the heart-wrenching stories.

Though my father-in-law Elbert Riley had passed away a few years before this project was even started, we were very pleased that his picture was chosen for this book. Dad Riley was very proud of his years in the Navy, though he commented often he really felt while serving he would never get to come home to his family again. We were certainly blessed that he was one of the lucky ones.

With my husband Craig being a Vietnam veteran, his father a World War II veteran, his grandfather a World War I veteran, his great-grandfather serving during the Spanish-American War, my son-in-law having served with the Air Force, and my son with the Navy, we are very proud of our military and its history. I pray that our grandchildren will feel it an honor to serve their country in some capacity in their future.

To all the men and women who took the time to share their stories with us, we thank you from the bottom of our hearts. May God bless all of you.

Most sincerely,

Linda Shank Riley

P.S. A special thanks to Mr. Wayne Johnson, who many years ago gave it his all in our history class teaching us how important it was for us to learn and appreciate those men who came first and fought on our soil for freedom. God bless America.

To the Editor:

The election is over, but who really lost? Once again, the people lost. Or should I say they, once again, gave up their right to sovereignty.

Looking closely at the Republi-crats—the extant party that really gives the electorate little (or no) choice—and carefully examining the two components of that single party, it becomes painfully clear that once again, "money" won.

No, not campaign finances; what I am talking about is members of both components of the Republi-Crat Party selling out to moneyed interests. Example: Both gubernatorial candidates in Maryland came out in support of the Adventure Sports Center here in Garrett County. The fact that Maryland is facing a $2 billion deficit notwithstanding, neither candidate offered a clear solution to the problems of the working poor, the unemployed, or the disenfranchised. They tossed footballs, changed diapers, and smiled a lot; two members of the same fraternity (sorority?) vying for office. Truth be told, Ehrlich had the better smile.

The press, as usual, went along with the program and either ignored the real issues or gave tacit approval to the status quo, e.g., government by corporate fiat. Even "derelict in their duty" gives the press undeserved credit because implicit in the statement is that there is a recognized duty, a foreign concept to most in the field. Smudged or darkened pictures, buried (or nonexistent) news stories, slanted coverage was their contribution. Mediocrity would be a step up for them.

Does it really matter who has control of Congress when both components of the Republi-Crat Party support the invasion of a country (Iraq) that has not threatened or attacked the U.S.? A country whose supply of weapons of mass destruction (bio-chemical agents, anthrax, missiles,

HOSPICE IS LOVE

By Sally Schwing

November is National Hospice Month, and very soon Hospice of Garrett County will have been in existence for 20 years. I attended an informational meeting on hospice in the summer of 1982 at the college in McHenry. It was very informative and emotional for me, for I felt in my heart that our family would soon be needing hospice services. This did come to pass in February 1983 when we entered our 16-year-old son. His neurosurgeon thought that he was a perfect candidate for the new hospice program.

In the beginning, there was a part-time director who was also the only part-time nurse. There were no directives, and the only paper we signed was a "no-code" form. Equipment was pretty much non-existent. Someone did bring an old metal hospital bed, which only fit in the living room and was stuck in the high position. Needless to say, one afternoon's use of that bed was all we needed.

County health nurses stopped in, as did volunteers. When injections were required, I was given a 10-minute crash course. When IVs were needed, my family physician came from Meyersdale (Pa.), and I received another 10-minute crash course in irrigating two locks. I was told to count so many seconds to use up the syringe. These types of medicines were uncommon in the home setting back then, and my husband had to go looking for them — sometimes in nursing homes.

But still I found hospice to be the ideal setting for giving unconditional love. We all learned together, and Christopher was the first patient to die in Hospice of Garrett County. My good volunteer angel and nurse was there with me. I only recently learned that Christopher was also the first patient in the local program.

Last spring I once again called on Hospice of Garrett County. My mother needed the services in my home. I knew changes and progress had come in 20 years, but I was unprepared for all of the advances. When I drove Mother into the driveway, our first angel (Mr. Ferguson) was waiting with a truck filled with supplies. He drove a wheelchair up to the car door and assisted me in getting Mother into the house. He assembled the wonderful hospital bed. Nurses and volunteers arrived and sorted the bedding, hospital gowns, and other supplies. I signed many forms. Hospice purchased all the medicines and delivered them to our home. My own store list was checked and another angel nurse said, "We've got this, we've got that," etc., all the way down to the drinking straws! The "settling-in" went so smoothly that the second day Mother was here, she said, "I don't know who made the arrangements for this facility, but they made a wonderful choice." Nothing could have pleased me more.

The nurses, the nursing assistant, and the man who delivered the oxygen services were all tops. I think that in both of our situations, we entered the program early enough to benefit from the entire hospice team. Equipment and meds have advanced so much with IV's, drops, and under-the-tongue meds, and the constant contact with the doctors. I was amazed with everyone's knowledge.

Mother's Day was my best ever with my mother. I just sat with her all day, holding her hand and telling her that I loved her. After Mother died, volunteers arrived, helped clean up, and within hours Mr. Ferguson arrived with Tom Browning to retrieve all of the supplies. The oxygen angel arrived, and in a short while, my "facility" once again became just another bedroom.

Hospice's plan is to make the patient's last part of life a quality time of life. I have no regrets with my two hospice experiences. I feel good and content inside just writing the word, because hospice is love.

technological war materiel) came from us in the first place? A country that, logistically, couldn't attack the U.S. even if it wanted to? Does it matter that our one-party government still hasn't learned the lessons that should have been learned from all past wars? Does it matter that there may be another, more reasonable way to gain access to the 10% of the world's oil reserves that Iraq controls?

We'll likely get our war, we may even gain control of a few oil fields, we'll likely get gambling casinos, we'll likely get a wider gap between the haves and have-nots, but at what cost? Young men and women will lose their lives, working poor people will succumb to the lure of a quick fix (the big gambling payoff) to their problems, and hate between the classes will increase along with inevitable, escalating violent confrontations and clashes.

Senior citizens' concerns, along with those of our young people, will again be lost in the shuffle as government continues to make the same mistakes; because the impetus, instead of principles, is money.

It wouldn't take much to change this situation. First, re-establishment of a real two-party system is a must. Second, open government, especially at the local level, is imperative. And finally, old-fashioned town meetings (local, state, and federal), wherein important issues are discussed by the people before any government action is taken. And, of course, underlying all of the above is the supposition that we get back to the basic ideas that the founding fathers had for us: freedom of course; but more important that fairness and justice reign supreme.

If we don't do something soon, we the people will once again lose—ultimately, all of us!

George Falter Jr.

McHenry

To the Editor:

Before the election I received a mailing from a pro-choice organization urging me to vote Democratic. Along with their usual pitch there were two things that struck me. For one thing, it sounded as if the reason they wanted to get Democrats elected is that the party is pro-choice, ignoring all other issues. I don't think people should be single-issue voters. The other thing was a veiled implication that all right-thinking people are pro-choice, and any who are not, have some degree of mental incompetence! This letter is to offer some cogent, mentally sound reasons why pro-lifers think as they do.

It is indisputable scientific fact that the product of human conception is both alive (because it is growing and developing) and human (not a monkey or an elephant) from the instant of fertilization. In that instant it receives its own unique, irreplaceable DNA, sex, and programming for a complete human life; the deciduous teeth, the onset of puberty, adulthood, and senility. It does not become alive and human at some point in gestation. To argue otherwise is sheer rationalization.

Abortion is a highly money-making industry, for both the abortion providers and the stem cell researchers. (There are other sources for stem cells.) Therefore they want to keep the abortions coming. They and the highly vocal pro-choicers market the procedure under the propaganda slogan "A woman's right to choose."

Maybe I am inadequately informed, but as I see it the pro-choicers' arguments are only (secondarily!) neatly solving the problem for the poor, unfortunate mother, yes, but primarily their fanatical conviction, blinding them to anything else, that a woman has the right to use her reproductive function as she chooses. On that, I couldn't agree more! She has the right not to get pregnant in the first place. But once she is pregnant there is another human being to consider. With every abortion a defenseless human being dies.

The pro-choicers love to point out that no unwanted child should have to be born. Right again! But with thousands of childless couples aching to adopt an infant, somebody wants every "unwanted" baby. They hate to see babies wasted. There are no unwanted babies, only unwanted pregnancies.

The abortion solution is really not so neat after all. Some clinics callously throw dead fetal body parts into open dumpsters behind the clinic, in full view of passers-by. I read the grim account of one man who had seen this.

No, it is not so neat. The pro-choicers do not want it

"I'M NOT AS PANICKY ASTH-MA IS,"

SAYS MICHAEL

By Mary Sincell McEwen

First off, let me say that asthma is nothing to make light of, I know that. My youngest is beset with the affliction, and he had a horrendous attack over the weekend. After several nearly sleepless nights and a few moments of dire distress, I'm not about to make light of it, trust me. But in my usual attempt to connect with other parents out there, I have to write about the plight of a panicky mother and her wheezy son.

I used to be an EMT, way back when, and I was pretty good at it, I think. I didn't totally panic on calls. I could look at open fractures and bandage up bloody cuts as calmly as the next eager volunteer. But having children has altered my mind — in so many ways. One of these alterations is my struggle to refrain from terror when any one of my three boys is hurt or seriously ill. I can still rely on my EMT training to assess a situation, but that training didn't include any workshops on being the parent of the victim. It was also just some Joe out there on the street who fell down a manhole or got food poisoning or something. It was just his body that needed emergency care and it was sort of a challenge to be able to provide that care until we could cart him off to the ER. It was exciting and fulfilling. When things happen to your own flesh and blood — the kids you actually brought into this world after months of largeness and hours of labor, the kids you bathe and feed and love — well, that's just way different. It's not so much fulfilling as it is completely nauseating.

Michael has had respiratory troubles since he was a baby. Croup, allergies, asthma — all that stuff. So when he starts to cough, I get tense. "Are you tight?" I ask him. "Nah," he says, running off like he can breathe or something. But when the coughing keeps up, especially into the night, I know we're headed for trouble. So it begins. I lie awake, listening to my kid sleep. "Is that a bad cough?" I wonder. "Or am I just panicking?" So I go check on him. Think, think, think. Standing in the dark, listening to my kid breathe. This last time was not hard to figure out. We were at the ER at 4:30 in the morning for breathing treatments.

After a day of doctor visits, breathing treatments, oxygen saturation checks, and all that, I was finally at home with my croupy boy. The first night was horrendous, but thankfully my kind doctor had arranged for me to have a nebulizer at home, so I became the breathing treatment master. Very handy. The second night went much more smoothly, but here comes the pesky part of being a panicky mom, and I know you mummies out there can relate to this:

I lie in bed, awake. I'm desperately tired because of two nights without much sleep, but I have to listen. Michael coughs once, twice. I get up and look at him. My old EMT training kicks in: respirations? Not too fast, not terribly shallow. Lips are not blue, thank God. Okay, back to bed. He's quiet. Yay. I start to relax. So tired. The flannel sheets are so soft and warm, the cat is curled up next to me. . . ahh. But then the voice comes into my head. That little tiny voice. "But why is he quiet? Could it be that he is not coughing because . . . he is not breathing?" So I get up, my heart pounding despite the admonitions from the rational part of my brain telling me I'm just being panicky. I go look at him. He's sleeping. Just lying there sleeping like a kid should. Stupid little voice. But does it ever let me go soundly and completely to Sleepy Town? Nah. I get to that upper crust of snoozing, that place where dreams are big and clowny, with loud people and ridiculous dilemmas (like the time I dreamed I was supposed to get on a bus for a band trip, but I had roller skates on and I kept rolling backwards every time I got to the bus door). No, until Michael is really breathing well, I don't sleep much. And boy, do I get crabby.

But through it all, Michael stays cheerful, generally. Only at the worst moments of the illness this weekend did he complain. Otherwise, he smiles at me and wheezily tells me he loves me. We curl up on the couch at 4:30 a.m. and watch Harry Potter for the 82nd time. It's not so bad. Way better than the clowny dreams, for sure. And heck, all three boys could have this stuff. And we could live 100 miles from the hospital. And we might not have such good doctors like Karl Schwalm and Jeremy Drelich, or such a great ER. And I could be only two feet tall. Trying to reach a can opener on the top shelf. To open a can of food for my pet wombat. Uh-oh. The clowny dreams are starting. I seriously need a nap.

known how many post-abortion girls/women have terrible regrets later — sometimes years later — severe enough to dominate their minds, wrecking their mental and emotional health. Nothing can be done for them except counseling, support groups, Project Rachel, and the like. Do you know what Project Rachel is, and why it is called that? (The Bible tells of the unbearable grief of mothers after Herod slaughtered all the babies in an attempt to get rid of the Christ child! . . . Rachel weeping for her children, refusing to be comforted, because they are no more." Matt. 2:16-18, New King James). Project Rachel is widespread enough to have a national website: www.projectrachel.org, and a phone number 888-456-HOPE.

I believe that if the pro-choicers would concentrate as much of their efforts into preventing unwanted pregnancies as they do into their pro-abortion campaigning, they would do the whole country in general, and women in particular, a much greater service.

A Swanton man is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center for numerous charges after Garrett County sheriff's deputies had to use a non-lethal Cap Stun spray on him before an arrest was made late Wednesday night.

Deputies had responded to a residence along Swanton Road for an overdose patient, Todd Allen Tasker, 21. After a confrontation resulting in the deputies using the spray, Tasker was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for an emergency evaluation.

After his release from the hospital, Tasker was taken into custody and charged with four counts of assault, two counts of disorderly conduct, and one count of failure to obey a lawful order.

He is being held on $10,000 bond, police said. Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

expenses, including: utilities, maintenance operation, plowing, insurance, etc.

"The county will obtain funding for the design and construction of the hall."

"All events currently held at the fairgrounds will continue to be held on those dates at the discretion of the fair board."

"The county will pay the board $7,500 per year to compensate for use of the facilities."

"In addition to fair week, the board will get 12 days during the year for free use of the building."

"All proceeds from the building will go into a fund to operate and maintain it."

Some of the additional issues that board members voiced Tuesday evening were the location of the hall, the size and security of the board's office in the hall, the hall's rental fee, insurance, scheduling conflicts, admission fees, and the hall's profitability.

"If we're going to give up space and use of the fairgrounds, money wise, there has to be a profit to improve the rest of the grounds," said board president J.R. Giotfelty.

Members were also concerned that future county officials would want to renegotiate on the county's responsibility to the hall.

Beitzel said an agreement

"The worst that could happen is that the board would own a $2 million building," said Hinebaugh.

Following the open meeting with the commissioners, the fair board members met behind closed doors and discussed the issue further, before voting by secret ballot.

"Yes, we want the exhibit hall on the fairgrounds," announced Giotfelty after the vote. He added, however, that there were stipulations that needed to be added to the final proposal. Board members were still concerned about the terms of the lease agreement.

Four or six members of the fair board's building committee, however, will meet soon to address any outstanding issues.

Economic Development will then draft a memorandum of understanding between the county and the board, based on the outcome of the meeting and the committee's recommendations.

Beitzel thanked the fair board for its support and decision, adding that the hall would enhance not only the fairgrounds, but the county and its agricultural community as well.

"I just think it's going to be wonderful," said DeBerry, who will be managing the hall. She told the board that she could help them with publicity and the scheduling of their events.

Additionally, a scheduling oversight committee will set rate schedules for the building, oversee the use of the hall, give guidance in ordering supplies and equipment, and promote conflict resolution. Tentatively, members of the committee will include DeBerry, two fair board members, a Garrett County Chamber of Commerce member, and a representative from the county's general services office.

DeBerry's preliminary plans for the 50,000 square-foot facility include concession areas, storage spaces, and a commercial kitchen where farmers could can their produce. She told the board that various types of events could be held in the hall, including livestock shows, a farmers' market, craft shows, banquets, and farm equipment shows.

"I will try to get as many ag exhibits as possible," she said. "I want agriculture to be a major part of this building."

The Appalachian Regional Commission has committed $1 million to the project, said Hinebaugh. Delegate George Edwards will introduce legislation in the 2003 Maryland General Assembly to secure additional grant funding, said Beitzel.

Construction of the exhibit hall is slated for late August 2003, following the Garrett County Agriculture Fair.

St. Mark's Will Host Thanksgiving Worship Service

The Mountaintop Ministerial Association invites all members of the community to a Thanksgiving worship service that will be held Tuesday, Nov. 26, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland. Officiating at the 7 p.m. service will be Rev. Ted Bessey, pastor of St. Mark's.

The offering collected at the service will be designated for a specific cause or organization, yet to be determined.

St. Mark's is located at the corner of Second and Center streets.

"Christmas In The Mountains" Tour Expanded

Church Women United's "Christmas in the Mountains" will be expanding its viewing area this year.

The tour will be Saturday, Dec. 7, from 1 to 4:30 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 8,

A BIG OAK CAME TUMBLING DOWN, as a 75-foot tall red oak toppled over in the Bray School Road yard of Sonya Craver during the recent ice storm that sent trees and limbs crashing down across the county. Although the mighty oak fell to earth just 15 feet from Craver's home and pulled up a large chunk of sod and soil to a depth of 4 feet, it did not strike any buildings, wires, or other trees. "We heard a huge crash, and ran to the window to see what had happened," Craver recalled of the afternoon of Oct. 29, when the tree fell. "It was a little confusing at first, because all we saw was a big section of our yard up in the air, with the tree pretty much hidden behind it. We're very fortunate no one was hurt, and our hearts go out to all the folks who suffered damage from the storm."

from 1 to 4:30 p.m. There will be homes in Piedmont, Westernport, and Bloomington, and this year the group has also moved to Barton. Moran Manor and "The Little Church on the Hill" (Westernport Methodist Church) will be featured as well.

Tickets can be purchased at the following locations: L&M Plumbing, Boal Funeral Home, Gift Buggy, Flower Bay, and Duo Restaurant in Barton. Tickets are $5 each, and for more information, persons may call Laura Smith at 301-359-9305.

COUNTRY KIDS
by Sarah Rexroad
reporter

The Country Kids 4-H Club recently held its September and October meetings.

Vice President Bret DeWitt called the September meeting to order and Adam Rexroad led the pledges. Vanessa Logan reported on the club's trip to Idlewild and Bethany Rexroad reported on the Fashion Revue. Sharon Harvey and Sarah Rexroad reported on the club's fair booth and float. Demonstrations were given by Adam Rexroad on electric motors and Sarah and Bethany Rexroad on sewing and Fashion Revue.

The club's October meeting was called to order by President Nathan Harris at Pysell's farm after a picnic and hay ride. Nichole Harvey led the pledges and Andrew Harvey reported on the petting zoo. Bobby Barnard reported on the livestock meeting and changes made. Dates for leader training and fall steer weigh-in were discussed. Bobby Barnard gave a demonstration about hogs.

The club's November meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Deer Park Community Building. Elections for 2003 will be held at that time.

MSP Seek Clues In Grantsville Area ATV Theft

The Maryland State Police are conducting an investigation in an effort to solve the case of a recent theft of an all-terrain vehicle from the Grantsville area.

A 2000 Polaris 500 ATV was reportedly stolen from a locked storage shed located on the property of a residence located near the intersection of National Highway and Amish Road. The ATV is green in color and equipped with a matching toolbox secured to the front of the vehicle. The theft took place sometime last Thursday between 6 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Persons with information about the case are asked to contact Trooper D.T. Waggoner at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

A daughter, Brooklyn Virginia-Marie Tasker, was born November 8 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to David E. and Rebecca DeBerry Tasker, Deer Park. Paternal grandparents are Betty "Ginny" M. Tasker, Mtn. Lake Park, and the late Wilbur W. Tasker. Maternal grandparents are

FOP DONATES TO SPECIAL CHILDREN - The local Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) has donated $600 to the Garrett's Special Needs Children organization, which is currently working to establish a respite care training program. Recently organized, Garrett's Special Needs Children is a non-profit support group for parents or caregivers of children with special needs. The members are attempting to fund a training program to teach volunteers how to care for their children. Once trained, these individuals will be available to handle the many and various needs of these children while parents run errands and tend to other family needs. Currently there is no such program available for local special needs children and their families. The members expressed gratitude to the FOP for helping launch the fund-raising effort. Persons may make donations by contacting Lisa Drummond, executive director, at 301-334-2173. She is pictured above with Officer Mike Bittinger of the FOP. Garrett's Special Needs Children will meet this evening, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m., in the Community Services Center near Garrett County Memorial Hospital. All interested persons are invited to attend the meetings, which are held on the second Thursday of each month.

A son, Jesse Howard Britton, was born November 9 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Charles Burgess and Caroline Britton.

Sign Compact

Conversely, if Garrett had exhausted its resources dealing with an emergency, other counties could help out. Specialized services such as diving and mountain climbing teams could also be called upon to assist.

Additionally, the compact will eliminate some of the disorganization that occurs when many people volunteer to help in an emergency. Frantz described the situation as "disorganized chaos."

"There would be more of a coordination of the effort of mutual aid," he said about the compact.

Frantz also stressed that the county would not take on any additional financial responsibility as a result of the agreement.

Counties that sign the agreement will also be able to obtain financial recovery help from the Federal Emergency Management Agency policy following a presidentially declared disaster.

Army Sgt. Daniel C. Cassidy has been decorated with the U.S. Army Commendation Medal. The medal is awarded to individuals who, while serving in any capacity with the Army, have distinguished themselves by acts of heroism, meritorious achievement, or meritorious service.

Cassidy is a "watercraft operator assigned to the 545th Transportation Detachment in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

He is the son of Rick Cassidy of Mount Pleasant Lane, Oakland, and Joyce Godfrey of Naples, Fla. He is a 1994 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

escaped the burning house. They managed to save the occupants' pets, with the exception of one dog that perished in the fire.

Heavy smoke and flames were coming from the house upon arrival of the first fire units. The house is owned by Ralph Miller.

According to a report from the office of the Maryland state fire marshal, approximately 40 firefighters brought the fire under control in about 45 minutes. Damages to the structure and contents were estimated to be $80,000.

The report said that the house was equipped with smoke alarms, which activated properly. The exact cause of the fire remains under investigation; however, a spokesperson said that it is believed to have been linked to an electrical problem in an old refrigerator. Firefighters remained on the scene for several hours.

Swan Meadow School for third grade math, $628.81; and Yough Glades Elementary for third grade math and fifth grade reading, $1,257.62.

Schools are selected for recognition based on their demonstrated improvement in progressing toward the standards set by the State Board of Education, not on their performance level relative to other schools.

"This reflects the students, staff, and your leadership as principal," Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, told the principals who attended the board meeting.

"We are delighted to recognize these principals and celebrate all that you do," added Dr. Don Forrester, director of elementary education.

The school improvement teams in each school will determine the use of the funds.

Music Fest Group To Meet; Public Invited To Help

The Little Yough Summer Music Festival Committee will meet on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 5 p.m. at the Oakland town hall. Persons interested in helping with the music festival this year are invited to attend.

For more information, persons may call Ken Perrin at 301-334-3151.

Perrin also announced that the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) meeting scheduled for Nov. 19 at 5:30 p.m. at the town hall has been canceled.

Speechwriters LLC To Present Concert At FSU

Frostburg State University's Center Stage Live at the Loft will present the group Speechwriters LLC on Friday, Nov. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Lane University Center Loft.

A trio featuring vocals, guitars, and drums, Speechwriters LLC emerged fully formed from the outskirts of Los Angeles in early 2001. "The boys' master plan involves attaining the untouchable street persona of the North American folk duo, while simultaneously enjoying the benefits of being rock stars," according to a program spokesperson.

According to Claremont College, "The style of Speechwriters LLC is difficult to describe. It is at times folk, other times more like pop, with a dash of rock n' roll and funk."

The show is free and open to the public, and refreshments will be available.

This event is sponsored by Center Stage and the Office of Student and Community Involvement. For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center information desk at 301-687-4411.

Frostburg State Jazz Ensemble Concert Slated

The Frostburg State University Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Jon Bauman, will perform its fall concert this Friday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall on the FSU campus. The concert is free and open to the public.

"Gorilla Man Blues," a swinging Count Basie-style shuffle, will open the concert. After the featured solos by Stevyn Carmona on trumpet and Erin Frankenberg on tenor saxophone, the band will gradually build to a shout chorus. Laurence Bruner will be featured with a flugelhorn solo in the quiet Sammy Nestico ballad "Satin 'n Glass."

The trombone section, the "Fabulous Four," is featured next, with the 1940 jazz classic "How High the Moon." The first half ends with an ultra funky version of the classic rhythm and blues tune from the '60s, "Knock on Wood." It will feature Frankenberg on tenor saxophone, Chris Alexander on guitar, and the jazz ensemble.

After intermission, the 18-piece big band will play "Hot It Up," a swinging composition based on the street beat feel popularized a century ago by the marching bands of New Orleans. Vocalist Lisa Wenzel is featured next with the 1953 ballad "Teach Me Tonight."

The concert will continue with "Switching Gears," a swing chart featuring Albert DeFusco on trumpet, Frankenberg on tenor saxophone, and the saxophone section. Returning to one of today's musical styles, the band will play a funk tune, "Pure and Simple," featuring solos by Carmona and Bruner on trumpets, Jonas Brummonarqua on trombone, Nathan Royer on bass, and Jeff Ward on drums. "God Bless the U.S.A." will conclude the program.

TOM SAWYER COMING TO BROAD FORD - The classic tale of Mark Twain's Tom Sawyer will be told once again, this time at Broad Ford Elementary School on Nov. 23 and 24. Starring Nick Wilt in the title role, the show features both students and staff. Pictured below is Wilt with Stephanie Weaver, who is playing the part of Becky Thatcher. The famous funeral scene is pictured above. Shown from left is Nick Harkins, Sue Lissanti, Kelsey Skipper, Kim Weimer, Weaver, and Brenda Buser. (The two players partially hidden were unidentified.) The event is a dinner theatre production, with the Saturday, Nov. 23, show at 7 p.m. and the Sunday, Nov. 24, show at 3 p.m. Tickets are $10 and must be purchased by calling the school at 301-334-9445.

Teen Readers To Discuss Bridging Culture, Age Gaps

The next meeting of the Ruth Enlow Library Teen Book Club is set for 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Oakland library. The discussion will focus on the novel Motherland by Vineeta Vijayaraghavan.

"Fifteen-year-old Maya is disgruntled when her mother impels her to visit India for the summer to reacquaint herself with her extended Indian family," the description appearing on the book jacket reads. "Over the course of three months, Maya learns why a rift has always existed between her mother and herself, an understanding that allows her to bridge that gap. Maya also comes to realize that her home — her motherland — can be anywhere."

Copies of Motherland are available at the library's front desk, and participants are encouraged to read as much as possible before the book club meets; however, it is not necessary to complete the book to share thoughts and opinions at the meeting.

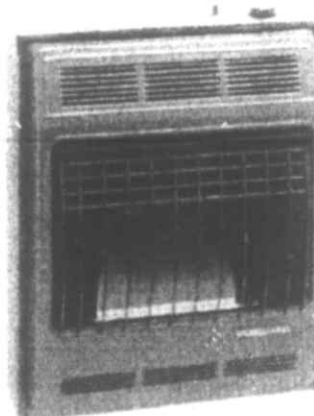

The Oakland library also offers a book club for adults and a book club for students age 9 through 11. Persons desiring further information may call the library at 301-334-3996, or consult the system's web site at www.relib.net. The REL's book clubs are funded by the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Orendorf's Art On Display At GC

The Art Gallery of Garrett College is hosting an exhibition titled "Dreams" by local artist Oren Orendorf through Tuesday, Nov. 26. The public is invited to a reception for the artist, set for this Saturday, Nov. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Orendorf has been producing his works for several years, and this exhibition at the college is his first. The show displays over 100 art pieces: 29 line drawings, 29 wood relief carvings, and 46 multimedia color illustrations. His images relate to the long traditions of fantasy art and dreams with unicorns, wizards, castles, and dragons, as well as such space age objects as robots, astronauts, planets, and spaceships. He works with several media, including color markers, colored pencils, watercolors, acrylics, fine line ballpoint pen, and a Dremel tool for wood engraving. He is currently in the process of publishing his illustrations.

A Grantsville area resident, Orendorf attended Northern High School, where he concentrated in art with teacher Maggie Pratt, and he studied at Garrett Community College in early 1980s under Barry Dominic and Lane Heise.

The exhibit will be open during normal gallery hours of 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 7 - 10 p.m. Thursday evenings, and on weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett College Art Department at 301-387-3024. This exhibition is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

"DREAMS": FANTASY ART BY OREN ORENDORF is currently being exhibited at the Art Gallery of Garrett College. The untitled art shown here is just a small sampling of the more than 100 works that will be on display. The artist works in a variety of media, including color markers, colored pencils, and watercolors. An artist's reception will be held Saturday, Nov. 16, from 7 until 9 p.m. at the gallery. The exhibit will run until Nov. 26. See story for more details.

FSU Cultural Events Series Offers Special Packages As Holiday Gifts

For the holiday season, Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series is offering dinner show packages and arts getaway packages. Gift packages are available for all of the upcoming performances for spring 2003, including Barry Manilow's "Copacabana - the Musical," Vienna Choir Boys, the Brubeck Brothers Quartet, and "Stirrings: a multi-disciplinary work connecting the arts, the environment, and human life."

The arts getaway package includes a choice of accommodations at LaVale's Best Western Braddock or the downtown Cumberland Holiday Inn. Included with one night's stay are breakfast and dinner for two, a special welcome gift at check-in, round-trip transportation between the hotel and FSU's Performing Arts Center, and two preferred-seating tickets for the CES performance of one's choice.

The dinner show packages are available at seven area restaurants, including the Acropolis Restaurant & Lounge, El Canelo Mexican Restaurant, Gandalf's Restaurant & Pub, Gehauf's Restaurant, Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant, Harrigan's Restaurant, and the Tombstone Café. Limousine transportation from Platinum Coach is provided between the FSU campus and the Frostburg restaurants. Complimentary hotel transportation is provided from both Gehauf's and Harrigan's to the FSU campus with return transportation following the performance. Reservations can be made up to two days before the performance date. Gift certificates for tickets and dinner are available at the FSU Cultural Events Series box office.

Barry Manilow's "Copacabana - the Musical" will be presented three times, with shows running Friday and Saturday, Jan. 17 and 18, in the PAC Drama Theatre. Set in the glamorous '40s world of the famous Copacabana nightclub, when "music and passion were always in fashion," this musical extravaganza follows the adventures of the same Lola made famous in Manilow's hit song. Sponsored by Best Western Braddock, this performance is presented in partnership with Windwood Theatricals and FSU Division of Performing Arts.

The world-renowned Vienna Choir Boys will perform Friday, Feb. 21, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall. Through worldwide tours and intensive study at home, the choir has carried on the rich traditions of Vienna's musical life as a living heritage for more than 500 years. The choir's repertoire includes a variety of music, from Gregorian chant to contemporary and experimental music. This performance is presented in partnership with the FSU Center for International Education.

The Brubeck Brothers Quartet will come to Frostburg for a performance on Friday, March 14, at 8 p.m. in the Lane University Center Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall. Dave and Chris Brubeck, sons of jazz legend Dave Brubeck, join Mike DeMico on guitar and Pete Levin on piano and organ for an evening of original compositions, jazz standards, and Dave Brubeck classics. "With the ability to seamlessly combine straight-ahead jazz, funk, and the Brubeck style of playing in odd time signatures, the quartet offers a glimpse into the future of jazz while honoring the jazz tradition," stated a program spokesperson. This tour is made possible by a grant from the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program.

The world premiere of "Stirrings: a multi-disciplinary work connecting the arts, the environment, and human life," will be offered Friday through Sunday, April 4-6, in the PAC Drama Theatre. This unique work is based upon the acclaimed book of essays, Stirrings the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs and Human Imagination, by local writer and FSU professor Barbara Hurd, in collaboration with choreographer Mark Taylor of Dance Alloy, composer Alice Shields, and set designers Richard Kagey and Conrad Maust of FSU's Department of Theatre. Sponsored by the Holiday Inn of Cumberland, this event is presented in partnership with the FSU Division of Performing Arts and FSU Department of Visual Arts. This New Directions project is partially supported by a grant from Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment; the William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a state agency, and the Pew Charitable Trusts, and is administered by the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation.

For details about holiday gift package options and for ticket prices and purchases, persons may call or visit the CES box office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The office is located at Frostburg State University in the Lane University Center, Room 235, and can be reached at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX CES. On-line ticketing powered by CyberSeats is available at the Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series web site at <http://ces.frostburg.edu>.

Tickets for FSU students, faculty, and staff are available at a discounted price with a valid FSU ID. All tickets not purchased in forementioned web site for more information on the series or individual events.

The 2002-2003 CES Series is supported in part by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland; the National Endowment for the Arts; and the FSU Foundation Inc.

RUNNIN' RAMS RUNNERS-UP AT STATES - The Southern High School girls' cross country team capped another outstanding season by capturing second place in the Maryland State 1A Championships, held Saturday at Hereford High School near Baltimore. Leading the large pack in the center of the above photo are Rams Melissa Durst

(#1401) and Natalie Domenick (#1400), who maintained their All-State status by finishing among the top 15. ## Southern Girls Win Silver At State Cross Country Meet

Led by All-State runners Melissa Durst and Natalie Domenick, the Southern High School girls' cross country team ran its way to a second-place finish in the Maryland 1A State Championships, hosted by Hereford High School on Saturday. Durst and Domenick finished in seventh and eighth places, respectively, and only a young Williamsport team was able to place higher as a team than the

Runnin' Rams.

Southern finished with 71 team points, while Williamsport won the team title with 53. Williamsport's top five finishers, all of whom were among the top 25, are all freshmen. Beall placed third with 107 points, followed by Oakland Mills with 113, Westmar with 118, Poolesville with 139, Loch Raven with 141, Winters Mill with 199, and Cambridge/South

Dorchester with 214. A number of other schools were represented in the race, but by individuals rather than full teams.

Durst, a senior, earned All-State honors for the fourth straight year and completed the rigorous, three-mile Hereford course with a time of 21 minutes, 48.34 seconds, slightly more than a second ahead of Domenick, a junior, who also retained her All-State honors with a time of 21:49.67. The top 15 finishers are named to the All-State team.

The next fastest Ram runners were senior Emily Cosner and junior Mandi Stahl, who placed 22nd and 23rd, respectively, with times of 23:23.68 and 23:25.74. Lisa Wade, a junior, and freshman Sarah Cosner were 37th and 38th with respective times of 24:23.68 and 24:31.54. Elizabeth Thayer, also a freshman, finished 44th among the 80 runners with a time of 24:45.59.

Beall's Rachel Armstrong was the individual state champion, as she was first across the finish line with a time of 20:03.68. Rounding out the top five were Britta Nelson of Havre de Grace, Jennifer Patton of Westmar, Chelsea Githens-Brewer of South Hagerstown, and Amanda Breeden of Williamsport.

"We just needed one more 'gun' to defeat Williamsport," stated Louie Newcomb, who has coached the girls' program since 1993. "But the girls' had another super year and finished it off with probably their best run of the season at Hereford on Saturday."

The Southern boys' team did not qualify for the state meet, but Craig Conroy did qualify as an individual, and placed 20th among 93 runners in the boys' race with a time of 18:40.89.

Both Newcomb and the boys' coach, Carl Booth, have announced their retirement after leading the Runnin' Rams to an unprecedented seven state championships (five straight by the boys and two by the girls), plus three runner-up finishes by the girls and one by the boys.

Along with the seven state titles, more than any other school in the state, the teams of Booth and Newcomb have to their credit an incredible 13 PVC/WML championships, eight area championships, seven regional championships, and over 1,500 team victories, all in just 10 seasons.

"As near as we can figure, there is only one school in the entire state that we have never beaten at least once, and that is Quince Orchard, a 4A school," Newcomb said. "We have defeated all of the others of all sizes, and that's over 160 schools just in Maryland."

"The success of our program says a lot for the quality of our kids," he said. "They are the ones who have to get out there and do all the work. Carl and I always tell them that, during our season, cross country should be fourth on their priority list; church should be first, followed by family, and then school. That's always worked for us."

"I know we are both going to really miss the kids and being a part of the program in the future," he concluded.

"It's been a wonderful run," Coach Booth said.

"We've had a lot of success, but more importantly, I've had the pleasure of coaching the finest kids in the world," he said, "and what could be better than that?"

Huskies Take 24-16 Win Over Southern In Finale

Another pitched battle was added to the long list of storied Northern vs. Southern high school football showdowns Friday night, as the Huskies defeated the host Rams on their home field for the first time in 10 years, 24-16, to cap an otherwise disappointing 2-8 campaign. SHS wrapped up at 1-8.

"It was a back-and-forth, hard-hitting game like always," NHS head coach Phil Carr commented afterward. "There were some good hits out there on both sides that the kids will be remembering for a long time."

"We didn't do anything different in practice this week, but we executed real well on the field for seemingly the first time this year. Coming down on the bus on the way to the game you could feel the focus the guys had — there was not a word said from Accident to Oakland," the Northern skipper said.

The Huskies wasted no time in making themselves heard on the field by taking the opening kickoff and embarking on a 65-yard touchdown drive on the game's first possession. After less than two minutes had passed, and with the help of some fine long runs by running backs Mike Wolf and Aaron Mitchell, Northern scored at the 10:36 mark when Mitchell carried the ball eight yards into the end zone. Wolf's two-point conversion run made the score 8-0.

"We came out of the box on fire," Carr recalled. "Our coaches had been telling the players all week, 'The team that executes well from the start will be the one that will take the game.' We felt like if we could take control early it could be our ballgame."

After Northern's defense stymied Southern on its subsequent offensive possession, the Huskies mounted another drive for the goal line behind some solid blocking. NHS's backs pounded away at the Rams' line in dive play after dive play, mainly behind a strong side anchored by 290-pound jug-

GOING UP to come down with a big pick-off is Northern High cornerback Aaron Mitchell (#11), pictured above snagging a long Southern pass for a first-half interception that helped key a 24-16 Husky victory Friday night in Oakland. The senior had a big night in his final game, as he also led all runners by rushing for 117 yards on 20 carries. SHS evened the score of the give-and-take battle at 16-all midway through the third quarter when freshman Ram running back Andrew VanBogelen (#42, top right) broke through the Northern line to find the end zone from six yards out. (The ball is just in front of his right foot.) True to form, the annual cross-county contest went down to the wire. Northern claimed the upper hand for good as the two-minute warning approached when Husky linebacker Ian Wooden (#58, directly right), who took a good bit of the field with him when he went up into the air, corralled a deflected Southern pass attempt near midfield. That second NHS interception killed the Rams' hopes of knotting the score again, and sealed the season-closing dogfight in the Huskies' favor. Photos by John McEwen.

geronaut Tom Menges. Tommy played the best offensive game of his career," Carr stated. "We had great blocking all the way across the line for pretty much the whole night, and only had to punt the ball away one time."

That second NHS drive — a 67-yard ball control march — was capped when Mitchell found the end zone from four yards out. A two-point conversion run by Corey Fike put the Huskies up 16-0 with just over four minutes remaining in the opening stanza. "The pair of two-point conversions after our first two touchdowns were very important. We felt like we made a statement by taking a 16-point lead instead of a 14-point lead," Carr remarked.

It didn't take Southern long to respond to the Huskies' statement, as a 20-yard touchdown run by Andrew VanBogelen, who followed with his own two-point conversion carry, halved Northern's lead to 16-8 with 1:02 remaining in the first quarter.

A leaping interception by NHS's Mitchell killed a second Southern scoring opportunity in the second stanza. The cornerback went high into the air to corral an SHS bomb on the Rams' 10-yard line, and he scampered back to the Southern 25 with the return.

SHS came out of the halftime locker room determined to out the Huskies, lead down to size, and did just that on its first possession. The Rams, who received the half's opening kickoff, put together a methodical five-minute drive that ended in a six-yard VanBogelen touchdown carry. After Jay Tressler rushed for the two-point conversion, the score was knotted at 16-all and it was anybody's ball game again.

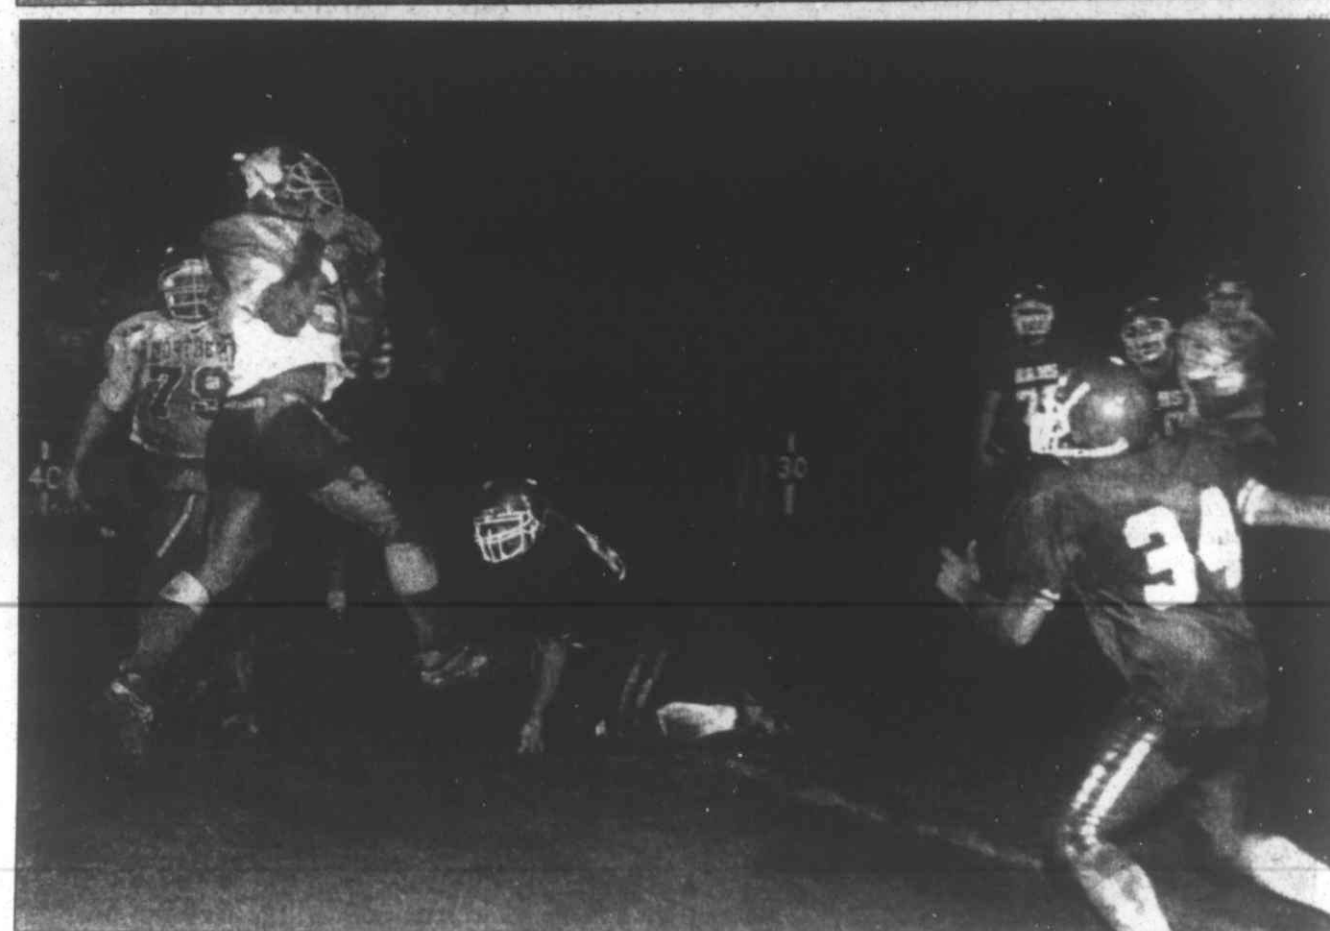

It fell to Northern's special teams, not one of the Huskies' strongest areas this season, to start the ball rolling on the way to breaking the deadlock. Early in the fourth quarter, still in a 16-all dogfight, the Huskies' Danny Ellis broke through the SHS line to block a Ram punt attempt and recover the ball himself on the Southern 22-yard line. "That was our big play of the game," commented Carr. "We'd actually been working on blocking a punt all week in practice, because when we watched Southern play Fort Hill we had noticed that the Sentinels had come close to blocking a punt a couple of times. Danny is a tall, quick kid, and he was able to slide into the backfield from the right side and knock the ball down."

It didn't take the Northern offense long to capitalize on the big play, as Wolf recorded an eight-yard scoring run and followed with his own conversion carry to put NHS up 24-16 with 11:31 to play.

With a win in sight, NHS's defense rose to the occasion by shutting down the Rams' offense the rest of the way. More Husky heroics helped seal Southern's fate as, with less than three minutes remaining, defensive lineman Jordan Breneman got his hand up in the way of a Cory Bosley pass attempt and deflected the ball. Northern linebacker Ian Wooden alertly picked the pigskin out of the air at the SHS 47-yard line, and the Huskies were able to run the clock out and take home the win.

On offense, NHS used a fine ground game to capture the victory by amassing 253 rushing yards on 46 carries — a 5½-yard average. Mitchell and Wolf divvied up the work by recording 117 yards on 20 carries and 114 yards on 17 attempts, respectively.

VanBogelen paced the Rams with 91 yards on 13 carries, and Billy Schmid had 54 yards on 10 carries. Playing at linebacker, Schmid led Southern with 14 tackles on defense, while Zach Savage had nine, and Zach Uphole and Chad Everd each finished with eight.

Ram coach Fred Gregg said matter of factly, "Northern played better than we did," adding, "We just didn't get the job done up front. We played well there at times, but they generally did a better job on the line, both offensively and defensively."

"It was another case of our not being able to overcome negative plays, which is what has plagued us all year," he continued. "Our biggest weakness this season has been our inability to have consistent line play, which is always the key to winning football games. The

Hunger For Excellence Feeds Unger's Gridiron, Study Pursuits

By David Foster

Mtn. Lake Park resident Robert Unger was the subject of a feature story in the game-day program of a recent College of Holy Cross Division I-AA football match-up with Lehigh University. Titled "Unger, Not Necessarily the Norm," the article was published in connection with Holy Cross's "Family Day" festivities of Oct. 26, and included a biographical sketch of the former Southern High School varsity football standout and an account of his Garrett County upbringing.

A starting senior defensive lineman for the Crusaders' squad at Holy Cross (located in Worcester, Mass.), Unger is one of four former Rams currently playing college football. The others are Joel Helbig of Shepherd College, Steve Skipper of Frostburg State University, and Brad Palmer, a walk-on at West Virginia University.

"We had a lot of good athletes on my high school team," Unger told the Holy Cross publication. "It's kind of funny because a lot of them did not want to go on, or they got a job instead and said, 'I am not cut out for that.' I have a lot of good friends who played who are working right now instead of going to school."

Unger quite nearly took that road himself, despite graduating 13th in his class at the end of his Southern High education, which included two advance placement classes his senior year, calculus and physics. He also scored a very high 1310 on his SAT test.

After graduating from Southern, Unger initially accepted an athletic scholarship from nearby Potomac State College in Keyser, W.Va., but the Catamounts abandoned their football program after his freshman year. PSC coach Angelo Luvara, recognizing the rare combination of dogged determination that made the football player an athletic and academic standout — he achieved a 4.0 GPA at Potomac State — encouraged Unger to delay entering the work force and continue his playing career at another college the following year.

"I knew Robert was a highly intelligent young man, and thought it would be a shame if he didn't continue his education," Luvara recalled. "He had a tremendous work ethic, and never missed a class and never was late for a class — we always checked on our players in the classroom.

"I was positive Robert would fit in well academically at any school, including Harvard, Yale, and those other Ivy League schools. I also thought he still had his best football still ahead of him," said the former Catamount skipper, who now holds the helm at Berkeley Springs High School.

"Coach Luvara told me, 'You are either going to Holy Cross or an Ivy League school, and I am not letting you go anywhere else.' That is how I got here [at Holy Cross]," Unger said. The student-athlete also credited input from his mother and father, Barbara and Ronald Unger of Mtn. Lake Park. His dad accompanied him on each of his college exploratory visits, and the pair discussed their observations during the long drives they shared.

The pot was sweetened when Holy Cross offered a full athletic scholarship to fund his studies at the Jesuit institution, widely considered to provide an education of Ivy League quality.

"If it weren't for football, Robert might not have even tried to go to college at all," his father Ronald said. "His love of the game, and the dedication he gave to it, helped get him the scholarships that kept him in school."

In preparing for play against Patriot League competition, as well as the Division I Army Cadets of West Point, Unger had to spend long hours in the weight room adding to his frame. The necessary work ethic was well established before he left Garrett County, according to Southern principal Tom Woods, one of the player's coaches at SHS.

"Robert is a real self-made football player," observed Woods. "He joined our varsity unit as a sophomore at 170 pounds, and he grew to 210 pounds by his senior year. He improved himself here with a great work ethic, and turned himself into a I-AA player by continuing that kind of effort. Here at Southern he was a hard-working, team-oriented player, and a very respectful student."

"It was typical of Robert that, even toward the end of his high school career, he took the initiative to get involved in the wrestling program. He was always willing to work hard at learning something new and improving at it. His stint with the wrestling team helped him learn some of the finer techniques of football line play, too," observed Woods.

"You have to be aggressive, especially in football, and if you want things right you just have to go get them," Unger explained of his pursuits. "You can't just sit around and take things, you have got to go do it for yourself."

Unger's off-the-field work has paid off in game situations for his Crusader unit, as he helped spark a 30-21 victory over Army earlier this season with a one-sack, three-tackle, two-"hurry" performance on Sept. 7. His best effort in corralling enemy ballcarriers came last year against Pennsylvania, when he recorded four tackles.

Two games remain on the Crusaders' state for this season — at Lafayette and Colgate — and the senior may be returning to Worcester for yet another season of play. (The program is attempting to have redshirt status granted for his first year at the school.) Sure to be on hand for any gridiron battle to come is his dad Ronald, who "has made every game that I have been in, with the exception of one due to a death in the family," Unger stated.

"When I'm warming up, I always look for him. He'll make sure that he shakes my hand before I go into the locker room, and then I'll see him after the game, [and] he'll say 'you did a good job.' It really helps me because sometimes you make a mistake and you feel bad, but he's the first one there to cheer me up. He is so proud of me — I think that is what keeps me going, to have someone who cares about you and who pushes you. He keeps me going," said the grateful son.

"I'm really proud Robert looks at me in that way," Ron Unger remarked. "For years our relationship has been that of best friends, and I believe as a parent if you're a friend to your child everything will work out in the end. It doesn't matter what he does with his life, as long as he does his best. Barbara and I are very proud of him and our other children Ray and Marianne."

Family Day, indeed. Some of the information contained in this story originally appeared in the game-day program article authored by Kara McGillicuddy, assistant athletic media relations director for the College of Holy Cross.

Huskies Take

experience gained by our younger players is a major plus. Now they just need the physical maturation, and we will be spending a lot of time in the weight room in the off-season to help that maturation process and give them the tools to go with the experience."

"Nearly every high school program goes through a season or two like this," he said, "but we know things will get better down the road."

"It feels good to take this one, even though we didn't have the best of seasons," observed Carr. "It serves as an indication of the kind of year we could have had if we had executed and avoided turning the ball over more often; but, at least, they kept working hard in practices and never gave up. The seniors can leave with some good memories of their last game, and the underclassmen got some good vibes about next year. We've got a good nucleus of kids coming up, and we can't wait to get them into the weight room after Christmas."

SHS Netters Swamp Clear Spring; Wildcats Run Rams Out Of Finals

The 2002 Southern High School varsity volleyball squad went where no Ram netters have gone before — to the Class 1A West Region finals — after crushing Clear Spring 3-1 in last Thursday's semifinal round, but SHS ran into a Williamsport wall in Saturday's championship match and came away defeated by a 3-0 margin. The Rams' fine season draws to a close with a 14-4 record.

At Clear Spring, Southern jumped out to a pair of easy early wins, 15-2, 15-6, dropped the third game 15-10, then came back to claim the match with a 15-10 nightcap triumph. Sophomore Julia Bosley had 15 service points with five aces, while seniors Stephanie Niner and Jess Sharon added 10 service points each. Niner had nine assists, and senior classmates Kristen Rollman had 14 assists, and Erika Steyer contributed four kills.

In tallying 10 kills during the contest, Sharon broke the Southern career kill record of 231 that 1987 graduate Stacey Sines established 15 years ago.

The win gave SHS coach Sue Newton pause, however. "We're going to have to play better than that," she said immediately afterward. "Tonight wasn't one of our typical ballgames. We're usually a high-percentage serving team, but not tonight — we missed way too many. This is a group of girls that can walk out there on the court and play a much better game, and hopefully we can do that against Williamsport."

The Ram skipper's wishes were left unfulfilled, however, as a tough Williamsport squad trounced Southern Saturday 15-5, 15-8, 15-3, despite a rabid Ram crowd in Oakland. The win upped the Wildcats' record to 16-1.

Sharon netted 14 successful attacks in 15 attempts for SHS along with six kills. Steyer had six kills, Rollman had nine assists, and Niner had seven service points with three aces, plus and four assists. Bosley added two kills. The Wildcats' coach noted that Southern's passing game appeared very strong at times and kept the Rams in a number of rallies.

Williamsport's Meggie Miller put on a show by recording 22 kills on 26 attacks, 22 digs, and six service points as she led her team off on a hunt for its ninth Maryland state championship.

For its part, Southern has much to be proud of. The Rams, who were playing in their first region final, set a school record this year with their 14 wins. Newton's squads have improved markedly each year over her five-year tenure at SHS.

"We were very pleased with the success of this year's team," Newton said. "Our regional final loss came to the team that likely the team to beat in the Maryland state playoffs."

Huskies Bounced From Playoffs In Wildcat Sweep

The Northern High School volleyball team lost to the top-seeded Williamsport in the Maryland Class 1A Region semifinals last Thursday in a 3-0 sweep on the Wildcats' home floor. NHS came out on the short end of game scores of 15-3, 15-6, 15-1.

Things started off tough for the Huskies from the get-go, as the Wildcats scored the first 12 points of the opening contest. Northern rebounded to score the first three points of the second game, but Williamsport rolled into victory lane by tallying the first 13 points of the final battle.

NHS senior Tabitha Beitzel recorded three kills on the night, while Williamsport's Lindsay Plotner had 11.

Northern finished its season at 11-8.

Southern Mat Club Sign-Up Night Monday

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team will hold its annual sign-up night and informational meeting on Monday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Southern Middle School cafeteria. This meeting will provide all prospective team members with information about the team's upcoming season, including practice schedules, competition information, and a brief overview of the goals and the history of the club.

The Southern Mat Club was formed in 1985 and involved hundreds of young people in southern Garrett County. For more information on this meeting or the club, persons may contact club president Terry Murphy at 301-334-2369 or Coach Dave Taylor at 301-334-3855.

Junior Deer Hunt Set For Nov. 16

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has scheduled the annual deer hunt for junior hunters on Saturday, Nov. 16. All individuals age 16 years or younger can hunt white-tailed deer and sika deer with a firearm, when accompanied by an unarmed licensed adult 21 years of age or older.

To participate in the one-day hunt, each junior hunter must possess a valid Resident Junior Hunting License, Resident Regular Hunting License, or a Non-Resident Hunting License, or must be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements.

Each junior hunter can take one antlered or antlerless white-tailed deer in each of the four Deer Management regions on Nov. 16. In Regions B, C, and D the junior hunter may take an additional white-tailed deer. No more than one of these two white-tailed deer may be antlered. Each junior hunter may take one antlered or antlerless sika deer in Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, or Worcester counties.

This special hunting day provides an opportunity for experienced hunters to teach deer hunting skills to interested junior hunters. Hunting skills such as locating deer signs, effective and safe tree stand placement, and safe firearm handling can be taught during the hunt.

Junior hunters took 2,283 deer on last season's one-day hunt. The leading counties included: Garrett, 342; Allegany, 258; Washington, 248; and Frederick, 198.

For additional information concerning Maryland deer hunting regulations, persons may consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland

Dear Ms. Nettie,

I need some instruction on how to send photos of my wonderful vacation through email to friends and relatives who live out of the area. I have found email to be a wonderful way to keep in touch with loved ones, and would like to share the beauty I saw with everyone!

Slideshow Bob

Dear Slideshow,

To send your beauty filled photos of your vacation you will want to create an "attachment" to your email. You may use this procedure to attach photos, documents, spreadsheets or any other type of file.

- Open your e-mail program, launch a new message window and compose your message.
- Click on the attachment icon or insert the file by selecting from the drop down menu.
- Browse your hard drive or removable disks to locate the file you want to attach. Once you find it, click on it, then click the OK button.
- An icon or message should now appear indicating that the file has been attached.

ALL FLIGHTS DELAYED - The ice storm two weeks ago that stopped nearly everything in Garrett County also stopped this flock of tundra swans. Formerly known as whistling swans, these large birds were on their way south when the storm forced them to land on the pond at Winters Hill behind Memorial Drive in Oakland. Tundras vary in size from 4 to 4 1/2 feet long, including a 4-inch bill and an 8 1/2-inch tail. With a wingspread to about 7 feet, males weigh about 20 pounds. Females are slightly smaller. Occasionally they are mistaken for snow geese, which are much smaller birds with black wing tips. (Thanks to local bird expert Fran Pope for identifying the swans for us.) The snowy birds stayed on the local pond for only a few hours before moving on. They apparently stopped again on Broadford Lake before leaving entirely.

Roman Catholic tradition. The program is also available for returning Catholics or those current Catholics who wish to learn more about the church's teachings.

The Dec. 1 gathering will begin in the church basement, and continue in the parish rectory for a 90-minute casual gathering that will include information, coffee, tea, and doughnuts. No commitments will be requested at this meeting.

St. Peter's Church is located along North Second Street between Oak and Alder streets. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2202.

WHITE OLEANDER

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:50 - Released 10/11/02

White Oleander is only the second feature film by director Peter Kosminsky (after 1992's ambitious but critically disappointing Fiennes/Binoche vehicle Wuthering Heights, and several TV movies); although its plot suffers from some plausibility issues, it shows that Kosminsky's style is certainly evolving into something worth attention. A coming-of-age story about a young girl forced to live in a series of foster homes after her single mother goes to prison for murder, it exudes atmosphere, intercutting between telling flashbacks and present-day, and features talented actresses like Michelle Pfeiffer, Robin Wright-Penn, and Renée Zellweger, but none more than the young, relatively unknown Alison Lohman, who plays the leading role with a sensitivity and technique equal to that of her more experienced co-stars. The story, based on the novel by Janet Fitch, adapted by Mary Agnes Donoghue, while sometimes so unbelievable it becomes unintentionally comic, provides a view into the life of an orphan who is jerked around to the point of losing her identity, showing how the radically varied lifestyles she encounters shape her into the woman she becomes.

Astrid Magnussen (Lohman), a young L.A. artist working on a complex project at the beginning of the movie, begins her story by attempting to explain her relationship with her fiercely independent artist mother Ingrid (Pfeiffer), who, although she never participated in mainstream parental activities like Astrid's school parents' night, tried to teach Astrid to think for herself and not accept advice, praise, or criticism from other people who are too ignorant to understand the artist's soul. "Never explain, never apologize," she would say; the additional implication being never love, never trust, never become dependent. While Astrid tried to accept this weighty and cynical outlook, she couldn't help noticing that her mother didn't always practice what she preached, becoming romantically entangled with a charming playboy (Billy Connolly) whose infidelity eventually caused her to become jealous enough to poison him. After Ingrid is convicted and sentenced to 35 years to life, Astrid is placed with the first of several wildly unstable foster families.

This film is more a melodrama than a realistic representation of the orphan life, since the families portrayed would probably never be considered remotely suitable by an actual adoption agency, but it provides an interesting cross-section of humanity as seen through the eyes of impressionable youth. It also provides an opportunity for Lohman to display the full breadth of her acting technique, which she does impressively. Taken as a kind of impressionistic theme study in the influences of parental figures, it portrays Astrid's several mothers as a collection of wildly and intentionally varied stereotypes, including a born-again Christian sexpot and former drug and alcohol abuser (Wright-Penn) whose religious devotion is matched only by her petty jealousy; a depressed struggling actress (Zellweger) whose emotional frailty makes her more like a weepy big sister than a mom; and a cynical, opportunistic Russian-American saleswoman (Svetlana Efremova) whose unflinching devotion to the almighty dollar serves to temper Astrid's youthful idealism. Finally she finds a kindred spirit in a fellow orphan named Paul (Patrick Fugit, Almost Famous thanks to a movie by the same name), who draws highly detailed and emblematic comic-book style artworks. Adding to the subjective nature of the film is the fact that Astrid continually sketches everyone who touches her life, good and bad.

Lohman is on screen for practically all of the film's 110 minutes; her ever-evolving character must go through numerous life-changing experiences and react to each with an understanding of the cumulative effects of all those that have gone before. It's not an easy part, especially given the radically overblown nature of some plot elements, but the 23-year-old actress pulls it off with grace, and her large supporting cast helps to compensate for the film's textual flaws. ★★★★★

Loch Lynn Officials Note Accomplishments, Set Goals

A municipal election held in the town of Loch Lynn last week returned incumbent mayor Larry Friend and council members Carolyn Corley and Ronald Friend to office for another two-year term, beginning January 1. In a town newsletter the three of them noted the accomplishments of the town government over the past two years, as well as goals for the next term.

Among the accomplishments cited were: precisely following the town charter, setting uniform garbage collection fees, regulating repairs of roads after installation and repairs by utility companies, passing a flood plain resolution, and passing charter amendment resolutions that allow for executive sessions, the combining of the clerk and treasurer positions, and the setting of wages for town employees by majority vote instead of by ordinance.

Another goal that was achieved, according to the newsletter, was making residents more aware of town council business and happenings via eight newsletters, and the dissemination of the Mayor's Report and Recommendations to the Council for 2001-02. There are also well-documented minutes, as well as audio tapes of town meetings, both of which are available.

Another goal was the reduction of legal fees, which was likewise accomplished, as such fees were reduced from over $11,300 spent in 1998-2000, to a total of just $1,700 for years 2001 and

Completing the town budget on time was a goal that was met, with those of 2000 and 2001 each presented at public meetings before being adopted. Financial records are up to date, and collection of past-due revenue has enabled the town to purchase several pieces of needed equipment, according to the newsletter. The balance in the town's account at the end of 2000 was $32,683, while the balance for September of this year was nearly double that amount at $62,949.

The town also joined the Municipal Assistance Program (MAP), and consequently was successful in obtaining over $31,000 in grant monies for architect/engineer plans to renovate the community center. The town also received a Crime Watch grant and a Community Development Block Grant.

Among the goals of the current mayor and town council are:

- * Continuance of a good working relationship with neighboring Mtn. Lake Park and other towns, as well as the sheriff's office and state police;
- * Aggressively utilize the services of the Maryland Municipal League and Circuit Rider Program;

- * Work regularly with the MAP committee, which includes the mayors of all eight county municipalities, to pursue grant funding, draft uniform ordinances, and share information;

- * Pursue grant monies to complete the community center project;

- * Appoint a town planning commission to work on updating Loch Lynn's comprehensive plan;

- * Continue with the installation of culverts and drop boxes, and continue paving of additional streets

"JUST MOVE IT" WINNER — Laura Belle Harvey is shown above receiving a gift certificate from Amy Ritchie of the Garrett County Health Department for a new pair of walking shoes from Stompers. The certificate is one of many incentives awarded to residents who participate in the Health Department's "Just Move It" exercise promoting program. Every six months (Oct. 1 and April 1) a drawing is held for a gift certificate. For every 100 miles logged and reported within the six-month time frame, a participant's name goes into the drawing. The "Just Move It" program celebrated its one year anniversary on Oct. 1. According to a Health Department spokesperson, 672 Garrett County residents or persons employed in the county have enrolled in the program in the past year. Of those, 206 have earned sweatshirts for exercising 100 miles; 66 have earned water bottles for exercising for 250 miles; and 25 have received their 500 mile patch. Additionally, seven individuals have earned their 1,000-mile patches, while two have earned their 1,500-mile patches. Charlie Himmer is the only participant to have earned the 2,000-mile patch, having logged 2,676 miles. The other top participants are Porter Welch, 1,978; David Ritchie, 1,376; Helen Crouse, 1,102; Janet Hardesty, 1,003; Sandy Sutton, 958; Thelma Michaels, 876; Betty Cummings, 875; Bonnie Michaels, 812; and Cathy Williams, 795. Persons interested in enrolling in this free program may call 301-334-7730. The program is funded by a Cardiovascular Risk Reduction Grant.

- * Coordinate the completion of the concession stand at the ballfields, and resolve parking issues for next soccer season;

- * Continue to keep residents informed through quarterly newsletters and posted notices.

The newsletter also noted that Mayor Friend and Council members Corley and Friend took no compensation for their two years of service, saving the town $1,740 which was used to better compensate the town clerk, Julie Coleman.

Incumbent members of the Loch Lynn council who were not up for election this fall are Sheila O'Neill and Roger Shaffer.

HAVE YOU COMPLIMENTED YOUR CHILD TODAY

A child needs at least one, good solid compliment per day. If "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," a compliment a day will give self-esteem to your child.

Self-esteem is crucial for a person. How does a child build it? Does he come by it himself? Not really! The beginning of a self-esteem happens when parents constantly and consistently COMPLIMENT the child.

Children need to hear, "Hey, you did a great job." A pat on the back, a "well done," "I appreciate you," "I'm proud of you," are beautiful words to the ears of the child, whether the child is 5 or 50.

Some sons and daughters, now grown, have never heard their parents praise them to their faces. Oh, they hear from others how proud Mom or Pop is of them, but they wait, hoping to hear it with their own ears. And some parents go to their graves, proud as peaches of their children, but they never "said it."

"A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in baskets of silver." (Proverbs 25:11) If you haven't complimented your child recently, do it today!

Ex-Grantsville Resident Earns Pa. Jail Honors

Allegheny County (Pa.) jail correctional officer Russell Drenning, formerly of Grantsville and now a resident of Chalfant Pa., has been honored with his agency's 2002 Outstanding Correctional Staff Award. The honor was announced at the Jail Chaplain's Office annual dinner held recently in Wilkesburg, Pa. Drenning, who has been in law enforcement for over 30 years, has been working at the jail since 1989.

"Officer Drenning has been a welcome presence in the jail, most recently working as the Level One escort officer," said Rev. Ulli Klemm, the jail's director of chaplaincy services. "Russell takes great pride in his work, making sure inmate out-counts are done properly, ensuring the safety of inmates, volunteers, and guests, and he is always offering a helpful and friendly hand."

Junior Historians Slate "Folk Toys And Games"

The Somerset County (Pa.) Junior Historians will present a program titled "Folk Toys and Games" on Monday, Nov. 18, from 7 until 8 p.m. at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa.

The event, sponsored by the Springs Historical Society will highlight old-time toys and games.

The Junior Historians are composed of local young people who have an interest in the history of Somerset County. The group is sponsored by the Somerset Historical Society.

The Folk Meeting House is located along Springs Road. Admission to the program is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may call Joe Bender at 814-662-4366.

BOWSER RECEIVES CERTIFICATES — Eric Bowser, owner/operator of Keylock Security, recently attended a trade show and certification classes at the Turf Valley Country Club in Ellicott City. While there, he received certificates of achievement for certification in the following areas: ASSA High Security locks series ASSA Twin, ASSA 6000, and ASSA Twin V-10. Bowser is a member of the Associated Locksmiths of America Inc. and has been involved in locksmithing since 1986, following his graduation from the Foley-Belsaw Institute. He also graduated from an advanced locksmithing course in 1987. Bowser founded Keylock in 1997.

Hurd To Deliver Nature Writing Lecture At FSU

Frostburg State University's English department has announced the first in a series of three lectures by Barbara Hurd, holder of the 2002-03 Wilson H. Elkins Professorship of the University System of Maryland. The lecture, "Turning Facts into Truth: Writing Essays about the Natural World," will be presented at 3 p.m. Monday, Nov. 25, in Room 219 of Dunkle Hall.

Starting from Thoreau's warning to "not underrate the value of a fact; it will one day flower into a truth," Hurd will discuss the differences between facts and truths, and how to turn one into the other "so that an essay might matter to a reader."

Hurd teaches creative writing at FSU and is the author of Stirring the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs, and Human Imagination, a Los Angeles Times Best Book of the Year selection, and a book on caves titled Entering the Stone, which Houghton Mifflin will publish next year.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may call the FSU's English department at 301-687-

SNOWY CREEK by Will Gallagher

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on October 10. Roll call was to name a fall activity. President Jennifer Lowdermilk called the meeting to order.

In old business, the club discussed the bike and hike activity, National 4-H week, and the sausage fund-raiser. In new business the club discussed the annual beef fund-raiser, Adopt-A-Highway, decorating the library, and the election of next year's officers. The club also set a date for the Christmas dinner.

The next meeting will be held November 14 at the Guard farm. The agenda will include demonstrations and election of officers.

Library System Seeks Old High School Yearbooks

The Ruth Enlow Library system of Garret County is collecting copies of yearbooks from Southern and Northern high schools, as well as the old Oakland High School.

"Yearbooks are valuable resources for anyone conducting family history research and also provide a nice picture of the local community throughout the years," explained library associate Keela Pfaff. Persons interested in donating an old Southern High or Oakland High yearbook for the Oakland library's collection may contact Pfaff at 301-334-3996, ext. 105, or via e-mail at pfaff@relib.net.

Persons interested in donating yearbooks from Northern High School to be housed in the Grantsville library should contact Kim Lishia at 301-895-5298 or lishia@relib.net.

Because of lack of storage space, the library sys-

INDUCTED INTO SHS 1200 CLUB — In an effort to encourage students to both take and reach a successful score on the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT), the 1200 Club has been instituted to reward those students of excellence at Southern High School. Recently senior Matt Stephens was recognized at the newest member to join the club. As a reward for setting such a high standard, Stephens will receive recognition in SGHS publications, a certificate presented at the final Success Celebration, a movie ticket to Garrett 8 Cinemas, a season pass to all athletic events from the time the 1200 score was earned until the end of the school year, and will have his name added to a permanent plaque in the media center. Stephens is shown above with Tom Woods, principal of SHS.

SHS STUDENTS COMPLETE 9/11 PARK — Southern High School building, block, and masonry students recently completed securing benches and laying brick for the new 9/11 Memorial Park in front of the school. "The park is a place of reflection for students and community to share in commemoration of the events of 9/11," said SHS spokesperson Heather Savage. The benches in the park were donated by the class of 2002, and the bricks were purchased with donations from an anonymous donor. A time capsule containing poems, pictures, and reflections of 9/11 by Southern High students and teachers is buried beneath the memorial park. Pictured above, left to right, in the front row are Andrew Swiger, Robert Sypolt, Justin Bowman, Amy Lewis, Brian Edwards, and Zachary Rhodes. ## Garden Club To Discuss Farming Issues, Future

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, at the Deep Creek Brewery at Deep Creek Lake. Following the meeting and a buffet lunch, Brooks Hamilton Jr. will speak to members and guests on the topic "Our Farms, Our Future."

A lifelong resident of Garrett County, Hamilton has been actively farming since he completed an agricultural program at the University of Maryland College Park in 1963. He grows corn, small grains, and hay on his 700 acre beef farm near Red House, where he raises 120 head of beef cattle. As a third generation farmer, Brooks has experienced many changes in the agricultural operation of his farm, which his family purchased in 1926.

Hamilton is currently a board member of the Oakland Southern States Cooperative, the Garrett County Soil Conservation District, the Garrett College Agriculture Advisory Committee, and the Black Bear Task Force. He also serves as president of the Garrett County Extension Advisory Council, and was past president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He received the 4-H All Star Award in 2001.

The Nov. 19 meeting, and club membership, are open to all interested persons. Lunch reservations are available from Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland.

Receives ACM Scholarship

Oakland resident Melanie Kamp has been awarded the Ora Mae Lewis Scholarship by the Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, for study during the current academic year.

Kamp is earning an associate degree in nursing. Having previously graduated with a degree in radiologic technology, she plans to combine the two fields, possibly by working as a registered nurse in a hospital radiology department.

A 1997 graduate of Northern High School, Kamp is the daughter of Gregg and Joyce Kamp of Lonaconing.

Completes Basic Training, AIT

Pvt. 2 Adam M. Lewis, Mtn. Lake Park, has completed basic training for the United States Army Reserve and will graduate from his advanced individual training tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 16, at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Upon graduation, Lewis will receive the Army Service Medal, the Army Service Ribbon, and the National Defense Ribbon.

During his training assignments, Lewis learned the basic soldiering skills required for members of the Army Reserve and the skills required to be a combat engineer. He is assigned to the 458th Combat Engineers, Johnstown, Pa., which is charged with providing combat engineer support to forward maneuver elements in support of offensive and defensive operations. Lewis will be assigned to the 458th for the duration of his enlistment.

Combat engineers employ state-of-the-art machinery to deliver responsive engineer support, providing the Army with mobility, counter-mobility and a survivability advantage to over-

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

We need two things: volunteers and donations.

To volunteer as a shopper in Oakland, please contact Linda Thomas at 301-387-6203. To volunteer as a shopper in Northern Garrett County, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen at the newspaper office at 301-334-3963.

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before November 20, 2002. Those collected after November 20 will be saved for next year's campaign.

TV-PIPELINE

Hall will be back in the 'Zone' soon

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q: Will "The Dead Zone" be back with new episodes on USA Network anytime soon? It's a great show! -Mercedes via e-mail.

A: One of cable's biggest hits, the Anthony Michael Hall series, based on a Stephen King novel, starts a new season on Jan. 5, 2003.

Q: Is that Bruce Springsteen doing the new opening theme song to "The Guardian"? -Bobbie via e-mail.

A: No, it's Jakob Dylan and his group, the Wallflowers, performing "The Empire in My Mind," which Dylan wrote expressly for the series.

Q: Who played George Steinbrenner on "Seinfeld"? I say Garry Marshall, but my husband disagrees. -Diane Plitt, Laurel, Md.

A: "Seinfeld" co-creator Larry David, currently starring in the HBO comedy series "Curb Your Enthusiasm," was the uncredited voice of Steinbrenner and even "sat in" for the character in some scenes. In others, an actor named Lee Bear occupied Steinbrenner's chair.

Q: I heard a rumor that "Providence" is in danger of being canceled. I knew that ratings had dropped sharply, but is this true? -Abby L., Atlanta.

A: It's a done deal. Although NBC gracefully dances around using the C word, the network has announced that "Providence" will end its five-year run with a special two-hour finale on Dec. 20.

Q: When did "Captain Video" a program from my childhood, originally air? -Bryce Garrett, Boscobel, Wis.

Anthony Michael Hall

A: A 1949-55 offering of the DuMont Network, "Captain Video and His Video Rangers" was a weekday program starring Al Hodge as private citizen-scientist Captain Video. Richard Coogan created the role in 1949 but left after one season. Co-stars included Don Hastings, who has played Dr. Bob Hughes on CBS' "As the World Turns" since 1960.

The weekday success of the series was so strong that a live Saturday companion series, "The Secret Files of Captain Video," ran from 1953 to 1955, presenting "backstories" on the characters from the weekday programs. The series eventually petered out in a 1956 ABC offering called "Captain Video and His Cartoon Rangers," in which Hodge's Captain Video introduced cartoons including "Little Lulu" and "Superman" from his secret mountain retreat.

Parker House To Be Among Those On Tour

The American Red Cross "Home for the Holidays" house tours, hosted annually by the local chapter, will be held this year on Dec. 6 and 7. Included in this year's tour is the home of Jack & Sue Parker, located at 414 Hazelhurst Lane in Swanton.

The Parkers purchased the property, located on the southern shore of Deep Creek Lake, in the fall of 1990. After several years of discussion over what sort of home to build, the Parkers hired Danny Friend of West-Mar Builders to construct a cedar and stone contemporary house. They moved in on Oct. 9, 1998.

The home is situated on the lot so that the front of the house faces the lake rather than the road. The front of the house has covered porches on each side that open onto a large deck overlooking the lake. The side facing the road has a covered porch that runs the length of the home and is wonderful for sitting outside whether it is clear or stormy weather.

Guests will enter through sliding doors into the eat-in kitchen with a center island. This is all open space and leads into the great room, where a native stone fireplace is the focal point. It is surrounded by ceiling-to-floor windows, which provide beautiful views of the lot overlooking the lake. The room is decorated with wildlife knickknacks, pictures of Garrett County scenes, and old mills in West Virginia.

The furnishings are a blend of old and new. Most of the older pieces, such as the gluepots from the state house in Iowa located in the windows, the World War II leather U.S. Air Force helmet on a wooden rocking airplane, and Lenox bird plates, are a few of the items Mrs. Parker either was given or inherited from her grandparents. The fireplace boasts a large scenic sign bearing the name they gave their home, Journey's End. Barry Dominic of Deer Park created it, among several other signs at the home.

Overlooking the great room is a 20'x20' loft, decorated for comfort and used mostly during the winter season for watching movies or listening to the stereo. There are three bedrooms on the main level. Their daughter's room has a quilt that was made by the ladies of Dry Run Mennonite Church and was purchased at the Country Fest Auction. The guest bedroom is decorated all in hearts and flowers. Both rooms are furnished with solid oak matching bedroom sets and have Louis Icart prints from the 1920s. On the opposite side of the house is the master bedroom suite, which features a solid pine bedroom suite with a king-size sleigh bed. There is a large bathroom with a Jacuzzi tub, separate shower stall, his and her sinks, and another Louis Icart print.

The lower level includes a large family room with a media area and a gaming center. A library/computer room is also located on this level. There are three more Louis Icart prints as well as other antique pictures, all of family members. The floor also has another full bath, the laundry room, and a bedroom.

The Parkers' son lives in the lower level bedroom decorated in the style of early American teenager, "no rhyme or reason," his parents said. A four-paneled teak and carved stone screen was purchased by Mrs. Parker's grandparents over 50 years ago on a trip to Japan. It matches a set of nesting tables in the great room.

The house is open and very livable, the owners said. "Our decorating style is 'if we like it, it fits' and is a blend of old and new. There is nothing formal about this home. It's all about family and tradition."

In addition to the Parkers' house, the homes on this year's tour will be those of Royce and Leslie Warnick, Sean and Jodi Nichols, Bob and Beverly Everett, and Butch and Ann Byrne. There is also a church on the tour, the Paradise United Methodist Church, which is located along Sand Flat Road.

At the time of the tours, directional signs will be placed at intersections to help guests find the locations. Red Cross yard signs will be placed in front of each home as well. A raffle will be held at the five homes for gifts donated by local businesses.

Tickets for the event are $5 in advance or $7 on the day of the event. Tickets are available now at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies, and at Flowers by Webers in Oakland; Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake; and Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry.

All ticket holders will be asked to remove their shoes or use shoe covers before entering the homes. Guests will also be asked to refrain from videotaping or photographing the homes.

A People Movers bus will be available to transport guests on the tour Friday evening. The cost for the bus, in addition to the door ticket, is $5. Reservations for this feature must be made no later than noon on Thursday, Dec. 5, by calling 301-334-9727 and leaving a message. The bus will leave the Mary Browning Senior Center promptly at 3:30 p.m. on Friday, a spokesperson said.

Rebekah Martin Receives JWCC Scholarship

Rebekah Martin, a freshman at Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, was recently awarded the Junior Woman's Civic Club scholarship. A 2002 graduate of Southern High School, Martin was a member of the varsity girls' soccer team, the National Honor Society, and a class officer her sophomore and junior years. She was also involved with Arsenal Football, and is a United States Soccer Federation certified referee.

Martin is the daughter of Martha Martin, Mtn. Lake Park, and Cecil Martin, Oakland. She is pursuing a bachelor's degree in architecture.

GC To Sponsor Massage Therapy Clinic Dec. 9-11

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College will offer a massage therapy clinic staffed by GC's core massage therapy students. The clinic, which will be open to the public, is scheduled for December 9-11.

In this supervised clinical setting, members of the public are invited to receive client-focused massage therapy from the core students. There is a $25 fee to participate.

Appointments may be scheduled through the Continuing Education and Training Division office, McHenry Campus, Room 300, or by telephoning Carol Newman at 301-387-3088.

Quitters Are Winners With The Great American Smokeout

Director of Health Education
Garrett County Health Department

Are you ready for 24 hours without cigarettes or chewing tobacco? That's what the Great American Smokeout is all about. On Thursday, Nov. 21, make a commitment to be tobacco-free for just one day. According to the American Cancer Society, more Americans try to quit smoking on this day than any other day of the year, including New Year's Day.

Here are some ideas for participation in the Great American Smokeout whether you are a tobacco user, a non-user, or an employer.

1. Employer — Declare your facility and grounds tobacco-free for the day. While this imposes a challenge to tobacco users, it also demonstrates that you care about the health and safety of your employees. Scientific evidence proves that there are significant health risks to both the smoker and the person exposed to secondhand smoke. Already, Garrett County schools, the Board of Education administrative office, Garrett College, and the Health Department do not permit tobacco use on their campus grounds. Garrett Memorial Hospital and Garrett County Community Action are also making strides toward making their facilities and grounds tobacco-free.

2. Non-user — Adopt a tobacco-user for the day and give him or her encouragement and praise to successfully quit for the day. Make sure he or she has plenty of gum or carrot sticks to chew on. Keep him or her busy to occupy the time normally spent smoking or chewing tobacco.

3. User — Make the commitment to try it for the day. Prove to yourself that you can do it. It is the first step toward creating a healthier lifestyle. Be sure to tell someone that you are doing it so that he or she can provide support to you.

In Garrett County, nearly 1 in 5 adults smoke cigarettes (19.2%), and 6% are users of smokeless tobacco (highest in the state of Maryland). Among youth, the statistics are even more startling. Twenty-two percent (22%) are current smokers and 8.6% use smokeless tobacco. The long-term results of high tobacco use rates show Garrett County among the worst counties in the state for death from diseases of the heart (21st out of 24), cerebrovascular disease (23rd out of 24), and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (20th out of 24).

Thus, the long-term benefits of quitting are obvious, but a smoker doesn't have to wait long to experience immediate benefits. Within 20 minutes of quitting, a smoker's blood pressure drops to a level close to that before the last cigarette. The temperature of a smoker's hands and feet increases to normal. Within eight hours of quitting, the carbon monoxide level in a smoker's blood drops to normal. And within 24 hours of quitting, a smoker's chance of heart attack decreases. All this can happen as a result of quitting on the Great American Smokeout.

Of course, the benefits of quitting continue to increase in number and intensity the longer a smoker stays tobacco-free. So prove to yourself that you can quit for one day, and build your confidence to go for longer periods without tobacco products.

If you are willing to participate in one or more of the suggested activities to celebrate the Great American Smokeout and would like more information, call Kendra Todd or Mike Wilburn at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111. If you are interested in quitting beyond the Great American Smokeout, the health department also offers individual counseling as well as cessation classes.

Quitters are winners when it comes to tobacco!

Maryland To Lean On Community Colleges To Ease Teacher Shortage

by Hattie Brown
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS — With a more streamlined student transfer process and improved support, community colleges could help provide the state with thousands of teachers to ease a growing shortage, an October report says.

Maryland is one of the few states where educators are already discussing ways to tap into the potential teacher supply at community colleges.

After community college students earn their associate's degree, they typically transfer to four-year institutions for a bachelor's degree and teaching certificate. In doing that, students lose credits, prolonging their time in school and costing them thousands of dollars. Educators in the state are trying to change that process.

A report released by the Massachusetts-based non-profit Recruiting New Teachers stressed the role of community colleges in relieving the teacher shortage. The nation is facing a 2.4 million teacher shortage, a quarter of which could be cut if states used community college resources.

Even without the added support, nearly 600,000 teachers — about 20 percent — began their education in one of the country's 1,100 community colleges, according to the report.

Maryland alone needs about 9,000 more teachers in the coming years, said John Sabatini, Maryland Higher Education Commission's assistant secretary for planning and academic affairs.

State colleges and universities produce about 2,500 teachers a year, but only about 1,500 of them decide to teach in the state, he said.

State educators have already begun scouring community colleges for potential teachers.

In 2001, community colleges made it easier for students who earned associate's degrees in elementary education to transfer to the University System of Maryland's four-year institutions. Before then, community college students had to know exactly what four-year school they planned to attend after graduation in order to meet its requirements.

Educators now plan to create a similar program by June 2003 for associate's degrees in secondary education, said Sabatini.

Developing the secondary education curriculum, however, will not be easy. With secondary education, educators must take into account both teaching and specialization requirements. For example, if a student wants to teach chemistry, that student must study both education and chemistry. This difficulty has led to some reluctance among four-year institutions to accept the secondary education associate's degree.

W. Dorsey Hammond, Salisbury University education department chairman, questions whether community colleges have the resources to teach upper-level education courses. The community college role should be to provide students with a general studies background so they can start teaching courses in a four-year institution, he said.

AUTHOR SHARES HIS BOOK WITH STUDENTS — The Garrett County Community Action Committee's Overlook Judy Center and the Partnership for Children and Families recently hosted author Marc Harshman at Broad Ford Elementary School. All families attending received a copy of Harshman's All the Way to Morning, a multicultural story. Harshman shared stories with the children and their parents, as well as presented ideas for parents reading with their children.

Nevertheless, at a conference this month discussing the possible degree, administrators were warning to the idea, said Sheila Allen, Harford Community College's education programs coordinator.

"Is there resistance? Sure. But you expect that," Allen said. "Everyone agreed that something has to be done."

Students studying to be secondary education teachers, the most needed in the state, are often discouraged by not being able to easily transfer to a four-year school, Allen said.

"We need the teachers," she said. "They (students) want to get out and start getting a salary."

Increased funding and student scholarships are other ways the state can support the community college's effort to produce quality teachers, said Recruiting New Teachers CEO

Mildred Hudson.

Soliciting teachers from community colleges is also a way to increase the much-needed diversity in the classroom. Because of accessibility and affordability, about half of all minority college students and many low-income students attend community colleges.

Nationally, about 40 percent of students are minorities, but only 13 percent of teachers are.

"The community college is a very good resource for the recruitment of the diverse and minority students," said Elynn McLaughlin, Anne Arundel Community College director of teacher education. "Maryland has actually been ahead of the game as far as utilizing community colleges."

Tapping into community college teaching resources is also a "natural retention strategy," Sabatini said. After five years, about 50 percent of teachers in the state leave the profession. However, community college students tend to be more loyal — working longer in the field and teaching in less desired urban areas.

"These teachers tend to work in the community they came from," Hudson said. "You get a double bang for your buck."

Nov. Proclaimed National Home Care Month

The Garrett County commissioners recently proclaimed November as National Home Care Month. Representatives from the Garrett County Health Department attended the proclamation and were recognized for their efforts in providing home health care to county residents.

Since 1995, the National Association for Home Care (NAHC) has observed the month to recognize the "immeasurable" contribution of America's thousands of home care professionals and the courage and perseverance of the millions of patients and families they serve.

"Home care is the oldest and most enduring tradition of health care delivery in the world," said Linda Moe, RN, of the Garrett County Health Department. "Recent changes in the health care system have brought about shorter hospital stays and the emphasis that being home speeds recovery."

She added that most individuals prefer to remain at home with their family and friends in surroundings that are familiar and comfortable.

"The Garrett County Health Department Home Health Agency has a professionally trained, licensed, and certified staff with years of home health experience," said Moe.

The Garrett County Health Department's Home Health Agency offers a "practical means" of providing health care and related services to those in need with the expertise of trained professionals.

Garrett County HHA services offered in the home are nursing, home health aide, physical therapy, occupational therapy, medical social worker, and nutrition consultations.

To be eligible for Home Health services, individuals must be under the care of a physician, be in need of intermittent, part-time skilled care, and be referred by their physician.

The GCHD/HHA also provides services under the Maryland Medicaid Home and Community Based Services for Older Adults with Physical Disabilities program. Anyone may contact the GCHD/HHA nursing staff for more information about the Home Health and the Maryland Medicaid Waiver programs.

The Adult Evaluation and Review Service can assist with community resources and information and evaluations for the waiver program.

The Home Health Agency is Medicare certified and licensed by the state of Maryland. For more information, persons may call 301-334-7750 or 301-895-3111 or fax 301-334-7751.

"This year's theme, 'Home Care and Hospice: The Heart and Soul of Health Care in America,' acknowledges that in these difficult, uncertain and ever changing times, caring for one another is also the central and shared value of home care and hospice professionals," said Val J. Hamandaris, president National Association for Home Care.

GC Offering Advanced Word Crash Course

The Small Business Development Center of Garrett College will offer an Advanced Word crash course, a one-session class, on Friday Dec. 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with a one-hour break for lunch. The class will be held at the Grantsville Outreach Center. Class instructor will be Alice Bosley, a former Gateway trainer/programmer.

The class will cover electronic word processing and the basic elements of the Word program; however, the instructor will also go more in-depth with Mail Merge, pictures, and tables. Questions are always welcome. Working knowledge of basic Word is required for this class.

For more information or to register, persons may call Sue Smith at 301-387-3089.

Breastfeeding Support Group Slates Meeting

The monthly meeting of the La Leche League of Garrett County is slated for 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Community Room of the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The topic for the breastfeeding support group's meeting will be "Overcoming Difficulties During the Holiday Season."

"The upcoming holiday season can present challenges to the mother of a new baby," a La Leche spokesperson said. "Concerns about traveling with an infant, and uncomfortable situations while visiting relatives can magnify the normal stresses of the season." The meeting will address "holiday weaning" and how to "get it all done" with a baby in the family, with those present sharing ideas and concerns.

The La Leche League of Garrett County holds

Garrett Women Are A "Cut Above" As WVU Forestry Team Members

By David Foster
Two Garrett County residents, April Enlow of Friendsville and Melissa Upole of Oakland, are among the 14 members of a West Virginia University ole, who graduated from Southern High, are both first-year members of the Mountaineer squad.

"The West Virginia Woodsman Team has given me the opportunity to compete in one of the most unique and challenging sports ever," Upole said. "It's such a rush to swing a razor blade axe," she commented.

"The experience that I went through in my first competition was amazing," Enlow concurred. "As I threw the axe, I felt like I was going to fly away."

WVU has been fielding an intercollegiate forestry team for over 25 years. The current team is composed of 10 men and 4 women, each a member of the college's Forestry Club. The list of forestry skills that may be exhibited at the competitions includes Jack and Jill (male and female) crosscut sawing and Jill and Jill (female and female) crosscut sawing, and separate male and female individual events of axe throw, log roll, underhand chop, using the axe, standing block, undercut chop, polefell and bolt split, using the chainsaw, and stocksaw race, plus male bow saw and female box saw.

In early October the WVU team competed in the Crab Carnival Woodsman's Contest at West Point, Va. The Mountaineers out-chopped the Virginia Tech team in eight of 11 events to take first place, which they have done for the past several years at the festival.

On Nov. 9, the WVU Woodsman's team traveled to Lindsey, Ontario, Canada, for the prestigious Sir Stamford Fleming College Timbersports Competition. The Mountaineers were among 37 teams representing 14 colleges from across the United States and Canada at the 20th annual event. Only a handful of American teams have won at the Fleming Competition, including the 1993 WVU team, the southernmost squad to ever take first place as a unit.

A CUT ABOVE THE REST, the West Virginia University Woodsman forestry skills team has been kicking up the sawdust in a fine fall campaign against other colleges from the United States and Canada. Two of the team's members are Garrett County residents, April Enlow of Friendsville and Melissa Upole of Oakland. The squad is shown as they "log on" for another competition. From the left, in Row One, are Enlow, Upole, Barbie Linton, Jenea Rollins, and team captain Kyle Friend. Row Two: Brad Morrison, Jonathan Kuhn, and James Daniels. Row Three: Clint Puller, Scott McGee, Ben Collier, Ryan Lewis, Brian Misener, and Greg Hamonds. Upole and Puller teamed up to take first place in the Jack and Jill division at the recent Fleming College Timbersports Competition in Ontario, one of the most prestigious tests of forestry skills on the intercollegiate circuit.

The Mountaineers routinely place very high at the Fleming College event, and this year was no exception. Senior Jonathan Kuhn, a second-year member of the WVU squad, distinguished himself by taking first place in the men's axe throw competition. After his first four throws, which scored at 80 out of a possible 100, Kuhn found himself tied with a contestant from Nova Scotia. He clinched the event with his first tie-breaker toss when he hit a dead-center bull's eye, and then closed out his run with two more bull's eyes.

Oakland's Upole partnered with teammate Clint Puller as the pair took first place overall in the Jack and Jill division, earning the most points in six events — single buck, triathlon, standing block, pulp toss, packboard, and underhand cut. She also finished just seconds behind the winner of the women's chainsaw competition, and was a member of the WVU bow saw relay team.

The Mountaineer men's team placed seventh overall out of 20 teams, scoring in the top eight in nine events.

Members of the WVU Woodsman forestry team are available for exhibitions at fairs and festivals. For more information, or to schedule a demonstration or exhibition, persons may contact team captain Kyle Friend at 304-676-3486.

GOP Women Slate Auction, Holiday Lunch

The Northern Garrett Republican Women's Club (NGRW) will hold its annual fall auction on Tuesday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m., at the Hilltop Restaurant. A continuing invitation is extended to the newly elected Garrett County officials to participate in the evening of fellowship and victory celebration, honoring the Republican Party, state and county.

A report on the MFRW Fall Convention, held in Cross Keys, will be given by President Carolyn Ganoe.

The NGRW Christmas luncheon will be held Friday, Dec. 13, at 5 p.m., also at the Hilltop Restaurant. Members are encouraged to invite a guest. Persons are asked to respond by December 9 to Ganoe at 301-895-3545 or Brenda Butscher at 301-334-4500.

The Christmas gift will be given to a community project selected at the luncheon. A fruit basket and a cookie basket will be prepared by Carol Frazee, Zelma Robeson, Mildred Huselbaugh, and Nancy DeVore. Charlotte Sebold will

SCOUTING FOR FOOD BENEFITS FOOD PANTRIES — Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and Tiger Cubs spent last Saturday (Nov. 9) collecting food for local food pantries as part of the Scouting for Food Drive. "Scouting for Food is the largest food drive in the country and is sponsored entirely by the Boy Scouts of America," said local scoutmaster Bob Stephens. "Each year, over 70 million pounds of food is collected nationwide." The Potomac Council alone collected more than 34,000 pounds in Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland and Mineral, Hampshire, Grant, and Hardy counties in West Virginia. Locally, Cub Scout Packs 31, 40, and 70, and Boy Scout Troops 1 and 22 together collected 2,470 pounds of food for the House of Hope food pantry, said Stephens. discount prices.

"We're not forced to lower prices beyond our margins to get our business in," he said.

Home-related merchandise and leisure goods, such as books, sporting equipment, and compact discs, should be strong sellers, Saquella said. Apparel sales should bounce back from generally weak back-to-school and fall sales.

Expected hot-selling items include miniature remote-control cars and Mattel's Rapunzel Barbie, along with James Bond and other video games. In jewelry sales, colored stones will challenge gold and diamond sales. DVD players, big screen TVs, and digital cameras will lead in electronics.

Old Fashioned Christmas Set In Grantsville

The town of Grantsville will be hosting an Old Fashioned Grantsville Christmas on Friday, Dec. 6, and Saturday, Dec. 7.

There will be open-house celebrations at all of the following businesses: Four Season Stitchery, Flower Loft, Pine Accents, Print Shoppe, Spinning Wheel Antiques & Dream Weavers Antiques, Elliot House Bed and Breakfast, Wormy Chestnut Gift and Candy Shop, Beachy's Pharmacy, and Yoder's Country Market. Holiday specials, door prizes, and refreshments will be offered at each business.

Benefit Dinner, Auction Slated For Lowdermills

A benefit buckwheat cake supper, followed by an auction, will be held Saturday, Nov. 23, at the Sand Spring Church of God social hall, located at 1030 Fearer Road, Friendsville. All proceeds from the two events will go to the family of Jennifer Lowdermilk, who recently died suddenly and is survived by her husband and four young children.

Serving of the "all-you-can-eat" dinner, which will include buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, fried potatoes, and sausage gravy, will begin at 3 p.m., and the auction will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

The dinner and auction are being coordinated and sponsored by the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren and Sand Spring Church of God.

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland merchants, responding to cautious consumers and a shortened shopping season, are expecting holiday sales to rise a scant 2 percent over 2001, according to a Maryland Retailers Association survey released Tuesday.

"Quite honestly, that's on the low side," said Tom Saquella, president of the 800-member statewide trade group. "Most retailers would like to see it close to 4 percent."

An uncertain economy fueled by talk of war in Iraq, the West Coast port slowdown, and speculation about an increased sales tax will affect consumer confidence and sales, Saquella said.

"People thinking about going to war doesn't really put them in the mood for shopping in the holiday season," he said.

Last year, despite the economic slowdown following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, the group came close to hitting its projected 2.5 percent rise in holiday sales.

Retailers are hoping aggressive discounts and promotions starting this week will counter a late start of the holiday season. Typically, holiday shopping starts the Friday after Thanksgiving, but retailers, worried about getting consumers in stores, are getting a head start.

"I think we're probably going to see some more discounting this year," said Gene Condon, general manager of Arundel Mills in Hanover. "Retail in general has been impacted over the past several months. I think that we're going to see some retailers eliminate some inventory."

The mall, in its second full year of operation, expects sales in its established stores to rise 8 to 9 percent, Condon said. The 200 retail and entertainment stores are expecting big crowds in the last week or 10 days before the season ends.

Ray Kenney, vice president of Pasadena Furniture in Pasadena, is expecting sales to be a bit ahead of last year, which included the best fourth-quarter the store ever had with a 30 percent jump over 2000. Sales for full rooms have averaged $1,700, up from $1,400 last year.

Kenney doesn't plan to

by Hattie Brown
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS — New federal legislation has left Maryland school officials scrambling to find teachers, amid a national teacher shortage, to meet more stringent qualifications, the state schools chief told lawmakers Tuesday.

Passed in January, the No Child Left Behind Act sets minimum standards for the nation's schools on issues such as testing, teacher qualifications, and school achievement.

Finding teachers has been the hardest problem education officials have faced so far, said state Schools Superintendent Nancy Grasmick to the House Appropriations subcommittee on education. Federal law now requires every school to have only "highly qualified teachers," which state officials have defined to mean certified teachers.

However, the state has relied heavily on provisional teachers — who hold a degree in their subject, but have no teacher certification — during the past few years because of the worsening teacher shortage.

More than 5,000 provisional teachers were hired statewide during the 2001-2002 school year.

Under the new law, provisional teachers must become certified or quit teaching after a year, creating more teacher vacancies in already short-staffed schools.

"Thus having highly qualified teachers is a huge struggle for us," Grasmick said.

The teacher shortage will only worsen, school officials said. State colleges and universities produce about 1,500 teaching candidates a year, said Ron Peiffer, assistant state superintendent, yet the state is expected to need about 8,000 teachers.

"Sounds to me like we have a major problem," said Delegate Frank Turner, D-Howard, during the briefing. "We're far short in training teachers in Maryland."

Under the No Child Left Behind Act, the state education department is also required to notify parents of children taught by instructors not yet "highly qualified." That task could become a "huge tracking issue" that is both time consuming and costly, Grasmick said.

Despite the problems, Grasmick said she is committed to complying with the act.

Maryland is already ahead of other states in changing its assessment process. The education department recently replaced the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program, which only graded school performance, with the Maryland School Assessment, which will give individual student scores. "This is a very challenging journey we're on," Grasmick said. "But I feel confident we can do it and we have to — it's the right thing to do for our children."

Distance Learning Courses Available Through Garrett

A number of distance learning courses will be available at Garrett College in spring semester 2003. Most of these courses will be offered on the Internet so students can take them without leaving home.

Two of these courses, Principles of Accounting II (ACC 112) and Introduction to Computers (CS 105), have been developed and will be instructed by Pramod Kapoor, professor of business.

General Psychology

(PSY 101) will be taught by Terry Kasecamp, associate professor of psychology at the college.

A number of courses will originate from other Maryland community colleges and will have limited enrollment for Garrett students. Three business courses will be available — Introduction to Business (BUS 101), Medical Terminology (BUS 130), and Business Law (BUS 203). Other courses that will be offered are Survey of British Literature (ENG 251), American History Since 1865 (HIS 112), Juvenile Delinquency (JUV 292), Criminal Investigation (LE 292), Criminology (LE 293), Calculus III (MAT 192), and Principles of Sociology (SOC 101). These courses are scheduled to begin in late January or early February.

In addition to the Internet courses, Pre Calculus (MAT 110) will be taught by Dr. Nancy Prisela on cable television Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 8:30 to 10 a.m.

Students must have a minimum 2.0 GPA to enroll in these distance learning courses. Registration may be made in the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. For further information, interested persons may call 301-387-3044.

Accident Group Sets Thanksgiving Food Basket Drive

The Accident Community Planning Group is sponsoring a Thanksgiving food basket drive for persons in need, and is currently collecting donations of non-perishable food items. Those interested in making such a donation may bring items to Accident Amoco, Accident Library, Annie's Kitchen, Shear Delight Beauty Salon, Foodland Fresh, and the Wisp. The last day to donate will be Friday, Nov. 22.

The group also held a fall festival event at the Accident fire hall on October 31 to support the food basket project. The festival featured various games, a cake walk, cookie and pumpkin decorating, music, and door prizes. The approximately 125 persons who attended either paid a $1 cover charge or donated one or two non-perishable food items for admission.

Persons with questions about the project may telephone Virginia Fike at 301-746-8944 or Barbara Speicher at 301-746-8437.

St. Peter's Plans Spaghetti Dinner

St. Peter the Apostle Church, Oakland, will hold a spaghetti dinner on Friday, Nov. 22, from 4 until 7 p.m. at the parish hall, located at Oak and Fourth streets.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the 150th Anniversary Fund at the church.

The dinner will include antipasto salad, spaghetti and meatballs, dessert, and hot and cold drinks. Wine will also be available.

The cost is $6 for adults and $4 for children 12 and younger.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-2202.

Toys For Tots Being Collected

The Salisbury Area Family Center and Tableland Services Inc. will be collecting toys for the Marine Corps Reserve Toys For Tots toy campaign.

Starting November 23 and ending December 13, persons are invited to bring a new, unwrapped toy and place it in the Toys For Tots barrel at either the Salisbury Area Family Center or Tableland Services Inc.

Persons with questions may call the Family Center at 814-662-2721 or Tableland Services at 814-445-9628.

FRIENDSVILLE

kets. Soup and sandwiches will be provided. There will also be an election of officers.

Mini-Bucks Bingo
Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will be sponsoring Mini-Bucks Bingo on Sunday, Nov. 17, at the Friendsville fire hall. Early birds will begin at 1:30 p.m. and regular games will start at 2 p.m. The cost is $15 per ticket with a $1.00 pay-out. Food will be available.

Open House
A surprise open house will be held to celebrate the 90th birthday of Larna Umbel on Sunday, Nov. 17, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren. Those interested in attending are encouraged to do so. (No gifts, please.) Cards can be sent to Larna at 13764 Friendsville Road, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Fire Dept. News
The Friendsville Fire and Rescue Dept. Inc. is holding "Wing Night" every Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. Take-outs are available. Other items are also offered, such as french fries, chicken fingers, hotdogs, nachos and cheese, etc. All support in this endeavor will be appreciated.

Dear Friends,

First and foremost, we would like to extend our thanks for your past support of our "Big Band Christmas Gala." The event has been sponsored by the Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 since its inception ten years ago. Over $15,000.00 has been raised and distributed to our local charities, including Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, United Way of Garrett County, and Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.

This year, we are proud to announce selection of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., once again as the recipient of net proceeds from this year's grand event. The services provided by this organization are immeasurable to those in need. Many area residents have felt the outstretched hand of Hospice.

We are asking for your support for this year's Gala, slated for Saturday, December 7, 2002. The event features full course catering by Deep Creek Brewery and open bar, with a champagne toast at midnight to kick off the holiday season. Also, returning by popular demand is Greenburg, Pennsylvania's "Graham Grubb Orchestra," a sixteen piece orchestra complemented by a female vocalist.

The cost will be $60.00/person. All net proceeds will be donated to Hospice of Garrett County. The event is formal/semi-formal and valet parking will be available.

Please reserve a table today. Our tables can accommodate 10 people, and if you request now, the seating may be determined by your group. Simply write out the names of those you wish to sit with, and as they purchase their tickets, they will be guaranteed seating with your group.

Thank you in advance for your support. We hope you'll agree that this is the classiest way to kick off the holiday season while supporting Hospice of Garrett County.

We hope to see you in December!

2002 Gala Committee

Committee Sets FY '04 State Spending Level

by Raymond Lee Flandez
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS — Maryland legislative staff presented a key budget committee with a bleak financial picture Tuesday night, but they'd already expected the worst.

The state's general fund is projected to be short $590 million this fiscal year and $1.2 billion in 2004, according to officials from the Department of Legislative Services who briefed the state Spending Affordability Committee.

"I think the state is at a crossroads and it's really important for this committee to set the bar," said Sen. Barbara A. Hoffman, D-Baltimore, committee co-chairman, at the start of the meeting.

The Spending Affordability Committee, which includes the state's top lawmakers, is charged with analyzing the state's fiscal health and setting Maryland's rate of state spending to assure it does not exceed its economic growth.

This final report is to be submitted by Dec. 1 to the General Assembly for lawmakers to consider when the body convenes in January.

Shrinking revenues and increased spending have put the state in the red.

"It is somewhat worse than we thought," said Warren Deschenaux, a policy analyst for Legislative Services. Balancing the budget, he said, will require drastic action.

General fund revenues for the state in fiscal 2002 were estimated at $9.6 billion, but fell 3 percent to $9.5 million, the first time the percent change has fallen in the red in more than 15 years, according to the staff briefing. The loss is attributed to declines in personal and corporate income taxes.

This year's revenue estimate is forecast to be just 8 percent below last year's $9.5 billion. State spending is expected to grow by 6.5 percent by 2004 to $11.2 billion — much of it devoted to aid to local governments for education, as well as medical and foster care payments, legislative staff said.

DENNETT ROAD PURSUES GRANT — The Environmental Committee at Dennett Road School met recently to discuss the progress of its arboretum, and also a proposal for further enhancement and expansion through a grant application to the State Forest Conservation Program. "We were able to plant 20 trees and shrubs last spring that were donated by students, staff, and other individuals and businesses within the community," said teacher's assistant and committee member Linda Teagarden. "We are hoping now to obtain funding through a state grant to install tree and shrub identification tags, plus edging and mulch around the trees. These items will make the arboretum more attractive as well as more functional." The committee is also looking for assistance from the community and local businesses to install a small storage shed on the school grounds. "We are running out of room in the school to store our gardening tools and supplies," said Cassandra Stewart, also a teacher's assistant and committee member. Teachers, students, and even DNR employees use the arboretum to learn tree and shrub identification, according to Stewart. "The younger students have done tree and leaf rubbings, and some of the older ones learn about planting and caring for the over 20 species of flora found in the arboretum," she added. The arboretum is also home to several plants and trees that have been donated in memory of loved ones, including students and staff members who have passed away in recent years. "Dennett Road students have worked hard to expand and care for the arboretum. We have also been fortunate to have design and planting advice from County Extension agent Jim Simms as well as Beth Calvert from the Mountain Laurel Garden Club," said school principal and committee member Gary Galloway. Other members of the environmental committee are: Jennifer Upole, Patricia Foley, Gina Thayer, Kathy Ridder, Shana Rhoten, Frankie Martin, and Russell White. Persons interested in becoming a part of the arboretum project are encouraged to contact the school at 301-334-3452. Kneeling in the front are Betheny Stevens and Claire Bishop. In the middle are Tristan Gank-Nazeldrod, Brandon Decker, Trevor Messenger, and Taylor Swift. In the third row are David Wiles, Jaime Stemple, Tiffany Callis, Wesley Miller, Bobby Gower, Cody Gower, Aaron Ashby, Cody Aronhalt, and teaching assistant, Linda Teagarden. Simms is standing behind the group.

en in the red in more than 15 years, according to the staff briefing. The loss is attributed to declines in personal and corporate income taxes.

$9.5 billion. State spending is expected to grow by 6.5 percent by 2004 to $11.2 billion — much of it devoted to aid to local governments for education, as well as medical and foster care payments, legislative staff said.

In making these assumptions, the department did not consider a planned one-time state employee bonus and presumed that a hiring freeze would continue through fiscal year 2004.

The forecast, however, Subscribe to The Republican does not assume any turbulence ahead, such as potential war in Iraq or a worsening national economic decline.

Christian Club Slates End-Of-Year Events

The Oakland Christian Women's Club will have two more luncheons at Leone's at Silver Tree, Deep Creek Lake, before the end of the club year.

The next luncheon will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 20, from 11:20 a.m. until 1 p.m. The cost is $7.50. Betty Pritt, Oakland, will speak on "The Priceless Gift."

Pritt served as the club's chairperson for several years and is currently serving as the vice chairperson.

Mary Lou Stemple, owner of the Party House Oakland, will also demonstrate a Christmas craft. Stemple has made a sample of the craft for each woman attending the luncheon.

All women in the area are invited to attend this event and may call Jane Fox by Nov. 17 to make a reservation. All reservations made must be honored. The calling committee will telephone persons who regularly attend the Christian Women's Club.

The December meeting will be held on Dec. 11. The club meets each month at Leone's from April to December.

News From Aurora School

The PTO and faculty of Aurora Elementary School wish to thank all those who donated to, attended, or helped with the Harvest Festival on Oct. 26. Top ticket seller was Kelsey Mullenex with over 1,200 tickets sold. Trevor and Wesley Spaid placed second, and Shane Arbogast was a close third. The money from the festival supports many various school projects. One thing was a new outdoor mud catcher rug to keep the school cleaner and improve the main entrance.

The book fair evening hours reportedly proved successful, and day hours continued through last week, ending Friday.

The annual Craft Day is set for Dec. 6 from noon until 2:30 p.m. Those who would like to help may contact Crystal Johnston, who is coordinating the event. Her number is 735-5830.

All students who participated in the summer reading program were accompanied by parents and teachers on a Thursday, Nov. 7, trip to Ringling Brothers Circus at Pittsburgh's Civic Center. Residents are reminded to continue saving General Mills Box Tops for Education and Campbell product labels. These are also used to obtain items for use at the school.

2001-02 Yearbooks are now on hand with a few extras at $15 each or two for $25. Orders may still be sent to the school, or persons may contact either Sue Shillingburg at 735-3007, or Stephanie Arnett at 735-3225.

Scout News

The Girl Scouts, Daisies, and Brownies are meeting twice each month at the Aurora United Methodist Church. At a recent meeting, Brownies and Juniors worked on their Mathematics Try-It badges. They also appeared in both Buckwheat Festival and Autumn Glory parades. Presently they are selling candles from Home and Garden Party. The candles come in many "flavors." Cost is $6, and interested persons may contact assistant troop leader Sue Shillingburg at 735-3007, or any of the Girl Scouts.

Deaths Noted

Former Eglon-Aurora resident Freeman Dwight Fike died Nov. 5 at the Heartland nursing home in Kingwood. He was born May 13, 1913, at Eglon, a son of the late John L. and Dora Belle (King) Fike. His first wife, Anna Shaffer Fike, and his second wife, Ruth Arnold Fike, also preceded him in death. He is survived by three daughters, Dorothy Wiles, Morgantown, Blanche Stemple of Amboy, and Jean Sisler, Oakland; a step-son, Carl Simmons, Oakland; a brother Denver "Brownie" Fike, Elkins; and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Wilda Moreland Cullers, 80, of Mt. Storm, died Monday, Nov. 4, 2002, in LaPlata, Md., at the home of her daughter. She was preceded in death by her husband, Gorman Cullers, in 1966, and by one stepdaughter, Helen Callis, in Feb. 2002. She is survived by one daughter, Diana Keefe of LaPlata, and seven step-children, including Melvin Cullers of Aurora, Bonnie Harsh of Aurora, and Betty Bolyard of Eglon. Services were held on Friday, Nov. 8, at Calvary Temple, Mt. Storm, with the Rev. Wesley Georg officiating. Burial was in the Locust Grove Cemetery, Mt. Storm.

Personal Mention
David and Wilma Mae Teets were weekend visitors with her sister, Eileen Rembold, in Pittsburgh, and have returned to Horse Shoe Run.

Dover, Del., from South Korea, where he had been on duty for the past six months. His wife, Heather, and son, Wyatt, were joined by his parents, Don and Neva Frantz of Eglon in greeting him. The latter have returned to their home.

Mary and Alan Teets visited this weekend in Aurora with Mary's parents, Homer and Marguerite Myers, and have returned to Middletown, Del.

Members of Maple Spring Church of the Brethren celebrated Thanksgiving early with a Saturday night dinner, and were entertained following the dinner by a group of singers headed by Ellsworth and Peggy Lambert of Fairview.

Betty and Virginia Bolyard of Eglon attended funeral services Monday, Nov. 11, at Christ United Methodist Church in Rowlesburg, for one of latter's former neighbor and friend, Beatrice Sanders. Mrs. Sanders, 79, was a daughter of the late Daniel Webster Bolyard and Rosa May Huffman Bolyard. One daughter, Pat Burns and husband, Donald, of Rowlesburg survives. Also surviving are one brother, Floyd Bolyard of Lantz Ridge; and two sisters, Dorothy Masters of Rowlesburg and Virginia Phillips of Fellowsville. Preceding her in death was her husband, Ona Sanders and a sister, Betty Lou. Burial was in Sanders Hill Cemetery.

Bonnie Harsh and Betty Bolyard were in attendance at the Friday, Nov. 8, funeral services for their stepmother, Wilda Cullers, at Mt. Storm.

Krista Hayes of Eglon has been ill at her home but is reporting that she is slightly improved.

Pat Wolfe has returned to her home at Fellowsville from Baltimore, where she had been hospitalized for the past two weeks.

A baby shower on Saturday, Nov. 9, at the Stemple Ridge Church honored expectant parents, Joe and Stephanie Hauser of Stemple Ridge. The affair was planned and hosted by Sandra Hauser and Beth Bishop.

VFW Post 578
Aurora-Terra Alta Post 578 VFW and Auxiliary is sponsoring a special hunters' breakfast on Nov. 25, from 5 until 7 a.m. The menu includes scrambled eggs, biscuits and sausage gravy, sweet bun, juice and coffee, and will be a $5 donation. Everyone is welcome.

The VFW Post 578 and Auxiliary members went to Hopemont Hospital on Nov. 11, where they presented a program for the residents there. Seven resident veterans were given plaques of honor engraved with their names. Entertainment was provided by The Country Trio Band, Rob Rumer, Randy Thomas, and Harold Sereno. Refreshments of cake and punch were served to 60 residents present. Floyd Sandlin recited "In Flanders Field" and played "God Bless America" on his harmonica.

On Monday evening, Nov. 11, the Post and Auxiliary hosted a Veterans' dinner at the Post home, which was attended by 90 veterans, spouses, and family members. The Country Trio Band again provided musical entertainment, and there was a short program.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS
The Terra Alta Public Library will once again participate in the "Read To Me" Day program, set for Thursday, Nov. 14.

"It is our goal to read to as many students on that day as possible," said librarian Ima Thomas. "We have scheduled volunteers for reading every half hour from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., with the exception of noon and 12:30 p.m." Notes have been given to students in kindergarten through the sixth grade, and patrons in the library have also been given the information.

"This day is declared to the importance of reading aloud to children," Thomas said. "The Education Alliance Business and Community for Public Schools hold a special interest in reading to children for at least 20 minutes a day."

The annual fall book sale at the library is still going on. There are books for everyone, some as low as 10 cents each. There are new books for Christmas gifts for young and old alike, and there are a few gift items on the table.

Library hours are Monday evenings, 4 to 8 p.m., and Tuesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Laminating is available Wednesday mornings. The microfilm readers/printer can be used at any open hour, as can the computers. West Virginia State Code books are current and up-to-date, to be used in the library only. Planning a vacation for next summer? Background notes are available courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. James Price.

A diabetes awareness formal presentation will take place on Thursday, Nov. 21, at 10 a.m. in the library. The public is encouraged to attend. This is being presented by Gloria Wagners, agent of Health and Nutrition Education from the Preston County Extension Office.

TA "Boot Drive"

Deemed Success

Teachers at Terra Alta/East Preston School have deemed their recent "boot drive" for 7-year-old Taylor Nicholson a success. Despite rainy and windy weather conditions, the teachers were able to collect more than $1,000 from motorists traveling through Terra Alta on Oct. 26.

Teachers at Preston High School in Kingwood donated an additional $900 to the cause after reading about the fund-raiser in local newspapers.

The daughter of Terra Alta residents Ted and Tina Wiles, Taylor was diagnosed with brain stem glioma one year ago. She has undergone several treatment therapies since then, including chemotherapy.

East Preston teachers who participated in the boot drive were Kate Fickie, Janet Foreman, Sue Williams, Rhonda Rhodes, and Judy Wiles. Volunteers Mike and Mary Hart, Terra Alta, also helped by coordinating the

TAKE NOTICE that the Town of Oakland, on the 4th day of November, 2002, introduced an Annexation Resolution, in accordance with the provisions of Article 23A, Section 19 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, for the annexation of the area known as the Memorial Drive Area Annexation, and providing that the area to be annexed shall be zoned as "Residential Institutional Professional" (RIP) category as defined by the Oakland Zoning Ordinance. The full resolution as introduced is as follows:

BEFORE THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND

(ANNEXATION NO. 2 - MEMORIAL DRIVE AREA ANNEXATION)

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 19(b) of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland have initiated this Resolution to enlarge the corporate boundaries of the Town by annexation of land adjoining and contiguous to the existing corporate boundaries, and being the area known as the Memorial Drive Area Annexation, as is depicted in detail on a Plat dated September 26, 2002, prepared by Kerry S. Shultz, surveyor; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Town Council have caused to be made a verification of the fact that the said annexation has been consented to by not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the persons who reside in the area to be annexed, and who are registered as voters in County elections, and from the owners of not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the assessed valuation of the real property located in the area to be annexed, as evidenced by the signatures of said persons on writings establishing their consent.

WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
PRELIMINARY DECISION TO GRANT CATEGORICAL EXCLUSION (CE #186)

Project Name/Number: Mtn. Lake Park Sewage Collection System Improvements Phase I, WQ-RF-204-12L
Project Applicant: Town of Mtn. Lake Park
Project Location/County: Town of Mtn. Lake Park/Garrett County

Total Project Cost/Grant/Loan: $250,000/$100,000/$150,000
Project Description: The proposed project will involve an engineering evaluation of the Town's sewerage collection system including cleaning, televising, smoke testing of the sewer system, and the subsequent repair and/or replacement of defective sewer lines and manholes. The proposed project is intended to remove major sources of infiltration and inflow in the town's wastewater collection system and upgrade the overall integrity of the town's system to prevent raw sewage overflows and protect water quality of the Trout Run River.

The Town of Mtn. Lake Park has applied for financial assistance from the Maryland Department of the Environment's State Revolving Loan Fund for the proposed project as described above. In accordance with requirements for complying with the State Environmental Review Procedures (SERP) under COMAR 26.03.11 for such assistance, a review has been performed by the Department on the applicant's request for a Categorical Exclusion from a comprehensive environmental review under SERP. The Department has determined that the proposed project qualifies for a Categorical Exclusion pursuant to COMAR 26.03.11.04 because the project involves minor rehabilitation and functional replacement of existing infrastructure hence will not have any adverse effects on the environment. This determination is based on a careful review of the supporting documentation provided by the applicant and other documents available to the Department. In concert with this preliminary determination, the Department has also found the project to be consistent with the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection, and Planning Policy in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1992.27, and Maryland's Smart Growth and Neighborhood Conservation Policy, in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1998.04.

As a result of the above determination, the applicant will not need to prepare and/or finalize an Environmental Information Document, and the Department is prepared to approve the applicant's request for financial assistance without further environmental review.

How To Buy An Outdoor Furnace

1. Read the warranty. Will the dealer give you a copy to look at?
2. Look in a new furnace, not a used one. See what you're buying. Is it designed well to save on wood and coal?
3. How many years has the furnace been manufactured?
4. 20 year warranty? What does it cover?
5. Shop the internet for furnaces and warranties. If warranty isn't listed, they don't want you to know. Look Out!

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I guess Cindy Stanton and Sally Poholsky breathed a big sigh of relief after putting on a perfectly lovely wedding for Cindy's beautiful daughter Lea on Saturday afternoon. Emmanuel Lutheran Church was filled to the brim with friends and family, and the bride was preceded with a group of the most beautiful bridesmaids that I have ever seen. Maybe I am prejudiced about that since I watched them grow up since they were tiny babies. Leslie Buckel had double duty, as she not only served as the maid of honor, but also performed a perfect rendition of the "Wedding Song."

In spite of a small case of nerves, Sheila Southerly did a perfect job as organist. I guess Sheila is a first cousin, once removed, of Lea. It was a big shock when I saw my oldest friend dressed up with a corsage ushered in as the mother of the bride. Who would have thought that she and I could have cleaned up our act so nicely. Of course, we are still not grown up enough to not still be prone to giggling. But Cindy did not succumb to it. I did not actually giggle, but I felt like it when I saw her being ushered in, as mother of the bride.

I was happy to see on the way home a brilliant sun through the cloud cover and was given to the old saying, "Happy will be the bride upon whom the sun shines." You can't totally count on that too much because my wedding day was a totally sun-drenched May day. I would put a lot of money on it that Lea and her groom, Michael Pochet, will be living happily ever after just like the fairy tale and, yes, I still believe in fairy tales. No matter what life gives me to doubt happy endings, I will never give in to them.

Well, here it is Veterans Day, which means that Cindy and Sally and their out-of-town sisters, Mary Ellen and Phyllis, will have to celebrate the birthday of their mother, Ferne Beachy. What a great birthday is November 11th! It is hard to believe that World War I ended on the 11th day of the 11th month at 11 a.m., but it did happen like that. I wish every church would ring its bells today at 11:00. An 89th birthday party was held on Sunday for Ferne. Her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren were there to celebrate another year. The party was also in honor of Beulah Moon and Bee Buckel.

Out-of-town visitors over the weekend for the wedding were Brent and Kelly Beachy, Mel and Steve Presgraves, June, Doug, Matthew, and Marly Stemper, Steve, Donna, and Lindsey Mazer, Phyllis Mazer, Susan, Michael, and Julie Scheffes, and Alison, Tim, Amanda, and Ashley Mazer. Other out-of-town guests were Louis and Dorothy Pochet, Mary, Tom, and Matthew D'Anna, Louie and Veronica Pochet, Mary Pochet, Benjamin Adams, Regan Crowley, Pam Poholsky, Bea Buckel, Brook, Kerry, Lindsey, Lauren, and Brent Greer, Kristin, Bill, and Blake Bogus, and Kendra, John, Kelsey, and Ashley Wells. Friends of the bride and groom attending were Jessica Bloom, John Olezak, Glen Caron, Amy Shaw, Jessica Miller, Shelley Kirby, Melissa Stallings, Carol Wiesel, John Seiter, Matt Anderson, and Summer Leng.

My family birthday celebrations combined those of my brother-in-law and me with a family party at "Pappy" Dale Glatfely's house since he has recently been somewhat under the weather and not feeling that good. All his sisters were home giving him some extra loving care. Betty Hummel from Olympia, Wash., Helen Englar from Westminster, and Dorothy Quaintance from near Syracuse, N.Y. enjoyed time with their little brother Dale and their nieces and nephews and a host of grandnieces and nephews. I told "Pappy" Dale that no one else has so many grandnieces and nephews who love him so much. Early Sunday morning he felt bad enough to go to the hospital, and his cousin, Jimmy Glatfely, heard the siren and had a feeling it might be to do their duty as members of the Husky Marching Band and traveled to Scranton, Pa., for the Atlantic Coast Band Championships. They had quite a respectable performance, according to Rodney and Marci Glatfely, who were some of the parents attending the show.

I was sorry to learn that an old friend of mine formerly of Cumberland and now living in Grantsville, Cheri Ort, was unable to repeat her last year's triumph as Three-Gaited Saddle Horse world champion. But she was happy her horse put on a good performance but not quite good enough to win the championship. But as she said to me and I told my girls, "There is always next year."

I am delighted to report that at last the spring on Rock Lodge Road is again fully running. So even if we missed last evening's forecasted big thunderstorm, maybe we finally have enough ground water until this winter snow cover melts next spring. It looks to me that anyone who has a chain saw won't have any problem finding downed branches for firewood. Unfortunately for my friends, Sue and Walter Hadel, 10 trees that fell down narrowly missed their house. They were aspen, which are very beautiful trees to look at, but according to Walter, they are "junk wood" and no good for firewood. However, last weekend they were cut up and stacked by Walter's friends, Mike Hall and John Rue, who are also from McHenry. Mike was also busy cutting up his big willow tree, which was also a victim of the ice storm. I was very surprised how damaged the willow trees were, as I thought their flexible and springy wood should bend and not break. One of my favorite trees is a big beautiful weeping willow on the Park Opel farm on Foxtown Road, which dropped so many branches that they had a big bonfire late last week.

You can still see plenty branches and trees along the road around Bittinger. Dot Teets told me that Russell will not allow her to run a chain saw. I don't know of any women who ever ran chain saws. I never wanted to get my hands on a chain saw, but it is irresistible to most men I know.

It was almost a miracle ending for the Pittsburgh Steelers on Sunday. Although the Steelers did not lose their game, they were not quite able to turn a "Hail Mary" 80-yard pass into a touchdown on the last play. But they did look like a contender, which is good for November football.

I hope the victory of the Terps football team over arch-rival North Carolina

Wolf Pack is a big boost. Of all the teams from North Carolina, I dread the game with North Carolina State even more than Duke or North Carolina. I guess it has to do with their team's name, "Wolf Pack" — not the wild animal, but the Nazi submarine fleet — that gave me the creeps.

Thanks so much to all the readers of this column who sent me birthday greetings, including Mary White, who is one of the O'Brien twins and my first cousin, once removed. You would think I would know of the extension of family relatives since probably 90 percent of native Bittinger residents are some kind of cousins of mine. I am not sure of all the relatives who are first, second, or third cousins, like a bunch of Buckel cousins who were in town for Lea's wedding.

Richard Brenneman of the Bittinger Fire Department visited with fellow fireman Ken Buckel recently and commended Ken for all he has done for his service to his country and the Bittinger Fire Department. Ken served in the United States Navy in World War II. He is now recuperating from lung cancer.

Cumberland Man Dies In Cement Truck Accident

A Cumberland man was killed in Grantsville yesterday afternoon when he was crushed by the wheels of his moving cement truck while attempting to board the vehicle. Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barracks investigated the incident.

Joseph E. Knipple, 58, was the driver of the Cumberland Concrete Company mixer involved in the 2:41 mishap in the 1600 block of Blocher Road. After he exited the cab with the truck parked on a downhill grade, it began to roll forward down the hill. Knipple attempted to jump into the vehicle to stop it, but was pulled under the truck and beneath its wheels, which ran him over. The truck continued across the road and into the side of a home.

Knipple was flown by MSP medevac helicopter Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead by the state medical examiner.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

County's 9-1-1 Center Receives Excellence Award

The Garrett County Department of Emergency Management recently received a certificate of excellence from the Maryland 9-1-1 Emergency Number Systems Board.

"The Emergency Number Systems Board proudly presents this award of excellence in recognition of your 9-1-1 center's successful annual public safety answering point inspection," read the certificate. "We commend the dedication and commitment to excellence demonstrated by those who 'answer the call.' Their continuing diligence makes our communities safer places for the residents and visitors of Garrett County."

The Garrett County commissioners presented the certificate to Emergency Management director Brad Frantz this week during their weekly public meeting and commended his department's accomplishments and efforts.

"The staff make all of us look good," said Frantz, accepting the award on their behalf.

WORKOUT IS COLORFUL, ENERGIZED - The 2002 Workout for Hope proved successful again this year, as the young local athletes managed to break their own record in donations to the House of Hope. Held last weekend, the fund-raiser involved over 100 students from Brenda's Body Shop, who danced and jazzercise their way to a $9,000 donation to the local service organization. Part of the three-hour event involved the use of parachutes of many colors, pictured above. See story and related photos on page A-5.

Wanted Subject Involved In Crash On I-68 Thursday

An Anne Arundel County man wanted by the Baltimore City Police Department on kidnapping and attempted rape charges was apprehended by Maryland State Police troopers Thursday, Nov. 14, after he was involved in a single vehicle accident on Interstate 68.

Kenneth Huck, 35, Pasadena, was traveling westbound at approximately 9:44 p.m. when his Chevrolet pickup truck left the roadway, struck an embankment, and overturned near the 10 mile marker in the area of Pigs Ear Road. Huck had to be extricated from the truck by emergency personnel from the Friendsville and Grantsville volunteer fire departments, for initial treatment by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. He was then flown by MSP medevac helicopter Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was hospitalized under strict police supervision.

Huck was wanted by Baltimore police on warrants charging him with kidnapping, attempted first degree rape, assault, and several sex offenses. It was also determined that the pickup truck he was driving had been stolen earlier in the day from the Mead-Westvaco wood yard in

Woman Charged After Van Strikes Bus Thursday

The quick thinking of a Garrett County school bus driver prevented injuries to her 44 passengers last Thursday morning, Nov. 14, when a van struck her bus in Grantsville, according to the Maryland State Police.

The 8:25 a.m. accident occurred on Grant Street at Livengood Lane when a 1996 Dodge Caravan operated by Lisa Ann Singell, 30, Grantsville, reportedly entered the intersection from Livengood Lane without stopping and attempted to turn left onto Grant Street. Singell's van struck the right front portion of the 1996 International school bus, but the impact was lessened by the quick reaction of bus driver Nancy Kay Savage, 40, Grantsville, who had observed the van coming through the intersection. Savage took evasive action by slowing the bus and swerving to the left, which allowed the right front portion of the bus to take the brunt of the impact rather than the side where children were seated.

Singell was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. State troopers charged Singell with negligent driving.

WM Truck Show Moves Because Of Rapid Growth

The Western Maryland Truck Show (WMTS) recently announced its move to the Allegany County Fairgrounds because of rapid growth and limited space at the former location of the Grantsville Community Park.

By moving to the Allegany Fairgrounds, the WMTS will be able to expand the overall size and add more exhibit space, including indoor, air-conditioned locations for any corporate sponsors. Live entertainment will be provided Friday and Saturday night, along with the final selections of the first Western Maryland Truck Show Queen.

Glen Stahlman, fairground director, said, "We are very pleased that the Western Maryland Truck Show has grown to the extent that they need more ground, and we are very confident that we will be able to provide everything that is needed."

There will also be new facilities to accommodate a broader base of trucks for display as well as free hook-ups for R.V. and campers for the registered guests. A truck wash area will be provided next year, and hot showers and clean restrooms will be available for all participating sponsors.

A spokesperson for the WMTS noted, "The Western Maryland Truck Show was never designated as a strictly Garrett County event and we even looked at the Garrett County Fairgrounds as an option. Lack of space and other concerns led us to Allegany County, where all truckers and visitors could enjoy the best possible conditions for the event, hopefully making the

Local Residents Bare Views For Bear Task Force

A number of opinions were stated by local citizens at last Thursday's (Nov. 14) public meeting of the Maryland Black Bear Task Force at Garrett College. Of the 85 persons who were on hand for the gathering, a total of 27 stepped to the microphone to identify themselves and provide their input into the task force's mission of making recommendations for managing the state's bear population numbers.

The lion's share of the bear comments dealt with the task force's draft recommendation, approved by a 6-4 vote early last month, that the state adopt a limited bruin hunting season. While not all speakers addressed that particular issue, and not all of those who did gave a definite "pro" or "con" statement of their views, transcripts reveal that the pro-hunt speakers outnumbered the anti-hunt opinions.

Of the 27 speakers, nine gave definite approval to a hunting season, and eight expressed outright disapproval. Ten speakers did not give a definitive statement one way or the other, but the nature of those "middle of the road" comments — many of which expressed concerns about the safety of children and pets in areas prone to bear activity — appeared to be open to the concept of a hunt by a large majority.

Each of the nine pro-hunting opinions came from Garrett County residents, many of whom referred to damages to crops and livestock incurred by local farmers as playing a part in their decision to support a hunt. At least two of the speakers advocating a hunt are current or retired DNR employees, although they spoke strictly as private citizens. One of those speakers told the gathering that a controlled hunt would be preferable to illegal killings of bears that are likely taking place, some by the use of antifreeze placed in baits; the other referred to the county's ongoing development as a factor in destroying bear habitat, specifically noting the proposed sports complex on Marsh Mountain and the proposed Keyser Ridge industrial park.

Of the eight speakers who expressed outright opposition to a hunt, two were Garrett County citizens who were joined by six out-of-county residents holding the same view — one from Washington County, one

THE TREES ARE UP, and citizens are encouraged to take part in the 2002 Rotary Christmas Project, which will provide food and gifts for over 400 local families this holiday season. Gift tag trees are located throughout the county, and persons may donate gifts or cash to the project by simply following the directions posted at each location. See story for details. ## 2002 Rotary Christmas Project Is Launched; Volunteers At The Ready

The 2002 Oakland Rotary Christmas Project got under way this week, with gift tag trees now standing in numerous local businesses, churches, and other locales. The annual effort helps to make the Christmas holidays brighter for hundreds of local families.

As has been the tradition for more than 20 years, citizens are encouraged to take a tag from one of the may available trees and purchase the gift written on the cards. The gift is then to be returned to the tree. All gifts, as well as the ingredients for a full course Christmas dinner, are packed by hundreds of volunteers, and then distributed to selected families in need.

The trees were put up yesterday throughout the county. Persons who wish to donate should note that the deadline for gifts is Dec. 9. The mass boxing of the items will take place on Dec. 13 at Simon Pearce Glass, and the boxes will be delivered on Dec. 14.

The locations of the gift tag trees are as follows: Arrowhead, CVS, Coldwell Banker, Denny's Restaurant, FCSI, First United Bank & Trust offices, Garrett College, Garrett Co. Board of Education office, the county courthouse, Garrett Memorial Hospital, and the county sheriff's office.

They are also at Beachy's Pharmacy, Penn Alps, M&T banks, the Grantsville Holiday Inn and Foodland, Leone's, branches of the Ruth Enlow Library, McDonald's, Mettiki Coal, Oak Grove Church, Oak Park Church, the Oakland Post Office, Railey Realty, Simon Pearce, Smiley's Pizza, St. John's and St. Matthew's Episcopal churches, St. Peter's Catholic Church, T-DEC, the Garrett County Health Department (WIC office), and Will O' the Wisp.

Monetary donations to the project in lieu of gifts may be made to Oakland Rotary Christmas Project, Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

Individuals or organizations who wish to help in other ways may help pack boxes on Dec. 13, and/or help deliver the boxes on Dec. 14.

ANNUAL TREE-LIGHTING EVENT SLATED - The town of Grantsville will hold its annual Christmas tree lighting on Friday, Nov. 29, at 6:30 p.m. at the town center. Santa Claus will be attending to hand out Christmas treats and to pose for free pictures at Grantsville Elementary School. Following the tree lighting, Christmas caroling will also be held at the school, with refreshments, such as hot chocolate, available. Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will provide cookies. The event is sponsored by the Greater Grantsville Business Association. Pictured above is a scene from last year's tree lighting.

IF I CAN'T SEE THEM, THEY CAN'T SEE ME - We don't know if this well-wrapped ruminant is trying to avoid being spotted by Garrett County hunters or simply bundling up against the cold weather, but it surely cuts an enigmatic figure, standing furtively along Aiken-Miller Road in Accident. Since it is apparently of the artificial variety, it should come through the current deer season unscathed.

Garrett Coll. Board Of Trustees Elects Officers; Both GC Alumni

ROB MICHAEL

The Garrett College board of trustees will continue to be led by two graduates of the college following the re-election of Rob Michael as chairperson and George Tichnell as vice chairperson at a recent board meeting.

Michael, owner of State Farm Insurance in Oakland, entered GCC as a freshman in 1972 when the campus had three buildings and about 150 students. He soon became a campus leader, being elected as vice president, then as president, of the Student Government Association.

"When I first walked in there and sat down with Luther Shaw and Jan Janssen, I knew that this was where I needed to be," Michael recalled of his first day on campus 30 years ago. Since that time he has served the college at every level — as founder and first president of the GCC Alumni Association, as a member of the GCC Foundation board, and as an adjunct instructor, and in 1992 he was appointed to the college's board of trustees. Michael said he enjoys being on the board, where he finds a diversity of opinions as members discuss issues and help set the course for the college.

Michael said he finds it interesting to reflect on his years of affiliation with the college and to take pride in the growth and development the college has experienced since he was a student. "Garrett has been fortunate to have a caring faculty and a dedicated work force," he stated. "Its programs have provided great opportunities for students in this community, and the college is now recognized throughout the country and even internationally. The continued good leadership we have has paid off in huge dividends."

The college's future is bright, according to Michael, even in these trying economic times when the state of Maryland has not been able to provide anticipated funding. "We have had to do more with less," he remarked, "but Garrett has risen to the occasion. We will continue to provide a great educational experience for all the students who come here."

Beyond the college, Michael has been a leader in community affairs. Having served as a member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital board of governors, vice president of Greater Oakland Business Association, chairman of the town of Oakland Zoning Board of Appeals, the board of directors of Target's Lodge at Sawmill Hollow, member of the board of the Garrett County Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council, and as a youth league coach for baseball and basketball.

Michael currently chairs the Garrett County Civil Service Board, and has recently become a member of the Garrett College Pipes and Drums, where he plays bass drum.

A graduate of Davis and Elkins College with a dual major in management/marketing and economics, Michael has received various industry awards, including member of the State Farm Ambassadors Club, Regional Council vice president, and National Underwriters Producer Award. He was the first State Farm agent in Maryland to hold a securities license, and is a requested keynote speaker for various insurance seminars.

Michael lives in Oakland with his wife Barbara, son Emmett, and daughter Bailey.

Tichnell, who was appointed to the GCC board of trustees in 2000, holds the position of "vice-president of operations for the Western Maryland Region of Mettiki Coal. He is currently responsible for managing the mining operations of Mettiki Coal, Backbone Mountain Coal, Mettiki Coal (W.Va.), including mine planning, scheduling, marketing, budgeting, and business development.

After graduating from GCC in 1976, Tichnell entered directly into industry and has held several operational and managerial positions during his 26 years of service with Mettiki. He has extensive experience in operations, engineering, construction management, public and government relations, human resources, contract negotiations, land management, and environmental affairs. Tichnell has completed numerous industry seminars and training programs, and holds electrical certifications with the West Virginia Department of Energy and the U.S. Department of Labor.

Tichnell lives in Oakland with his wife Barbara and son George Tichnell Jr., who is a senior at West Virginia University.

"I believe that Garrett College has a mission to provide community needs whether for cultural, social or economic development," Tichnell stated. "To this end, Garrett offers a broad array of courses and programs, credit and non-credit, stretching its resources as far as it can be for the benefit of the community. The college is such a special place, with so many talented and dedicated people."

Other members currently serving on the Garrett College board of trustees are Suzanne Beachy, Charles "Bus" Bender, Ruth Seib, Linda Sherbin and Doug Sites.

GC Rotary Clubs Kick Off Annual Christmas Project

The Rotary clubs of Garrett County (Oakland and Grantsville) recently announced the kick off of their annual effort to collect items to be distributed to the needy for Christmas.

Last year this effort distributed in excess of 40,000 pounds of food, as well as gifts of clothing and toys, to more than 400 families countywide. Gifts and toys are for children age 12 and below.

The Oakland club (primary sponsor) also emphasized that it was important to note that these 400 families were divided fairly equal throughout the county with one-third in the southern part of the county, one-third in the central part of the county, and one-third in the northern section.

The primary method of obtaining gifts and food for these families is through donations. A series of displays or trees are placed in businesses, churches, and other places throughout the community, which have a quantity of tags displayed indicating what is needed: for example, "Small Toy Fire Truck — age 8."

Individuals wishing to help may remove a tag, purchase the item, attach the tag to gift, and then place it under the tree from which the tag was removed. Tags are also provided on all trees in Grantsville to remind people that dollars are also needed to purchase food. Food cost last year was about $17,000, with only $7,000 received by donations and the remaining $10,000 coming from the club's general funds. The local Rotaries will pick up the items and arrange delivery.

Joe Bender of the Grantsville club said gift-tag trees for the Grantsville area are located at Beachy's Pharmacy, Penn Alps Restaurant, Grantsville Library, First United Bank and Trust, M & T Bank, and Holiday Inn of Grantsville. A food-tag tree is located at the Grantsville Foodland.

If a person is unable to obtain a tag at one of the above locations, Bender requested that he be called at 814-662-4366, and he will see that a tag is provided. He also noted that monetary donations are also greatly appreciated.

Checks should be made payable to the Grantsville

GARRETT COUNTY ROTARY CLUBS KICK OFF HOLIDAY PROJECT — The Grantsville and Oakland Rotary clubs recently kicked off their annual Christmas Project. Last year the organizations distributed more than 40,000 pounds of food, as well as gifts and toys, to more than 400 families throughout the county. Rotary displays, gift-tag trees, or food-tag trees will be on display throughout the county. Individuals wishing to donate may remove a tag with a name, purchase the requested item, and place the tagged item under the tree. Monetary donations are also appreciated. Pictured above is Joe Bender, left, of the Grantsville Rotary Club, and Grantsville branch manager Allen Shapiro of First United Bank & Trust, where a gift-tag tree will be set up for donations. See story for more details.

Rotary Christmas Project and mailed to Grantsville Rotary, P.O. Box 358, Grantsville, MD 21536, or dropped off at any Rotary tree location.

"The collection period runs only through Dec. 9; therefore, those interested should act now," said Bender. Collections throughout the county are then assembled and sorted into family units on Dec. 13, with delivery to the homes scheduled for Dec. 14.

Oakland Man Arrested On Drug, Weapon Charges

was arrested after police obtained a search and seizure warrant, and found a small quantity of suspected marijuana, drug paraphernalia, a handgun and several rifles, and an incendiary device, police said. Police explained that the device was a 5-inch cylinder, approximately 2 inches around, with powder explosives in it and a fuse.

Winters said that the device was simply a large firecracker, and that the weapons confiscated were family heirlooms.

Winters was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana, possession of a firearm after being a convicted felon, possession of a regulated firearm, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of a destructive device.

Winters was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on $2,500 bond.

Storck Named Dean Of Info. Tech. At Garrett

Don Storck, formerly director of information services at Garrett College, has been named dean of information technology, according to an announcement by president Dr. Steve Herman and approved by the board of trustees.

Storck now points out how his role as dean will expand his responsibilities. In addition to the design and development of information support services that include voice, video, and data systems for both administrative and academic functions, he will represent the college in the public and private sectors by serving as liaison for computer-related opportunities with other colleges, agencies, and organizations.

Before coming to the college in 1985, Storck worked in both the private and public sectors. After working for a Virginia-based computer science firm, he became an independent consultant for the federal government, providing services to the Department of Agriculture for computer-based human resource management systems. This experience led to his later being contracted to work for four months for the United Nations in Thailand, developing designs and proposals for human resource management systems.

Throughout his years at the college, Storck has become recognized as a leading force in bringing the newest information technology to the college and the community. His first affiliation with GCC was as adjunct instructor of computer science courses. Within a few years he became director of the business and technology academic division, and in 1989 served as executive director of the World Whitewater Championships on the Savage River.

In 1990 as special assistant to the president, Storck supervised the development of the periodic review report for accreditation and led the institution through the strategic planning process. He then took over a new administrative division as director of computer systems at a time when the college had one computer lab. Today, due primarily to his leadership, there are 15 state-of-the-art computer labs and five interactive video labs.

One of the major accomplishments for which Storck and the college have received accolades and recognition far beyond the boundaries of Garrett County was his vision that led to the establishment of the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) to serve the community. Storck credits O. Randall Harman and Kevin Bass for their work in bringing the vision to a reality. GRIC is now operating independently of the college.

JWCC DONATES TO GCMH - The Junior Woman's Civic Club of Garrett County recently made a donation to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. Pictured above, on the left, is Elizabeth Huxford, president of JWCC, presenting the check to Tawney Brack, GCMH Foundation representative. At a recent JWCC meeting, donation checks were also written to Garrett County Girls' Service Basketball League, Rotary Christmas Project, Habitat for Humanity, and House of Hope. Also at the meeting, Twila Metz demonstrated cake decorating techniques. Persons interested in joining the club or attending a meeting may contact Carm Swift at 301-387-8123.

with whitewater activities continued when he assumed responsibility for the U.S. Canoe and Kayak Team Olympic Trials sponsored by the college on the Savage River in 1992 and simultaneously became executive director of the newly formed Adventuresports Institute, a position he held until this year. He has also had other community responsibilities, having been detailed to the county to develop an information technology strategic plan, and most recently detailed through the county's economic development office to help get the Adventure Sports Center under way. Storck continues to work closely with the state and the University System of Maryland to set up networks for distance learning.

According to Storck the college is now benefiting from the new technology frontier. "From an information technology standpoint," he says, "Garrett College faculty, staff and students are in a position to communicate with the world and to capitalize on the newest technologies in video, voice, and data systems. This provides a good platform to build on for the future." Much of this has been accomplished through almost $1 million in grants that have been procured for technology development, he added, also extending credit to Herman for his support of information technology growth and development at the college.

About the future of technology at Garrett, Storck said that wireless networks will be expanded to cover the campus and outlying facilities, and that convergence will make it possible to carry voice, video, and data over the same circuits, thereby optimizing utilization and reducing costs.

Kitzmiller Man Sentenced For Assault Charge

A Kitzmiller man recently pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court to second-degree assault. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Dana Lee Chapman, 34, to three years in the Department of Corrections facility. Sherbin then suspended all but 87 days, time served, of the sentence. Charges of first-degree assault and reckless endangerment were dismissed upon Chapman's plea.

The charges were filed by Garrett County sheriff's officers following an early morning incident on Jan. 1, 2002. The officers had responded to a Kitzmiller residence in reference to an assault. Upon their arrival, they observed through an open front door a woman lying on a couch. The 36-year-old victim had blood on her face, "one large deep cut under her nose," and several bruises about her face and arms, according to the police report.

The victim explained that she and Chapman had been at a party earlier, where they both had been drinking. When they returned home, she said Chapman became violent, threatened to beat her every 30 seconds and then kill her, and stomped her head and face with his heavy cleated work boots. She also said that he threatened to harm her 2-year old son if she reported the incident.

After Chapman passed out in a bedroom, however, the victim called 9-1-1. Upon the officers' arrival, the victim and her son were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, and Chapman was arrested.

Chapman will be on supervised probation for two years and is required to have no contact with the victim.

Oakland Man Faces Theft, Drug Charges

An Oakland man was taken into custody by Maryland State Police troopers early Saturday morning after he was apprehended in the Arrowhead store parking lot with suspected stolen prescription medication in his car.

Jesse Franklin Allen Liller, 20, was observed at approximately 12:30 a.m. driving a 1995 Mitsubishi Eclipse in an erratic manner, spinning the vehicle's tires in the store's parking lot. After he failed a sobriety test, Liller was charged with driving while under the influence.

A subsequent search of Liller's car uncovered a prescription pill bottle, with the label removed, that contained Xanax and Cyclobenzoprine. An investigation determined that the pills had been taken earlier in the evening from a McHenry residence where Liller had stayed. Additional charges were filed at that point accusing Liller of misdemeanor theft, possession of a controlled dangerous substance, and removing a prescription label.

Liller was released on his own recognizance following an appearance before a Garrett County district court commissioner.

Ross Named To Forum For Rural Maryland Board

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce President Charlie Ross was selected to serve on the executive board of the Forum for Rural Maryland during the organization's annual meeting November 14 in Annapolis. One of three Garrett County representatives currently serving on the board, Ross joins Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action, and County Commissioner Fred Holliday. Created by the state legislature in 1995, the Forum for Rural Maryland partners with federal, state, and local government along with the private sector to improve the quality of life in rural areas.

A charter member and Read. Then Recycle.

former chair of the forum, Yoder represents Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties, which are designated as district one. Holliday represents the Maryland Association of Counties, and Ross will represent the "for-profit" business sector of the state.

"It has always been a personal as well as a professional priority for me to advocate for improvements in the quality of rural life," Ross explained, adding that he is not surprised that Garrett County is so "solidly" represented in the forum. "In Garrett County, we are definitely in the forefront of promoting and enhancing rural life through economic, health, and education initiatives," he said.

Following the election of board members and the annual meeting, the forum members participated in the fifth annual Maryland Rural Summit at the Sheraton Hotel in Annapolis. Among the exhibitors at the conference was Garrett County Partnership for Children & Families Inc.

Allegany Man Hurt When Harley Goes Down On Interstate

A Rawlings man remains hospitalized this morning in stable condition with injuries sustained when he lost control of his motorcycle on Interstate 68 Friday after another vehicle apparently forced him off the highway.

William Lee Reed, 62, was traveling westbound at 12:19 p.m. when his 2001 Harley Davidson went off the road after a van reportedly attempted a lane change into his lane. The Harley went into the median strip near Pigs Ear Road, where it overturned and ejected Reed. The other driver, who was charged with an unsafe lane change, was not identified by Tfc. B. Broadwater because his vehicle did not actually come into contact with the motorcycle, an MSP spokesperson said.

Reed was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Organs for Cash?...

With advancements in medical technology come new and difficult ethical issues and questions that are ultimately going to have to be tackled by the federal government and the courts. Among these issues are the cloning of human beings, stem cell research, and how far the medical community should go in simply keeping someone alive.

Another one that is currently being debated by some in the medical profession is the idea of offering money for human organs needed for transplanting. Congress banned such a practice in 1984, but since then approximately 6,000 Americans, nearly double the number of victims of 9/11/02, have died each year while waiting for a needed organ transplant. The total number of deaths since 1984 exceeds that of American soldiers killed in the entire Vietnam War.

Granted, there is something rather grotesque about exchanging human organs — God-given, living tissue — for money. Somehow it seems downright immoral to take money for such "items," yet we consider organ donation by persons to be a highly admirable gesture.

It would, of course, be wonderful if there were enough persons willing to be organ donors that the needs of these 6,000 people could be met each year. The fact of the matter is, though, that philanthropy simply isn't nearly meeting the demand. Additional incentive is necessary, and we all know that money truly does talk.

No one at this point is suggesting paying money to living persons for an organ donation, but paying the family of deceased persons from whom certain organs can be successfully harvested. One idea is offer, say, $2,000 to help pay funeral expenses in exchange for organs — perfectly good organs that are now being pickled and buried, and not needed anymore by the deceased.

And speaking of money, the government and insurance companies are expending huge sums of it anyway just trying to keep those who need organs alive. Kidney dialysis, for example, for someone needing a kidney is quite expensive, far more so than an organ transplant. These costs would be greatly reduced if there were a ready supply of organs.

The American Medical Association, many of the members of which witness the demise of so many organ-deficient persons each year, is finally endorsing pilot testing with some form of incentive for supplying organs. It seems to us that, if the donor is in agreement via his will, then exchanging money for organs is generally all right. They are his most sacred possessions to do with what he wants, the sale of which would not only benefit his family, but also allow another human being to keep living.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Well, once again the incumbent mayor and town council of Loch Lynn are tooting their own horns and patting themselves on the back. Last week in the paper they thanked everyone for their continued support in re-electing them for their second term. Well, people, no one ran against them. Several residents were asked to run, but they didn't want to be caught up in their lies and scheming ways. My advice to all residents is to buckle up for another two years of bumpy riding. Maybe all these big accomplishments "The Team" claims they have done are just in their heads.

A citizen of a divided town,
Robin L. Beckman

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter to let the residents of Garrett County know about some of the injustices that are occurring in our legal system.

We have a state's attorney who does things the way she prefers, and not always what is justice. A woman can commit a crime against a man and the charges be dropped. But if a man commits the same crime against a woman, he will be prosecuted.

There are many cases of discrimination throughout the Garrett County Court system. As members of this community, we need to see that these kinds of things stop happening.

Our state's attorney staff is discussing cases outside of the courtroom to people who are not involved. If you have charges against you, you are supposed to be innocent until proven guilty. Well, in this county you are proven guilty before you even go to court.

Jennifer Taylor

To the Editor:

Weapons of mass destruction — we're number one! We have them in every size, shape, and color. The U.S. is a veritable supermarket of them. Ft. Detrick, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, stealth bombers, drones (weapons, not politicians), anthrax, nukes, big guns, little guns, bio-chem. weapons; you name it, we've got 'em. One might even say we are the biggest distributor around. All other countries combined probably don't come even close to being second to us.

So who else has them? Russia, China, India, Pakistan, Korea, Israel, to name a few, all have nuke capability. And oh yeah, we think that Iraq may have been working on them and may have them. We do know that Iraq controls 10% of the world's oil reserves and perhaps more. So which country has the president singled out for inspection, disarmament, and war threats? Who's kidding whom here?

I am a U.S. Navy veteran who will be the first to defend my country if needed. I am also an old-style, pro-life Democrat who believes that it is not worth losing even one American life to get at oil (directly or indirectly) that doesn't belong to us.

You have heard the expression "He/she certainly has a disarming way about him/her." Obviously, this is quite different than "disarming" as we now know it. Perhaps our prez ought to try the former as he goes after the oil. It could save lives.

George Falter
McHenry

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter to express my sincere appreciation to the true friend of the community who cut down the wood carving of a squirrel which was previously an eye-sore along the new walking trail on the outskirts of Oakland. Recently, some vandal came into those woods and defaced some perfectly good stumps, turning them into intricate likenesses of a squirrel and two owls. Then, more recently, some good soul came in and removed the squirrel with a saw. I, for one, think it is about time someone came in and beautified our newest community improvement project. Thanks again for being so civic minded — You make us all proud!

Sincerely,
Dave Jones

P.S. Here's a translation for the moron criminal who took the carving. You are very selfish and shouldn't have to be reminded of visiting and native Garrett Countians, like my grandmother, who walk that trail every day and enjoyed the carvings. Anyone who utilizes that trail can't help but wish people could all be as generous as the artist who donated her time for the common good — and that people like you would just crawl back under their rocks and stay there!

To the Editor:

This week, the Transportation Security Administration had to take over the responsibility of screening passengers and carry-bags because private sector subcontractors could not effectively provide these services at our nation's airports. The federal government is now in charge of hiring and training top-notch security in an attempt to make our airports and flying safer.

During the same week, the Republican White House unveiled a new plan to subcontract (outsource) up to 850,000 government jobs to the private sector. The Bush Administration says that this will save the taxpayers money.

After 9/11 and the problems with airport screening, does President Bush honestly believe that the private sector can now be effective in providing other government services that the public needs and demands?

Also, why did the Bush Administration wait until after the mid-term elections to unveil their plan?

I believe that this is just another attempt by Bush and the Republicans to put taxpayers' money in the pockets of big business that will result in inferior services to the American taxpayers, who deserve better.

Nikola (Nick) Drobac
Oakland

To the Editor:

As the head coach of the Northern High School golf team, I would like to take a moment to thank the Wisp Resort for offering their course to the school, at no charge, as the team's "home" location. The boys were able to practice and hold their matches there, even though both the practices and the matches used up available tee times that could have generated income for the course. We genuinely appreciate the sacrifice that Wisp made for this program. Terry Boggs and Kevin Liller of Railey Realty generously donated 24 dozen golf balls to our team also! Between the two, the only thing left for us to supply was the team. Thanks so much to both of you.

This particular sporting activity is very different from most school sports because it isn't held at the school and big crowds of parents and students don't follow the sport. Nonetheless, this sport is very near and dear to the hearts of those who participate in golf. To those who are not avid golfers, there is no understanding of why anyone would want to play golf, and thus no understanding of why it should be supported as a high school sport. Golf is both an individual and a group sport; one challenges his own team members each match, as well as himself and the other team members. As the young man develops his game, he also develops his self-esteem, his character, and his confidence.

That is why these gifts from Wisp Resort and Railey Realty were so important to us. Without a place to practice and to hold matches, there would be no golf team and each year a couple of dozen boys would lose the opportunity to grow in ways that help build character traits for their futures.

Andy Callis, Head Coach
Northern High Golf Team

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Garrett County commissioners for endangering my family and friends. When the speed limit was 35 mph, we have had someone run into our barn, our milk house, damage the grain bin, and at least once a year go through our fields and knock down the posts and ruin the barbed wire fence.

The latest episode was June of this year.

Since the speed limit is now 50 mph, what damages are we to incur? Hopefully it will not be one of our grandsons when they are walking over to the barn to feed their steers or one of the men or young boys who help us out with the field work, when they are pulling out onto the road with the large equipment that does not go at a high rate of speed.

What about the school bus that is stopped and letting children on and off the bus? Will they be able to stop coming up over the knoll at the Kamps? I hope so.

I can understand the limit was raised due to the fact the traffic that was stopped by our police was going the approximate speed of 50 mph. Seems to me they were breaking the law. Is this reason to raise the limit? Do we change our laws to keep from breaking them? Is that what God intended when he gave us the Ten Commandments? If we break them, let us change them so we are not so bad.

I noticed that the speed limit in front of Foodland has not been changed. Is it because they are a business? Guess what — we run a business also, and we do not have the advantage of the wide shoulders as Foodland does.

I hope the commissioners will sit down and really think this through and stop and realize just what they have done to the people on this road. If some of the people want to get to Deep Creek Lake quicker, and want to go at a high rate of speed, let them use I-68. That speed limit is 65 mph, and the road is made for a high rate of speed. Chestnut Ridge Road is not!

from Prince George's County, and four from Montgomery County. At least two of those suburban Washington residents expressed outright opposition to hunting in general. The two Garrett Countians opposed to a bear hunt season appeared more moderate in the opinions, as one said she favored allowing farmers to shoot bears that are causing agricultural damage, and the other said she resides with hunters in her own home.

The Black Bear Task Force released a 37-page draft report recently which is currently available from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The draft report may be viewed on the Internet at www.dnr.state.md.us, while printed copies may either be obtained from the Mt. Dawson had the only reported injuries, and was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Earlier that morning, Hailey Kelley, 20, Aurora, W.Va., was traveling west-bound along Route 50, east of Table Rock Road, when her vehicle hit an icy spot in the roadway, police said.

The vehicle traveled into the eastbound lane, left the roadway, and came to rest against a tree on the east-bound shoulder.

No injuries were reported.

Another accident was reported around 8:45 a.m. along Broadford Road. Lisa Towne, 30, Oakland, was cited after her 2000 Ford hit an icy patch and struck another vehicle, which was driven by Bryan Custer, Swanton.

No injuries were reported.

Annual "Workout For Hope" Breaks Record Again

Workout for Hope, a three hour dance-exercise extravaganza, was held at Southern High School recently to raise funds for the House of Hope. Coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop, hosted by the House of Hope, and sponsored by Mettiki Coal, the event resulted in a collection of $9,018.

Over 100 students from Brenda's Body Shop participated in a workout, party dances, and dance performances. Each participant received pledges from family and friends and donated the money to the House of Hope. Michaela McCrobie was the grand prize winner, raising $821. She was awarded a $250 gift certificate to the Country Club Mall.

The other top prize winners included Michaela Beckman, who raised $409 and earned a Wisp ski pass; Tara Marple, $307, Brenda's Pizzeria certificate and movie passes to Garrett 8 Cinemas; Kassi Smith, $295, six passes to the Bear Claw Tubing Park; Katherine Drennan, $227.35, fiber optic lamp; Cambria Martinez, $207, $10 gift certificate to Uno's and two movie passes.

"All the kids did an incredible job receiving pledge money," said Brenda Brosnihan, event coordinator. "We stress that if a lot of people do a little, it will add up to be a lot. The efforts of our top prize winners are truly inspiring. All the top prize winners will receive bonus prizes along with other gifts donated by Mettiki Coal Company."

One of the highlights at the Workout for Hope was a visit by the Pittsburgh Pirate Parrot.

"This was our fifth event for the House of Hope and the Pirate Parrot has been to all but one," said Brosnihan. "He always adds so much fun and energy. He entertains the crowd as well as the participants."

The Mat Mates, the jazz dance teams, and the 2003 Garrett County Sportaero-

WORKING OUT FOR HOPE - Brenda's Body Shop's annual Workout for Hope brought in yet another record-breaking total in funds for the House of Hope this year. The event, which involves three hours of almost constant exercise by the participants, resulted in $9,018 in donations. (The check pictured above was written before additional donations of $260 were added.) "I am once again inspired by the generosity of the people of Garrett County," said Brenda Brosnihan, coordinator of the event. Among the guests at the workout again this year was the Pittsburgh Pirate Parrot. See story. Shown above are the top fund-raisers, along with the leaders. Prize winners in the front row, from left, are Kassi Smith, Cambria Martinez, Michaela McCrobie, Katharine Drennan, Tara Marple, and Michaela Beckman. In the back are exercise leaders Leslie Gaither, Amy Anderson, Jessie Railey, Brosnihan, Jessica Crocco, Marlane Beitzel, and Alissa Garland. Pictured below is Railey as she teaches the Pirate Parrot some new moves.

bic Team each gave a performance to entertain the crowd. The workout was led by Brosnihan, Amy Anderson, Marlane Beitzel, Jessie Railey, Leslie Gaither, Jessica Crocco and Alissa Garland.

"Our theme of a 'Block Party' workout was a huge success. Activities like the limbo, giant parachutes, and a soup-can relay made it feel more like a party than a workout," said Anderson, an instructor at Brenda's Body Shop.

The first Workout for Hope was in 1997. Each year the students of Brenda's Body Shop set their goal to earn more money than the previous event. So far they have achieved this goal, with this year's effort bringing in a record $9,018. The combined total for Workout for Hope is over $38,000.

"We have started a tradition at Brenda's Body Shop that teaches our children the importance of volunteering and community involvement through an event that promotes fitness and fun," said Brosnihan. "Next year our goal is to raise $10,000. We plan to open the event to the community to get more children and adults involved. More information about the event can be seen on our web site at www.brendasbodyshop.com."

"With the success of this year's Workout for Hope, I am once again inspired by the generosity of the people of Garrett County. We have such a giving community who supports so many events and causes," Brosnihan said. "The motto for the House of Hope is 'A community of Caring.' How appropriate."

Friendsville Town To Sponsor Old-Fashioned Gala

The mayor and town council of Friendsville are sponsoring an Old-Fashioned Christmas Celebration as part of its annual Christmas Tree and Holiday Decoration Light-Up Night on Friday, Dec. 6, starting at 6 p.m.

This year the majority of the activities will take place at the Friendsville Community Park. After the lighting of the tree, Santa will arrive at the park at 6:30 p.m. After his visit, an old-fashioned hayride will carry carolers throughout the town. Musical entertainment as well as food and craft vendors will be a part of the celebration.

All groups, organizations, and individuals are welcome to participate in this annual community event. Fund-raiser tables may be set up in the park to sell items such as crafts, hot chocolate or other hot beverages, baked goods, candies, sandwiches, funnel cakes, candy apples, or French fries. Electrical hook-ups will be available if vendors supply their own extension cords.

"Remember that this is a time of sharing," said Spencer Schlosnagle, mayor. "Nothing would make our local elderly, sick and shut-ins happier than having a child or grown-up remember them this holiday season with a small gift of baked goods, fruit, or a short visit," he said. As part of the Old-Fashioned Christmas Celebration the mayor and town council will be distributing bagged treats to the town's shut-ins.

Persons with questions may contact event coordinators Shirley Metheny at 301-746-5207 or Frani Grove at 301-746-5977.

The public is encouraged to join this evening filled with holiday spirit and sharing, Schlosnagle said.

GOBA Slated To Present Christmas On Main Street

Christmas on Main Street will once again be presented by the Greater Oakland Business Association on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6 and 7.

FRIDAY
Crafters will be exhibiting and selling handmade items in the St. Matthew's Parish Hall, and food vendors will be selling sandwiches, soup, beverages, and baked goods along Second Street from 4 until 9 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m. singers from the Pleasant View Baptist Church will perform in front of the Oakland Railroad Station.

Shayla Collins, the 2001 Snowflake Queen, will be introduced at 6:15 p.m., followed by the coronation of the 2002 Snowflake Queen and Court sponsored by Marvin's Men's Wear, Rudy's, and Markwood Cigo.

The Christmas tree in front of the train station will be lit at 6:30 p.m. Immediately following, Santa will arrive and the procession will begin at the railroad station and head east on Liberty Street and around to the gazebo, where Santa will sit and visit with the children.

Pictures with Santa will be taken from 7 to 9 p.m. One free photo per family will be taken. Additional photos may be purchased for $2 each. Santa's station is sponsored by Eiswert, Janes & Sweitzer, Rodeheaver and Associates, Dr. Tuel, First United Bank and Trust, and Wal-Mart.

SATURDAY
The craft exhibits will also be open on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Santa will return to the gazebo for photos from 10 a.m. until noon. Also at that time, live animals will be on display in the lot between Englander's Grill and Gary's Shoe Repair. In addition, there will be a baby animal petting pen. This is sponsored by Dr. Zakaluzny, Radio F/X, The Republican, Oakland New Car Dealers, Naylor's Hardware, and Devlin Inc.

Throughout the Christmas season the model train scene by Scott Atwell will be on display in the window of the George Littman building of First United Bank and Trust.

Oakland Police Arrest Two Men On DUI Charges

An officer with the Oakland Police Department made two arrests this week of suspects charged with driving under the influence.

The first arrest occurred Friday night when Raymond John Driscoll, 52, Aberdeen, N.J., was stopped on Garrett Highway. Driscoll was later released from jail after he posted a $1,000 bond.

The second suspect, William Paul DeWitt, 51, Oakland, was charged Saturday night after he was stopped at the intersection of Eighth and Oak streets. He was released on his own recognizance.

If you want to be a part of a "Great small town" celebrating Christmas, be sure you're in town on the evening of Friday, Dec. 6. At 5:30 on that evening is when the festivities begin. We'll have carolers, marching bands, and of course, Santa, all standing by for the lighting of the Christmas tree, which will happen around 6:30. There should be plenty of good food and warm drinks available so please feel free to join us for the festivities. There will also be a petting zoo the next day that will include a living manger set. So make the best of the weekend attractions!

There are only four weekends left before the train station closes. The station is open Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. and Sunday from 12:30 until 3 p.m. The last day this year for the station being open is December 15 until it reopens after Easter. Groups may tour by appointments by calling City Hall at 301-334-2691.

Third Street Bridge (over the railroad tracks) update. Last week we received a communication from CSX Transportation accepting our preliminary proposal for the bridge design. We can now meet with the adjoining property owners to proceed with the final design. The proposed bridge is two lanes with a pedestrian walkway. The new bridge will not have weight restrictions, making it safe for fire equipment and school buses to use.

The town is planning to continue with leaf pickups (weather permitting) through Nov. 26. At that time we will determine pickup dates on a day-to-day basis.

We all wish you a happy and safe Thanksgiving.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER SATURDAY AT MT. GROVE

The Mountain Lions Club will have its annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Saturday, Nov. 23, at the Mt. Grove Community Building, south of Silver Lake on U.S. 219. Serving will be from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m., and adult dinners are $5, while kids under 12 eat for $2.50. The public is welcome.

HUNTERS' BREAKFAST

VFW Post 578 and its

Ladies Auxiliary will serve a special breakfast for deer hunters on Monday, Nov. 25. Biscuits and sausage gravy, home fries, scrambled eggs, sweet bun, juice, and coffee are all on the menu, and serving is from 5 until 7 a.m. Donations are $5.

VFW NEWS

On Nov. 11, the Aurora-Terra Alta Post 578 VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary went to Hopemont Hospital, where members presented a short program and honored the seven veteran residents with plaques inscribed with each person's name. The Country Trio, Bob Rumer, Harold Sereno, and Randy Thomas provided entertainment. Floyd Sandlin recited "In Flander's Field" and played God Bless America on his harmonica. Refreshments of cake and punch were served to the 60 residents in attendance.

Voice of Democracy essays were submitted by 85 Preston County students. On Nov. 13, county competition was held at Preston High School, with the judges choosing Alex Jenkins of Masontown as first place winner and the recipient of $100. Nicole Britner of Aurora placed second and was awarded $50, while a tie for third was shared by Jennifer Sullivan of Amboy and Laurine Wilson of Terra Alta. Each received $25 as their reward.

Twenty-three of the 85 submitted essays were sent for state competition. The winners of the speaking contest are now eligible to enter state competition to be held in Charleston. Scholarships in the amounts of $25,000 for first place, $16,000 for second, and $10,000 will be awarded to the winners.

Members of VFW Post 578 and the Auxiliary attended the VOD competition and they, along with other Preston County VFW posts and auxiliaries, were sponsors of the competition locally.

On Monday evening, Nov. 11, there were 90 veterans, spouses, and families present for the dinner served at the VFW post home in Terra Alta. The Country Trio band entertained, and there was a short program in honor of those who served. The same members of the post and auxiliary traveled to Clarksburg on Nov. 13, where they gave gifts to each patient at the VA Hospital, served refreshments, and entertained patients. Betty Sereno and Carol Rumer served the

SHOOTING MATCHES SET

The Farmers' Wildlife Club of Horse Shoe Run is sponsoring a shooting match at the park on Saturday, Nov. 23, beginning at noon. Participants may use 12-, 16- or 20-gauge shotguns. Prizes are turkeys, bacon, and 50/50 cash. Refreshments are available, and everyone is welcome.

A shooting match on Sunday, Nov. 24, will begin at 1 p.m. at the Mt. Grove VFD location in the Mt. Grove community. Concessions are available. Use of 12-, 16- or 20-gauge shotguns only are allowed, and shots are $1 each. This fund-raising event benefits the Mt. Grove VFD.

SCHOOL NEWS

The 5th grade, under the direction of Mrs. Leona Dixon, has initiated a school newspaper. Activities of the fall months, samples of work, and a calendar of events are included in its pages. To help further the work in the art department, Mrs. Carlsen requests clean egg cartons and foam trays, brown paper bags, yarn, buttons, and wire coat hangers for sculptures and mobiles.

There remain a few of the 2001-02 yearbooks, and persons may contact Sue Shillingburg at 735-3007, or Stephanie Arnett at 735-3225 to purchase one ($15) or two ($25). All are reminded to keep saving General Mills Boxtops for Education and Campbell product labels which help purchase supplies for the school.

Coinciding with gun season for those whitetail "government cattle," students will be on vacation the week of November 25-29.

WILT BIRTH

Their third child, McKenzie Paige, was born Nov. 12, 2002, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Brian and Trisha Wilt of Mtn. Lake Park. The baby was 19 inches in length at birth. She has an older sister, Hannah, and a brother, Bryson.

Maternal grandparents are Tom and Cheryl Marple of Mtn. Lake Park. Carolyn and Robert Harsh of Eglon and the late Alden Wilt are the paternal grandparents. Elda "Sue" Fike of Oakland is the paternal great-grandmother.

DEATHS NOTED

Sadie Mae Hollis, 86, Kingwood, died Tuesday, Nov. 12, 2002. She was born at Horse Shoe Run Nov. 13, 1915, a daughter of the late John and Ora

Fike Slaubaugh. She was preceded in death by her husband, Harold Hollis, in 1958, by three brothers, Roy, Melvin, and Revie, a sister, Elva Inks, and a niece, Erma Whitehair. Surviving are two daughters, Barbara Bauer of Wicomico, Va., and Linda Underhill of Grand Rapids, Mich.; a son, Harold (Bud) Hollis of Bentleyville, Pa.; and a sister, Freda Whitehair of Terra Alta. Services were Nov. 16 at the Kingwood Baptist Church, and interment was in Eglon Cemetery.

Georgia B. Fike, 80, died Nov. 11 at the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville. She was born Feb. 24, 1922, at Kempton, a daughter of Arthur and Nina Cox Jackson. Her husband, Wayne Fike, preceded her in death in 1994. A brother, Leonard Jackson and a sister, Addis Zurcher, also preceded her in death. A daughter, Deanna Nacke of Louisville, Ky., and a son, Phillip Fike of Aurora, survive, as do one brother, Charles Jackson of Medina, Ohio, five grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. Services were held Nov. 16 at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, and interment followed in Garrett County Memorial #### Gardens.

CORRECTION

In last week's death notice for Freeman D. Fike, one of his surviving daughters, Sandra Jean Lewis, Oakland, was named incorrectly.

AURORA CEOS

Achievement Night for Preston County CEOS was held Nov. 14 at the Kingwood Community Building. The Aurora club won a gold ribbon, its scrapbook a blue ribbon, and its homemaker of the year, Opal Myers, was among the club homemakers recognized. Attending were Rennie Conrad, Dorothy Spaid, Delores Douglas, Janice Tackett, Virginia Martin, Kathy Hardesty, Gail Rose, Joyce Brennan, Faye Taylor, Opal Myers, Wilda Harsh, and Martha Bolyard.

PERSONAL MENTION

Ryan Winters and his wife, Keely, will be visiting with Ryan's parents, Rick and Tina Winters at Horse Shoe Run. They will arrive from his Luke Air Force Base station in Phoenix, Ariz., in the evening of Nov. 23, and remain for a two-week visit. Rick would like to see friends and relatives while here.

Leroy and Foris Harsh of Bridgewater, Va., made a Sunday visit to see his father, Arden Harsh, at Cortland Acres Nursing Home, and his brother and wife, Robert and Carolyn Harsh, Eglon.

Delton Sell of the Mtn. Grove community has retired from his farm and become a resident of Heartland of Preston County at Kingwood, where he would enjoy visits or communication by way of mail. He may be addressed c/o Heartland of Preston County, 300 Miller Road, Kingwood, WV 26537.

Gene Hauser was able to return last week to his Gnegy Church home after being at the HealthSouth Mountain View Rehab Center for several weeks. He is reportedly much improved. Rebecca Teets was transferred from the Goodwill Mennonite Home to Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently and remains a patient there.

Dorothy Bachtel of Gnegy Church is now a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

About 20 persons from the Aurora-Eglon-Horse Shoe Run area joined a Schrock bus tour to Allenberry Playhouse at Boiling Springs, Pa., on Wednesday, Nov. 13.

The Farm Women's Circle of Horse Shoe Run enjoyed a dinner and the revealing of 2002 secret sisters on Tuesday evening, Nov. 12. They also chose new names for 2003 secret sisters, conducted business, and visited. A roast beef dinner was served at the Union Ambulance squad hall.

Avenell Parsons is reportedly slowly recovering from a back injury received in a fall last week at her home in Eglon.

Dorothy Spaid of Aurora underwent surgery Monday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Hallie Hartsell of Salt Lick was treated to lunch out and a visit with her brother on Sunday, by her son and daughter-in-law, Claud and Brenda Hartsell, Eglon. The occasion was her Saturday, Nov. 16, birthday.

CORRESPONDENT'S NOTE

Please have any news or announcements to me by Sunday, Nov. 24, if you need it published in that week's paper. Thank you, Jean Winters.

Wesleyan Church To Hold Revival

The Terra Alta Wesleyan Church will hold revival services Saturday, Nov. 23, through Tuesday, Nov. 26. The event will be held each night at 7 p.m.

Rev. Bob England, a former pastor, will conduct the services. England now lives in Bloomfield, Ind.

The Wesleyan Church is located west of Terra Alta along Route 7, across from J&J Ford Sales. The public is invited.

TA Police Dept. Launches "Click It Or Ticket"

The Terra Alta Police Department is currently participating in an "unprecedented blitz" aimed at adults who put themselves and their child passengers at risk.

During "Click It or Ticket Mobilization" the officers will join hundreds of other agencies in West Virginia to intensify enforcement of seatbelt and child passenger laws.

During the enforcement wave, Nov. 18 to Dec. 2, officers will be looking for and ticketing adults statewide who do not buckle up.

"We are declaring zero tolerance for reckless adults who knowingly disregard seat belt laws," said Terra Alta police chief T.R. Queen. "Our department will write you a ticket if you or your passengers are not buckled up."

"We don't want to write you a ticket," he added. "We want to save your life."

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Air Force Senior Airman Melvin R. Frantz has re-enlisted in the U.S. Air Force after four years of military service.

Frantz is a communication-cable systems journeyman assigned to Misawa Air Base, Japan.

He is the son of Donald L. and Neva S. Frantz of Eglon, W.Va. His wife Melissa is the daughter of Beatrice V. Ford of Bayard, W.Va.

Aurora VFD To Serve Breakfast

The Aurora Volunteer Fire Department will serve an "all-you-can-eat" deer hunters' breakfast this Sunday, Nov. 24, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the fire hall. The menu will include buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, scrambled eggs, bacon, home fries, sausage gravy, and biscuits.

The cost of the meal is $6 for adults and $3 for children ages 12 and under. All proceeds will benefit the Aurora VFD.

"Tellebration" Slated In McHenry

The annual "Tellebration: A Night of Storytelling Around the World" event will have a local venue at Canoe on the Run in McHenry this Saturday, Nov. 23. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m., and the storytelling session will get under way at approximately 7:15 p.m. Stories are usually no longer than 10-12 minutes, although some are shorter, according to local event organizer Dr. Gail Herman, who is accepting names of additional persons interested in telling a story. (See below for contact details.)

There is no admission fee for the storytelling session, although donations will be accepted by the Garrett County branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), and can be used by the organization's local scholarship fund, the national fund, and other educational projects. Tellebration is sponsored by the local AAUW branch and the National Storytelling Network, based in Jonesboro, Tenn.

Among the area storytellers and singers on the program bill at this point are Herman, who will tell a story from Persia while accompanied by flutist and guitarist Dr. Sally Stephenson, who will sing an original story song as well; Garrett College student Tatjana Kravchuck, who will tell a story from her native Estonia; Kam Gillespie, who will tell a story from India; Shirley Carson and Sandra Daughton, who will tell a story titled "Try, Try, and Try Again"; Joan Whetsell of Addison, Pa.; Ginny Grove, Peggy Santamaria, Gordon Williams, Willie Kline, Christle Henderson, William Savage, Amanda Savage, Kristen Yant, Jeanne Walton, and Joann Guy.

From its founding 15 years ago in Connecticut, Tellebration has grown into an international event produced by schools, libraries, colleges, museums, performing arts centers, community groups, and storytelling guilds. The event will be taking place around the world the same evening, as people gather in homes, halls, restaurants and theatres to share family and folk stories, from personal experiences to tales of old, according to Herman. "[Participating storytellers] wish to preserve the age-old tradition of building community through stories," she explained.

"The National Storytelling Network supports volunteers who work to preserve the cultural and historical heritage of their area by making wonderful stories come to life. Stories have been used for centuries to pass along family histories or just to entertain," stated Herman.

Canoe on the Run is located at 2622 Deep Creek Drive, off Garrett Highway. Persons interested in information on the local storytelling session and the worldwide Tellebration event may call Herman at 301-387-9199. Dinner reservations may be obtained by calling 301-387-5933.

Arts Council Seeking Entries For Ginseng

The Garrett County Arts Council is accepting submissions of poetry and creative writing for publication consideration in the fifth edition of the council's annual literary journal Ginseng. The 2003 edition of Ginseng will feature works by adult Garrett County writers and is scheduled for publication next June.

The deadline to submit poems, essays, narratives, and works of fiction for consideration by the council's editorial committee is December 7.

The submissions of each writer must be typed on 8½"x11" paper and must be accompanied by an official submission form, available by calling the arts council or at the Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland. Submissions will not be returned. Other submission rules and guidelines are available upon request.

Copies of previous issues of Ginseng may be purchased at nominal charge at the Gallery. For additional information, persons may call the arts council at 301-334-6580.

MASH BOOK IN SECOND PRINTING — Patty Manown Mash, Deep Creek Lake, is pictured above displaying a copy of the John Mash memorial edition of The Land of the Living. Patty's late husband John authored the publication, which tells the history of Green Ridge State Forest and surrounding areas. In Allegany County. A resident of Garrett and Allegany counties, John was the manager of Green Ridge State Forest for 15 years. Originally published in 1996, The Land of the Living is now in its second printing and contains an eight-page color photographic tribute to the author. "John passed away in October 2001," said Patty, "and it was his dying wish that his Living History Foundation Committee have another edition printed, since there were numerous requests for his book." She added that the books have been sold throughout the country to history buffs and persons conducting family research. Members of the Living History Foundation will introduce the book at Main Street Books in Frostburg, the Book Center in Cumberland, and the Knot Hole in Flintstone on Saturday, Nov. 23, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. On display that day will be pages of Mash's original manuscript, which was written in long hand on legal paper. Foundation members will be available to answer questions about the book. The publication is also available at the Book Market in Oakland, as well as Bill's Place in Orleans, Rocky Gap State Park, and Green Ridge State Forest. Proceeds from the book will once again go toward historic preservation.

Winter Choral Concert Set At Frostburg State

The Frostburg State University Department of Music presents its Winter Choral Concert this Sunday, Nov. 24, at 3 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. The concert will feature the University Choral and the Collegium Musicum under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg Sarnaker, conductor, and Dr. Susan Mills, guest conductor and music education specialist. Kimberly Andrews will be the accompanist.

The University Choral performance will include "Veni, Creator Spiritus" by Anton Cajetan Adlgasser, and feature Heather Helms, soprano, Heather Foote, alto, and Michael Hale-Cooper, tenor; "Elohim Hashivenu" by Salomoni Rossi; and Mozart's "Litaniae Lauretanae," KV 109. Works from other cultures include "Steal Away (USA)," arranged by Bob Chilcott, "Tungare" by Stephen Leek (Australia), and "Natufurahi Siku Ya Leo" by Boniface Mwangi (Kenya). Also included are three humorous works, "Of Crows and Clusters" by Norman Dello Joio, "The Owl and the Pussycat" arranged by Bob Chilcott, and "Jabberwocky" by Sam Pottle.

The Collegium Musicum will perform four South African works under the direction of Dr. Mills. They will include "N'kosi Sikelelil Afrika, Somagwazam" (Xhosa ritual music), "Kenale Monna" (wedding song), and "Kwengena Thina Bo" (Zulu song).

The concert is free and open to the public. Donations toward the Music Scholarship Fund will be accepted.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. You may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Spruce Forest Slates Annual Holiday Events

The 17th annual Christmas in the Village, held at Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, has been set for Friday, Dec. 6, and Saturday, Dec. 7. The times for the event are 4 to 8 p.m. Friday, and noon to 8 p.m. on Saturday.

"Admission to the festival is free, and it is a wonderful place to bring the family for a few hours of peace and quiet amidst the hustle and bustle of the holiday season," said village administrator Trish Morgan. "We will feature the talents of our expert craftsmen, who have established businesses inside our cozy, yet authentic log cabin studios."

Throughout the day, there will be complimentary refreshments in the various historic buildings such as hot chocolate, homemade "courtin'" fudge, hot spiced cider, homemade cookies, and assorted candies.

Artisans at the festival will include Gary Yoder, Meriam Brode, Jody Best, Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, Peggy Nixon, Ann Jones, and Lynn Lais. Their works will be on sale during festival hours. The variety of hand-crafted artwork will include heirloom teddy bears, stained glass, ironwork, pottery, baskets, slate paintings, bird sculpture, and hand-woven goods.

Other features of the event are evening concerts in the Village Church, more than 500 candle luminaries lighting the pathways and the Casselman bridge both evenings, and a cookie walk, which is new this season.

Friday night at 7:30 p.m., the Grantsville Community Choir will perform its annual cantata, and on Saturday night, the JoyBells of the First Presbyterian Church, Cumberland, will provide a bell choir. Seating is limited and is on a first-come, first-seated basis.

There are also local businesses in town that will be holding special open houses during the festival days, and Elliott House Victorian Inn, the Wormy Chestnut, and Fernwood Soap will be open.

For a weather report or information on local accommodations, persons are invited to call 301-895-3332, or visit the organization's web site at www.spruceforest.org.

FSU Professor Hurd Wins Bright Hill Press Award

Dr. Barbara Hurd, a resident of Garrett County and professor of English at Frostburg State University, has won the Bright Hill Press Poetry Award, which will include publication of her book-length collection of poems, The Singer's Temple, in addition to the associated national recognition and cash award.

Bright Hill Press is a not-for-profit literary organization and press dedicated to literary excellence.

The final judge was the poet Richard Frost, whose work has appeared in Paris Review, Poetry Journal, and Harper's, among others, and who has published collections of poetry himself. He wrote the following about his choice of Hurd's work:

"Early in this book Barbara Hurd confronts the reader with the scary and fascinating proposition, a medical conjecture, that many of us are actually twins in our single bodies and oblivious of it. In her compelling, well-crafted poems Hurd carries us through varied perspectives on this theme of self-accompaniment. We encounter sea urchins, Dr. Jekyll, a grackle falling down a stovepipe, Monet, the cinema, Elvis, Eros, a vacuum-cleaner salesman, Doubting Thomas, Peter Pan, an egret, and Gyoto monks. We ride double on a motorcycle in India. We are taken into a surreal dream of an anthropomorphic cave that has aggressive sexual intentions. Hurd takes us where we never have been, which is the job of a poet, and she does it well. Her voice is genuine and convincing, her versification is sure, and, above all, her poems are interesting. Once I began, I read the book through; I was drawn from poem to poem. Altogether, this is a splendid collection. Read it — you will be more than doubly pleased."

Hurd has received a number of accolades over the past year. Her collection of essays, Stirring the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs and Human Imagination, was chosen as a best book of 2001 by the Los Angeles Times. Her essays and poems have appeared in numerous journals and collections, including Best American Essays 1999 and Best American Essays 2001. The recipient of the 2002 National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship in Creative Nonfiction, as well as numerous other awards for her writing, she is the Wilson H. Elkins professor at FSU.

Hurd has already published a collection of poems, titled Objects in this Mirror, and a second book of essays, this one on caves, titled Entering the Stone, is forthcoming.

Stirring the Mud is also the inspiration for "Stirrings," a multi-disciplinary work connecting the arts, the environment, and human life, which will bring together the diverse worlds of dance, music, theatre, creative writing, and science. It will have its premiere performance at FSU in April.

FSU Cultural Events Series Offers Special Matinee Of The Nutcracker

Because of popular demand, the Frostburg State University Cultural Series will offer a special matinee performance of The Nutcracker, starring the International Ballet Theatre of Russia, at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 27, in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre. The evening shows scheduled for Nov. 26 and 27 are sold out. Dinner Show Packages and Arts Getaway Packages are available with the Wednesday matinee, and Dinner Show Packages can be added to existing ticket purchases for the evening performances.

The timeless story of a little girl's Christmas fantasy, The Nutcracker begins as Clara celebrates the holiday with family and friends. At the party, the mysterious Herr Drosselmeyer gives her a Nutcracker doll. As she sleeps, she dreams of a battle between toy soldiers and giant mice, which ends when her Nutcracker comes to life as a handsome prince and defeats the Mouse King. Transformed into a princess, Clara accompanies her Nutcracker prince to the Land of Snow and Kingdom of Sweets, where the couple are lavishly entertained by exotic dancers representing countries around the globe. Eventually the dream ends, leaving Clara with wondrous memories.

Conceived by choreographer Marius Petipa and based on a story by E.T.A. Hoffman, The Nutcracker is especially renowned for the score by the Russian master composer Piotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky. "Lavish costumes and elaborate sets, combined with the talents of an international ensemble of award-winning dancers, bring artistic director Vladimir Shumeikin's version of this classic to life in the grand Russian tradition of classical ballet, enlivened by contemporary style, but dedicated always to beauty and elegance," stated a program spokesperson.

Reservations for the Arts Getaway Package should be made by Thursday, Nov. 22, and payment must be made in advance. Reservations for the Dinner Show Package must be made by Monday, Nov. 25. Patrons pay the restaurant of choice after the completion of their meal. For ticket and package prices and purchases, persons may call or visit the CES Box Office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. The office is located at Frostburg State University in the Lane University Center, Room 235, and can be reached at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX CES. Tickets for the Wednesday matinee can also be purchased online at <http://ces.frostburg.edu>.

The 2002-2003 CES Series is supported in part by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland, and the National Endowment for the Arts. Presented in partnership with Windwood Theatricals and the FSU Division of Performing Arts, The Nutcracker is sponsored by Days Inn and Suites.

Trooper 5 Establishes Airway Across The Sky To Save Lives

By David Foster

One of the memorable scenes from the 1970s hit TV program *M*A*S*H* appears in the opening credits of each episode, when Army helicopters bearing wounded soldiers appear from over ridges in the home in on the hospital unit. The advent of the "chopper" saved countless lives in the Korean, Vietnam, and subsequent wars, by speeding the fallen to emergency treatment and a hoped-for recovery.

Since the Korean War, the use of helicopters has expanded far beyond its battlefield origins to play a vital role in the emergency medical transports of ordinary citizens who are severely injured in accidents, falls, and fires.

"When there is a bona fide emergency, the medevac crew must respond faster than an ER doc," an emergency room physician wrote in The Washington Post recently. "More uncontrollable background chaos, less data on which to base decisions, fewer resources to manage a deteriorating patient."

One of the true pioneers in making this medical advancement available to anyone who needs it happens to be the Maryland State Police, which operates a network of medevac helicopters that can reach every corner of the state and beyond. Founded in 1970, the MSP "Trooper" program was the first public service medevac program in the United States, and remains the largest such publicly funded program, now at eight choppers, strong spread out across the state.

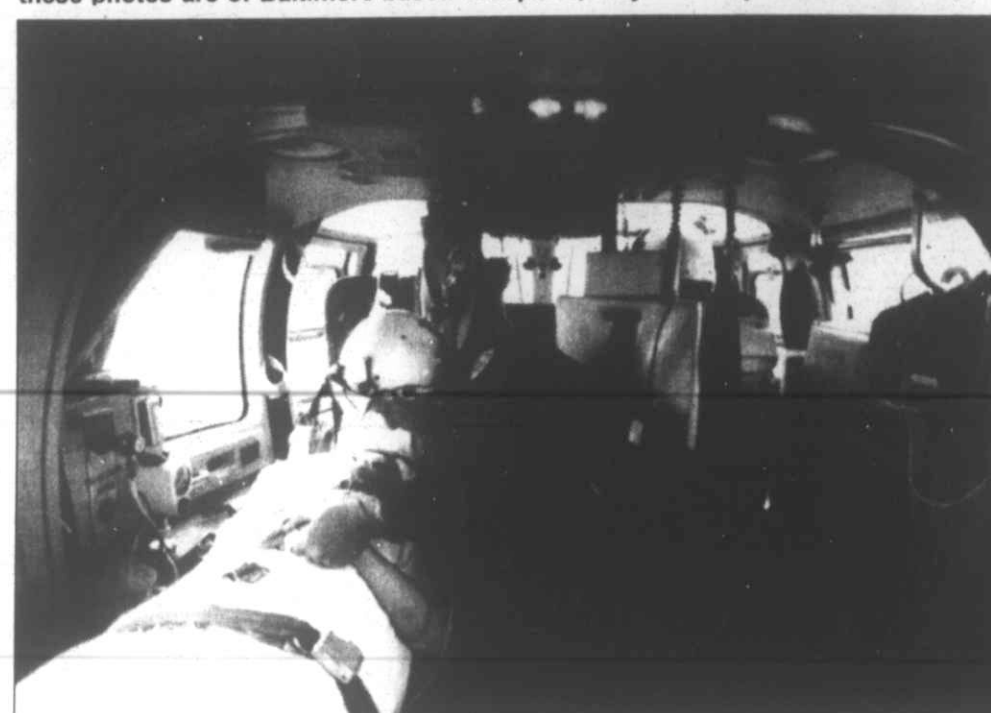

Those public funds — our tax dollars — secure every Maryland citizen some of the best and speediest emergency medical support for ground crews in the nation.

"We will treat and fly anyone who needs it — at no cost to the patient or the family," said MSP Cpl. Scott Lowman, section supervisor for Trooper 5, which serves as the first medevac responder for all of Garrett and Allegany counties, the western half of Washington County, and portions of West Virginia and Pennsylvania up to 30 miles beyond the Maryland state line. "Not too many states provide a taxpayer-funded program like ours."

What those tax dollars get for us here in the western corner of the state is a pilot, a nationally registered flight paramedic and a flying emergency treatment room stocked with medica-

A FLYING AMBULANCE, AND MORE — The first and largest publicly funded medevac system in the country, the Maryland State Police "Trooper" helicopter program has established itself as a premier service studied by governments and hospital systems the world over. The familiar "chop-chop" of western Maryland's Trooper 5 signals the arrival of a flying ambulance that can transport a severely injured patient from Oakland to Baltimore in less than an hour, with treatment provided the entire way by the flight paramedic — at no cost to the patient. in less than an hour at a cruising speed of 160 mph. The ball is set in motion for a Trooper 5 response, as it is for each of the state's eight medevac units, by the paramedic on the ground at the scene of an accident or other emergency, who radios Garrett Central to request a medevac flight. Garrett's dispatcher calls the MSP's System Command in Baltimore, and the duty officer there takes down the patient information and specifies of the location before calling the Cumberland Airport hangar (or Trooper 5 direct if it is in flight and available). The chopper will be airborne in less than five minutes from the time the phone rings in its hangar.

On the way to a call, both pilot and paramedic sit in the front of the chopper, with the medic handling navigation duties using maps and a Global Positioning System, and communicating with the ground units for details on the landing site and the patient's condition. The craft relies on fire and rescue personnel on the ground to make sure the landing site is clear of overhead wires and obstacles, especially at night.

Once the helicopter arrives on the scene, it can be airborne with a patient, or two, aboard in less than 10 minutes. On the way to a hospital, the medic treats the patient and maintains contact with the receiving doctors on the ground; if the patient's condition is so dire that the medic doesn't have time to work the radio, the pilot can relay the information to the hospital. Once at the emergency facility, the Trooper 5 crew offloads the patient, and continues to administer treatment until he or she is delivered to the receiving area and turned over to the hospital staff.

Trooper 5 flies mainly to the nearest trauma center, best equipped to treat the patient. A number of flights end at Cumberland Memorial Hospital, which is a Level 3 Trauma Center on an ascending scale of 3 to 1.

Like all other MSP helicopter units, Trooper 5's mission is not limited solely to medical flights. The helicopter is also used by state troopers and other law enforcement agencies as an "eye in the sky," assisting from above in searches for suspects, vehicle pursuits, and the like. Bearing a spotlight that throws a focusing beam equivalent to 30 million candlepower, the chopper can turn midnight into daylight from a height of 1,000 feet. The helicopter

Also available is the Cone-maugh Hospital in Johns-town, Pa., a Level 2 Center, and the Level 1 Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown. In addition, the helicopter can land at one of several specialty referral hospitals, such as Johns Hopkins Pediatric, the Hopkins Bay View Burn Center, and the Curtis Hand Unit at Union Memorial Hospital.

One of the main destinations of the eight Trooper medevacs from around the state is the Level 1 University of Maryland Shock Trauma Unit in Baltimore, the only Primary Adult Resource Center in the mid-Atlantic region. A PARC designation is the highest rating a publicly funded facility can garner.

IS YOUR PAGER WORKING?

If you carry a TWR pager, your answer should be yes. Many power outages occurred in the Western Maryland area during the recent ice storm. This caused many paging companies to be down for several days.

TWR has back-up power on all paging transmitters and was not affected by this latest storm. If you want to learn more about our paging, call us today at 301-777-2692 or 301-334-2488.

Don't let the upcoming winter months leave YOU out of touch...deal with TWR for uninterrupted paging service!

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN

The mayor and town council meeting was held on Nov. 12.

The town is advertising for a part-time maintenance employee.

The Christmas party will be held on Dec. 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Community Center. Santa will be attending, and there will be door prizes and refreshments. Persons are asked to bring a plate of cookies.

Thanks to the town of Mtn. Lake Park for its help with the town's leaf pick up.

Approximately $10 of each MVA registration fee goes into a fund used by the State Firemen's Association, the University of Maryland Medical Center, and our program," said Lowman.

The statewide medevac each draw from that pool of money. The statewide medevac program's budget is in the neighborhood of $18 million per year, and no patient ever gets billed for a transport.

The "chop-chop" sound of Trooper 5 speeding over our hills and valleys has grown so familiar these days that one hardly looks up when it flies by — but consider what that sound means to a severely injured patient and the emergency personnel administering treatment on the ground. It's hard to imagine a better use for such a small pittance of our tax dollars.

Any law enforcement agency or fire and rescue service interested in scheduling a demonstration of Trooper 5's services can call Lowman at the Cumberland Airport hangar at 301-777-8400. The crew will fly out to meet an emergency services organization, present a PowerPoint program, and show the helicopter's equipment.

The service is also a highly sought after work assignment in the MSP ranks itself. Flight paramedics are required to be graduates of the MSP Academy and have a minimum of two months of patrol duty, and be a trained and nationally registered paramedic with at least three years of advanced life support field experience. Pilots are most often civilian employees

By providing the latest in emergency medical care and speedy transport to some of the nation's best hospitals, the MSP's Trooper medevac program has garnered the attention of other U.S. states and foreign countries. "A lot of foreign governments and hospitals send representatives to study our program, and our chief instructor pilot and our medical director have both lectured in Europe on several occasions," Lowman stated.

Lakers Win McDonald's Classic, Defeat Howard To Stay Perfect

Six victories in six games have the Garrett College men's basketball team and their coach, Dennis Gibson, off to one of the best starts in Laker history.

The Lakers won their own McDonald's Classic this past weekend by whipping Penn State-Beaver on Friday, 95-76, and rolling over Potomac State College in Saturday's title game, 76-55. Then last night the young GC squad disposed of a talented Howard CC team, 79-73, in Columbia.

The Lakers will be in action at home tonight against Penn State-Fayette, with the tipoff set for 7 p.m.

Freshmen Kevin Essex, Larry Blocker, and Lee Parris powered the Lakers to their convincing win over Penn State-Beaver on Friday, as they bucketed 23, 21, and 20 points, respectively.

The Lakers had a sluggish first half and trailed Beaver by four points, 40-36, at intermission. They took control in the second half and out-scored their visitors by a 59-36 margin.

Recording a double-double for the evening was Laker James Jones, who netted 10 points and grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds. Garrett dominated in rebounding by a 50-30 spread. Pacing the Blue Devils in scoring was Sam Hanik with a game-high 25 points. Also reaching double figures were Josh Bruschi with 16 points and Joe Wonssetler with 11.

Potomac State, which defeated Dundalk CC in Friday's other game to earn a spot in the title contest, was no match for the Lakers on Saturday, as Garrett took control early and moved out to a 35-20 lead by halftime.

Once again the Lakers hammered their opponents on the boards, finishing with a commanding 48-24 advantage in rebounds.

Blocker, a 6-7 freshman, had a double-double night with a game-high 23 points, 10 rebounds, and a pair of blocks. Essex added a dozen points and a pair of steals, while James Jones and Daniel Green just missed double figures with nine points apiece.

The Catamounts had scored 99 points in their 99-93 victory over Dundalk the night before, but managed only 55 against the Laker defense. Jason Bridges and Nathan Simpson led PSC with 12 and 10 points, respectively, and Jose Cabreja pulled down eight rebounds.

"Our man-to-man defense was successful in shutting down their penetration," Coach Gibson said. "When Kevin (Essex) got into foul trouble, Lee Parris and Larry Blocker really stepped it up and played well for us. When Larry reaches his full potential, he will be a major player in our program."

Blocker and Parris were both named to the All-Tournament team, as were Nathan Simpson of PSC, Chason Holmes of Dundalk, and Sam Hanik of Penn State-Beaver.

Holmes scored a tournament-high 31 points in the consolation game to lead Dundalk to a 108-94 win over Beaver. Josh Bruschi scored 25 to pace Beaver.

The Lakers performed well in their biggest test of the season to date last night by defeating a solid Howard team. Lee Parris had an excellent game in leading Garrett with 24 points and 11 rebounds, while Alvin Jones came off the bench to score 12 points, and Antuan Townsend and Kevin Essex each finished with 11. Blocker had a team-high 10 rebounds, Townsend contributed seven assists, and Essex dished out six.

The score remained close almost throughout the contest, as the Lakers were up by just two, 38-36, at halftime. They trailed by that margin, 71-69, with about two minutes to play. But Townsend fired an outlet pass to Parris to complete fast-break lay-up, and Blocker followed soon afterward with a tip-in to put the Lakers back on top, 73-71.

A pair of free throws by Howard's Jared Woodley knotted the score again, but Townsend responded with two foul shots, and Essex followed with a three-point play to seal the win for the Lakers.

Brandon Jeffers was the top scorer for the Iron Horse Express with 18 points. Woodley, Clarence Grant, and Eric Breland also reached double figures with 15, 14, and 10 points, respectively. Breland also grabbed seven rebounds, and Jeffers had six.

The Lakers finished with a slight edge in rebounds, 41-39.

"We beat a very good team tonight," Gibson said. "What is exciting for us is that a different player has been stepping up for us almost every game. Tonight it was Alvin Jones, who came off the bench and sparked some nice runs."

After tonight's clash with Penn State-Fayette, the Lakers will take to the road this weekend, traveling to Atlantic City, N.J., to face a new opponent, Cape CC, in a 4 p.m. game Sunday. They will then travel south to Bel Air on Monday to face Harford CC before taking a Thanksgiving break.

Laker Women Hope Size Will Counter Lack Of Experience

Garrett Opens With Good Showing Against PSC

Although the Garrett College women's basketball team opened its season Tuesday night with a 68-52 loss to visiting Potomac State College, there may be a silver lining to the debut defeat. The Catamounts are considered by GC head coach Steve Willison to be one of the toughest teams on the Lakers' 2002-03 slate, and his young squad put up a valiant fight with their arch-rivals, who improved their record to 5-0.

Willison has to be pleased that his young squad, which fields one senior and four freshman starters, put up such an impressive fight against the undefeated PSC visitors. "Potomac State could be the toughest team we'll face all season," he said. "It was a big test for us."

Only one point separated the teams at the half, as Potomac State held a slim 31-30 lead.

Garrett guard LaSha Anderson gave Laker fans a stirring preview of what may be in store this year by turning in a stellar performance at both ends of the floor. The freshman led all scorers with 27 points on 10 field goals, including a pair of three-point buckets, and she connected on five of seven free throws. She also ripped down 10 rebounds, dished out two assists, and nabbed five steals.

Sophomore Angel Kendall contributed 13 points on six field goals, and freshman Tiffany McFarland had 12 points and nine rebounds.

The Catamounts were led by Brittany McCarty's 21 points, and 18 points from Erika Alt.

SEASON PREVIEW

The young Lakers will be relying on size and quickness to offset their lack of college experience this season. Anchoring the frontcourt are a pair of freshman "twin towers," center/forward McFarland, (5-11)

Three-point Goals—Potomac State 2 (Alt 2), Garrett 3 (Kendall, Anderson 2). Total Fouls—Potomac State 18, Garrett 22. Fouled Out—None.

Maynard (5-8) is a sophomore from Mingo County, W.Va., who was noted with All-State Honorable Mention recognition in high school.

Listed as a guard, Anderson has the height (5-8) and the mobility to swing into a forward slot when needed. The Martinsburg, W.Va., resident earned Third-Team All State honors last year in West Virginia. Rounding out the backcourt will be guards Kendall (5-7) and LaTonya Crowder (5-6).

Mtn. Top Soccer Assn. Sets Awards Ceremony At SMS

The Mountaintop Soccer Association will conduct its year-end awards ceremony on Tuesday, Nov. 26, at Southern Middle School. All divisions will be recognized, and all players are asked to wear their game jerseys. "This ceremony will conclude another very successful year of youth soccer in Garrett County, and all coaches, players, sponsors, and family members are encouraged to attend," said MSA president Ron Petrella.

The U6 and U8 divisions will be recognized at 6:30 p.m., the U10 awards will be distributed at 7:15 p.m., and the U12 and U15 divisions will be recognized at 7:45 p.m. Soccer medals will be given to all participants who played in the MSA league, with trophies being awarded to the champions and runners-up in both the U12 and U15 divisions.

For further information, persons may call Bill Stuck at 301-334-6280.

THE BUCKS STOPPED HERE — Junior Hunt Day was doubly kind to 14-year-old Sam Leatherman, left, and T.J. Sisler, 13. Hunting together on private property south of Red House under the adult supervision of Ray Wharton, the pair saw a doe moving through a field at a distance of 450 yards. When the first of these two 8-points followed the female, he fell to the boys' initial shot. A waiting game ensued after the first buck was taken, and patience paid off when the second buck came into view. Leatherman's deer dressed out at 150 pounds, while Sisler's take tipped the scales at a whopping 170-pound dressed weight.

NHS HOLDS ALUMNI SOCCER NIGHT — The Northern Garrett High School varsity soccer team held an alumni night on Sept. 26, featuring members of the 1952-53, 1953-54, and 1954-55 soccer teams. "Tradition is very important to any program; therefore, every year I look forward to having alumni players attend our games and be honored at half-time," said head coach Tom Ables. "Next year we will be looking for soccer players who played on the very first team at Northern High School. They will be honored during half-time at the Westmar game on Sept. 16, 2003." Pictured above, left to right, are Margaret Hershberger, representing her deceased husband, Don Hershberger, co-captain, 1953 and 1954; Donald Ringer, co-captain, 1952-53 and 1953-54, with his grandson, Nicholas Ahern; Allan Georg, 1953-54; Allen Fratz, manager, 1953-54; Dean Durst, 1954-55; Harry Miller, 1954-55; and Mary Frantz, representing her deceased brother, Eugene Savage, 1954-55. Current NHS team members having relatives unable to attend were Mitchell and Michael Guard, representing their uncle Reed Richter, and Brian Shiosnagle, representing his great uncle Glean Schlosnagle.

coln County, W.Va.

"We're starting so many freshmen that it's hard to tell what will happen," commented Willison. "It depends on how long it will take the freshmen to adjust to the college game."

"We have five starters that know how to score on the inside and outside, and at least four starters that can handle the ball at point guard. We're very quick, have good overall team size, and can rebound very well," the coach remarked.

The Lakers' schedule will allow the young squad some leeway in cutting their teeth, as the first 10 games on their slate will be played in McHenry. The campaign continues with home court battles this week against CCBC Essex at 2 p.m. Saturday, and CCAC South at 7 p.m. Monday.

"It's hard to compare teams, but I think we are twice as good as we were last season," Willison observed. "I'm really looking forward to this season."

Garrett College Trustees Hear Strong FY '02 Financial Report

The Garrett College board of trustees held its regular monthly meeting at the college's McHenry campus recently. Among the topics discussed were the Fiscal Year 2002 annual financial report, the addition of a new faculty member for the signature Adventure Sports Program, and a report of the institution's current financial status.

FISCAL YEAR 2002 FINANCIAL REPORT

The FY 2002 Financial Report was delivered by Jim Murray of Rodeheaver and Associates.

Murray stated that Rodeheaver and Associates has expressed an unqualified opinion on the financial statements of the college. He noted that Rodeheaver and Associates also found no instances of non-compliance and no material weaknesses in the internal control structure of the college.

Herman accepted the report on behalf of the college, noting that he feels Garrett is fortunate to be in such a strong financial position at this time of financial crisis in the state. He credited in large part Dean Michael Kilgus, who manages the college's financial affairs. Kilgus in turn attributed the management successes to the efforts of Business Office director Peggy Knox and her staff.

NEW AVS PROGRAM FACULTY MEMBER

Herman then introduced Garrett's new associate professor of Adventure Sports, Michael Swiderski. Swiderski stated that he arrived on campus about seven weeks ago, shortly before fall classes began. "I realized my passion was in working with students and teaching in the classroom," Swiderski told the trustees, "so I decided to get back into academia after 10 years of administrative work."

Swiderski said that he and his fellow AVS faculty members foresee a growing number of programmatic connections between their department and the and Continuing Education programs, as well as the AVS Guide Service and specific projects.

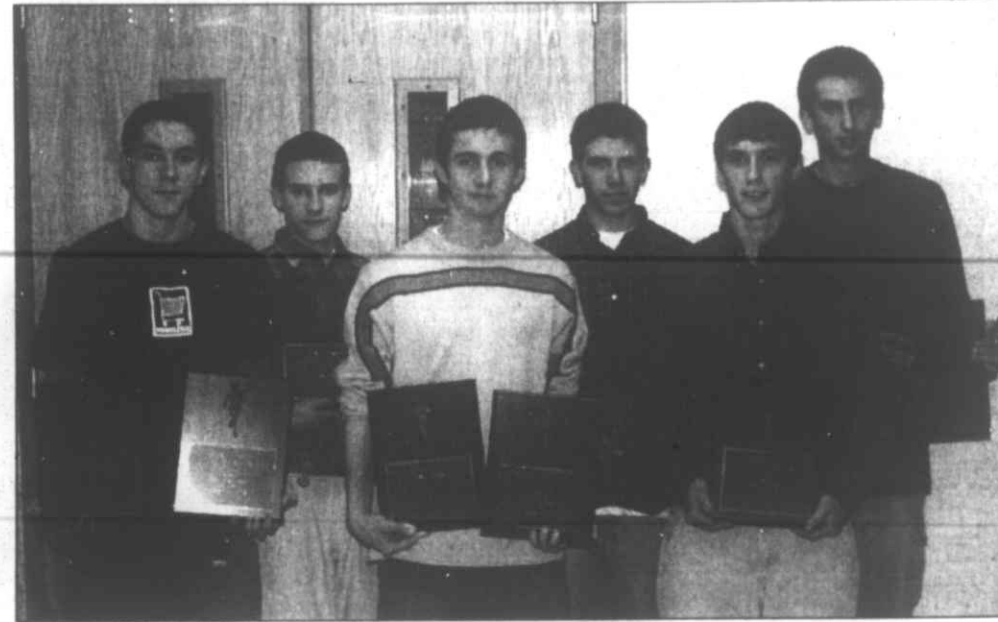

"The Adventure Sports Center International will have a big influence, and we anticipate seeing many more international students as a result," Swiderski added. "There is an opportunity for our students to be an adventure expedition model on the international level."

SHS FALL ATHLETES HONORED - The Southern Garrett Athletic Association held an awards assembly Sunday to honor Southern High School student athletes who participated in fall sports. Tim Miller, SGAA president, welcomed those present, principal Tom Woods gave remarks, John Hill served as master of ceremonies, and athletic director Matt Redinger gave closing remarks. Pictured above are the members of the varsity girls' soccer team who were honored following another winning season. In the front, from left, are: Kristen Oxford, Coach's Award; Sabrina Scheffel, Offensive Player of the Year; and Laura Bonser, Defensive Player of the Year. In the back are: Jasmine Scheffel, Most Improved; Robbin Gregg, Most Valuable Player; and Brittany Naylor and Casey Taylor, Co-Midfielders of the Year. Honorees on the SHS boys' varsity soccer team are pictured below. From left are: Steve Knepp, Spirit Award; Mike Mosser, Most Improved; Ben Friend, Co-Defensive Player of the Year; Adam Miller, Offensive Player of the Year; and Sean Buckle, Most Valuable Player. Not present for the photo was Ryan Heselbach, Co-Defensive Player of the Year.

"Adventure can be used as a learning tool for other disciplines," he continued, predicting that the college will be influenced in the future by the growing number of elderly in the area. "We could meet this demographic trend in the AVS program by offering something along the lines of Elder Hostel."

Swiderski added that he sees three trends in the field of Continuing Education growing across the state: (1) training center opportunities for mental health and juvenile justice professionals; (2) a state training center for multi-passenger vehicle driver's training, with sanctioned certifications, due to controversies stemming from safety records of 15-passenger vehicles owned by the state; and (3) leadership development for corporate training.

ACADEMIC REPORT

Dean Lillian Mitchell presented the academic report. She noted that the final enrollment figures for the fall semester are as follows: headcount - 637 (fall semester 2001 - 641); full-time equivalency - 224.83 (fall semester 2001 - 227.53).

FINANCIAL REPORT

Kilgus presented the financial report. "FY 2003 Budget, Expenditures, and Encumbrances: Even spending as of Sept. 30, 2002, would be 25 percent of the total budget, so Garrett is 'right on target,'" said Kilgus. Academic support, operation of plant, and institutional support are all over even spending as a result of full-year encumbrances. The scholarships/fellowships function remains well below even spending, as the fall semester awards have not yet been issued.

•FY 2003 Operating Cash Forecast: Kilgus indicated that cash flow projections are positive, with the best opportunity for investment anticipated in April.

•Annual Report on the Disposal of Surplus Property: Kilgus reviewed the annual fixed asset report for FY 2002. The college acquired nearly 2.8 million in assets and disposed of approximately $424,000 worth. This brings Garrett's total assets to about $11.3 million overall. The GIEC building and ADA projects are the biggest reasons for the increase in assets.

•Information on Fixed Asset Depreciation: Kilgus reported that Garrett College is now required to start depreciating its assets. He then reviewed a table showing the depreciable life of various categories of fixed assets.

Glendening Proposes Plan To Ease Projected $1.2 Billion Shortfall

by Raymund Lee Flandez
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS -- Gov. Parris N. Glendening Wednesday ordered $172.4 million in administrative spending cuts and nearly a 40 percent draw down on the state's rainy day fund to close a $500 million budget deficit.

While no layoffs or tax increases are expected right now, there also will be no bonuses for state employees earning more than $60,000 a year.

"We need to balance our budget, but we don't need to do so on the backs of our employees," said Glendening at a news conference Wednesday.

The governor said he could not promise that there would be no layoffs in the future.

Recently, legislative analysts predicted a $590 million revenue shortfall this year, up from previous estimates. But Glendening said the deficit projection is $498.3 million.

Most of this year's deficiencies, Glendening said, result from the state's health department, which has had to respond to more people asking for health insurance after losing benefits in the nation's recession.

"If they turn to us for assistance, we must answer that call," Glendening said.

Part of Glendening's solution would eliminate the graduated withholding of income tax. Under current tax structure, the state withholds 2 percent on the first $1,000, 3 percent on the second $1,000, 4 percent on the third $1,000, and then 4.75 percent on the rest.

The change would mean all income would be withheld at the full 4.75 percent rate, said T. Eloise Foster, secretary for the state Department of Budget and Management. It's expected to bring the state $45 million.

Taxpayers may file for a refund of any excess withheld.

His plan, Glendening said, will leave Republican Gov.-elect Robert Ehrlich Jr. with more than $600 million in cash reserves, helping ease the $1.2 billion projected shortfall for the next fiscal year beginning in July. The balanced budget should protect the state's triple-A bond rating, Glendening said.

"Much of what he outlined today will help with next year's problem," said Paul Schurick, Ehrlich's spokesman. "He (Glendening) started the road in fixing the problems. It's a long road. And this is just a start."

Glendening and Ehrlich briefly met Saturday at a National Governors' Association conference in Austin, Texas, to discuss the fiscal problems, but they didn't go through all the details.

Ehrlich said he believes Glendening's plan is "solid," said Shareese DeLeaver, another Ehrlich spokesperson. "They are in agreement that the budget should not be balanced in the backs of the people."

Right now, Glendening is focused on departmental reductions, with the highest spending cut of 4.9 percent in administrative costs. Under state law, Glendening can authorize a 25 percent reduction in agencies without legislative approval.

In Glendening's plan, higher education and public safety would be cut by 1 percent and 3.4 percent, respectively. Local aid and elementary through secondary education, however, were spared.

"They can and must be protected," Glendening said. He promised to work with the incoming administration to find more ways to shave the deficit.

Some Democrats have criticized Glendening for not offering a sign that the state's fiscal woes would improve before the November elections when it could have helped Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, who ran unsuccessfully on the Democratic ticket.

After consulting with other state governors, Glendening said he decided it was prudent to release a plan after the elections. He didn't want his announcement to "become a major political issue."

Glendening's revised plan, however, still must be approved by the General Assembly.

Sen. Ulysses Currie,

D-Prince George's, praised Glendening's "common sense" approach to balance the budget.

"I think it's a plan we all can live with and we all can support," said Currie.

Butscher Honored By Hospice At Annual Dinner

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, was recently honored with the "You Make a Difference" award during the Hospice Network of Maryland annual dinner awards in Baltimore. These awards are presented annually by the Hospice Network to individuals for extraordinary commitment to the hospice concept and to their hospice patients and families.

Amy Welch, Hospice secretary, presented Butscher with the award and delivered a message on behalf of the Hospice board of directors.

"Brenda came to Hospice in May 1989," Welch said. "She became familiar with hospice when her husband Tom became a hospice patient. More recently, she was on the receiving end of hospice care again as her second husband Harry was a hospice patient. These experiences have given her a unique awareness of the need of hospice patients and family members. Her multiple skills expertise has enabled her to be a productive asset to the hospice program. She is politically astute and has been able to use this attribute to not only the good of Hospice of Garrett County, but also in serving on the board of the Hospice Network of Maryland."

"She has excellent public relations skills, which have helped her in gaining and improving rapport in the community. As executive director, she obtained state licensure for Hospice of Garrett County, as well as making the transition from

BUTSCHER HONORED BY HOSPICE - Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, was recently honored with the "You Make a Difference" award during the Hospice Network of Maryland annual dinner awards in Baltimore. a total volunteer hospice to a Medicare-certified Hospice. She continues to look for ways to improve the quality of services to the terminally ill citizens of Garrett County as she spends endless hours in making sure that our hospice is doing its utmost to serve the terminally ill citizens of Garrett County."

Butscher said it was an honor to win such an award. "Whatever I have successfully accomplished for Hospice of Garrett County could not have been done without the help and support of the board of directors, the staff, and volunteers. I firmly believe that we have been called to do hospice work. Together, as a team, we have made Hospice of Garrett County one of the outstanding hospices in Maryland."

Liz Freedlander, president of the Hospice Network of Maryland, said Butscher demonstrates the "spirit of hospice," and she "makes a difference every day."

Hospice of Garrett County serves patients and families facing life limiting illnesses in the local area. For more information about the hospice concept or available services, persons may call 301-334-5151.

Ft. Pendleton Round Table Sets Meeting

The third meeting of the Fort Pendleton Round Table will be held Tuesday, Nov. 26, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland at 7 p.m.

The subject this week will be the battle of Chickamauga, which took place in August and September of 1863. The presentation will be made by John Arnold, local enthusiast.

"This campaign was the breaker and maker of reputations," said group spokesperson Larry Cosner. "The officers of both armies were found to be delinquent and very efficient."

Interested persons are invited to attend and share their knowledge. For more information, persons may call Cosner at 301-334-4300.

TREASURE CHEST PREPARES FOR HOLIDAYS - Lighthouse board members Bobbie Henderson and Eleanor Plachta are shown above admiring their latest addition, a holiday centerpiece, to the facility's Treasure Chest. The Treasure Chest is the Lighthouse's new on-site consumers-only shop. "The success of this venture depends solely on the generosity of local businesses and a caring community, and the response has been overwhelming," said Henderson. "Consumers are cheerfully shopping for practical items, as well as holiday gifts." The board members and Lighthouse staff thanked the donors for their support. "Your donations have made a difference," said Henderson.

The women of the church will hold their annual Christmas dinner at the Pine Lodge Steak House in McHenry on Sunday, Dec. 8. Secret Sisters will be revealed and new names drawn.

Laurel Run Church of God

Christmas play practice will be held every Sunday at 2 p.m. Children need to try to be at all practices.

Surprise Party Given

A surprise birthday party was given Saturday, Nov. 16, in honor of Jim Griffith on his 50th birthday by his daughters Trina and Jamie. Over 40 family and friends were present. The party was held at Twila's Restaurant in Bruceton.

Neighborhood Watch

The regular monthly meeting of the Friendsville Crime Watch was held Thursday, Nov. 14, at Friendsville Elementary School. Deputy Geroski was present to answer questions. They discussed the upcoming town light-up night. They will be participating again this year by offering free pictures with Santa for the children. This event will be held at the Town Park on Dec. 6.

They also discussed the crime prevention grant that was applied for. Should the grant be approved, the Crime Watch will be offering a free self-defense tactics class and a free Citizen's Police Academy Training in the summer of 2003 for residents of Friendsville.

The Crime Watch members note their appreciation to Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Dept. for his help in preparing the grant and the letter of support; also to the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council for their letter of support.

The next Crime Watch meeting will be held Dec. 10 at 6 p.m. in the media center of the Friendsville Elementary School.

Library News

Robert and Jennifer Pletta have donated a 36" television in memory of Winifred Pletta. It is in the children's section and will be used for children's programming. The library welcomes any group who would like to use the TV for programs at the library.

Appreciation is extended to Theresa Wells for her donation of calico fabrics for the quilt project. The staff is going to try to start cutting out the pieces sometime in December and have them available for people in January. Those who would like to help are asked to call the library at 301-746-5663.

The library will also have a booth at Light-up Night in December at the Town Park. There will be a table where children can decorate a free gingerbread cookie. Cookies will also be for sale.

The library will close at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 27, and will be closed on Thursday, Nov. 28, for Thanksgiving.

Annual Holiday Light-up Night

The town's annual Holiday Light Up Night is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 6, at the town park. Community volunteers are needed in order for this event to be a success. Those groups, organizations, and

Dear Mrs. Nettie

Sponsored by GCNET Internet Services

Dear Ms. Nettie,

I've noticed that when I view web pages, the pages seem too large for my monitor. I have a 17-inch monitor. Could this be the problem?

View at Large

Dear View at Large,

Your computer may have come preset to a resolution of 640 X 480 pixels. That means that your monitor will display a screen that is 640 pixels wide and 480 pixels high regardless of whether you have a 15, 17 or 19-inch monitor. The size of the monitor does not determine the screen resolution. But the bigger the monitor, the larger the screen resolution you can use.

Ideally when viewing web pages you want as large a resolution as you can get. The larger the resolution, the more of a page fit on the screen. Since many web pages are too large to fit on one screen, a larger resolution allows you to see more of a page. I suggest using a resolution of 800 X 600 if you have a 14 or 15-inch monitor, and a resolution of 1024 X 768 for 17-inch and larger monitors.

HARRY POTTER AND THE CHAMBER OF SECRETS

As a film critic, I am certainly thankful that Harry Potter-mania has replaced Pokémon-mania during the last few years; while I'm not what you would call a devoted Harry fan, the films featuring him are leagues better than those mind-numbing Pikachu-fests of a few years ago. Needless to say, Chris Columbus's Harry Potter And The Chamber Of Secrets, the second in J.K. Rowling's projected 7-episode series about everybody's favorite adolescent wizard (the 5th of which is now reportedly finished) and the first sequel to last year's Harry Potter And The Sorcerer's Stone, adapted for the screen by Steven Kloves, is no less magical, no less engaging, and no less kid-pleasing than its record-breaking predecessor. It's also no shorter; in fact its running time, at a whopping 161 minutes, is ten minutes longer than Sorcerer's Stone, which I felt was already too long for any film aimed at elementary school-age kids.

Re-convening pretty much the entire cast of Sorcerer's Stone, and adding a few notable new names to the cast, Chamber begins with Harry's second year at that venerable wand-waving institution, Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. Although he is visited at home by a short, large-eyed creature named Dobby the house elf (a digitally animated creation with the voice of Toby Jones), who tells him not to return to Hogwarts because his life is in danger, Harry Potter (Daniel Radcliffe), now 12 years old, decides as usual to ignore the advice offered him and sneaks back to school with his best friend, the timid but affable Ron Weasley (Rupert Grint), using Ron's family's flying car. There he is re-united with other fellow sophomores like the ever-studious-but-still-has-time-for-mischief Hermione Granger (Emma Watson) and arch-enemy Draco Malfoy (Tom Felton), whose father Lucius (Jason Isaacs) has also shown up to help Draco and his pals torment the good guys. Also introduced is a new professor named Gilderoy Lockhart (Kenneth Branagh), a world-famous and hopelessly vain heartthrob wizard who has been assigned to teach the academy's Defense Against The Dark Arts classes, but spends most of his time signing autographed pictures for his throngs of admiring fans.

Soon after arriving at school, Harry starts to notice some weird things happening, and it's not just from eating magic chocolate frogs. Certain students are being petrified, messages are being written on the walls in blood, and rumor has it that the mysterious "chamber of secrets," which was installed centuries ago by malevolent school co-founder Salazar Slytherin to trap non-pureblood wizards, has been opened. Not only this, but some people think Harry is responsible, like Groundskeeper Argus Filch (David Bradley) and surly Prof. Severus Snape (Alan Rickman). Whatever the reason, the chamber's opening could spell the end of Hogwarts, at least according to Headmaster Albus Dumbledore (the late Richard Harris, whose recent death will obviously preclude him from appearing in future sequels). Harry, Ron, and Hermione must figure out what's going on and fast, or their beloved school will be forced to close its doors.

I've not read any of the Harry Potter series (yet), but I'm told that each book is exponentially more complex than the last; I suppose I should be thankful this movie is only 10 minutes longer than Sorcerer's Stone, considering the mountain of new characters and exposition that are required. But it does concern me, if all seven of the ever-more complicated books are to be produced as motion pictures, and each is as meticulously faithful to its source text as the first two have been, that the ensuing films can do nothing but become more and more ponderous, more filled with every bit of inconsequential dialogue and every minor action scene, and more minutes in length. Perhaps the seventh and final film will be measured in days rather than hours. Perhaps viewers will have to bring a change of clothes or book a room in a local hotel when they buy their tickets. Is it not ever possible to edit these Rowling tomes, or is this slavish dedication to preserving every image absolutely necessary? I know, I know...Crusty critic chastises Chamber with compulsive clock-watching. But I'm not just whining about a sore butt here. I'm talking about the need for more efficient editing, the need to resist overindulgence, on the part of Columbus and his crew. I'm as thrilled by the HP movies as the next guy, but I would be unequivocally delighted if they all managed to be 2 hours long. And they could do it if they tried.

Chamber Of Secrets is of course rife with amazing magical effects, clever, witty dialogue, and plenty of action. The acting has improved infinitesimally among the three leading teens, and the technique of the adult cast, including not only those named above but Dame Maggie Smith as Prof. McGonagall and Robbie Coltrane as Gamekeeper Hagrid, is uniformly above reproach. And we are treated to such technical wonders as giant spiders (very similar to those in this summer's Eight Legged Freaks, but not as funny), an angry "whomping willow" tree, and an immense basilisk that looks like a giant iguana with no legs. A magic diary that answers questions written in it, another action-packed quidditch game, Cornish pixies, screaming mandrake plants. Neato. But is it all necessary.

Chamber is beautifully rendered, using the combined talents of cinematographer Roger Pratt, production designer Stuart Craig, costume designers Lindy Hemming and Michael O'Conner, and all the others involved in this immense production. If you liked Sorcerer's Stone, and you can stay awake, there is no doubt this will please you. So bring an extra seat cushion, go to the bathroom beforehand, pop a No-Doz, and enjoy. ★★★★★

GC Resident Sees Father's WWII Legacy Preserved

By Renée Shreve

Garrett County resident Jo Donaldson saw her late father's personal memories of World War II introduced to the Library of Congress last week. The articles are now part of the library's World War II Legacy Project collection.

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and Donaldson's mother, Agnes Farinholt, presented Tech. Sgt. "Lightning" Joseph A. Farinholt's biography, photographs, and a video interview and transcripts of his WWII experiences to the library. The presentation took place Tuesday morning in the Ceremonial Room of the Thomas Jefferson building.

The articles were accepted by the deputy librarian, retired Gen. James Scott; Peggy Bulger, director of the American Folklife Center; and Peter Bartis, senior program officer, Veterans' History Project.

Donaldson said she was very proud, and at times teary eyed, to see her father's items presented. Also attending the event were Donaldson's daughter Catherine and her brothers, Bob and Joe Farinholt — who live in the Westminster area — and their families.

Just shy of his 16th birthday, Tech. Sgt. Joseph Farinholt, Finkesburg, joined the Maryland National Guard's 5th Regiment of Infantry in 1938. He entered active service in 1940 when his unit was mobilized for WWII combat and redesignated as the 175th Regiment of the 29th Infantry Division.

Farinholt was a member of the 175th until he was injured and evacuated from Germany in November 1944. He served a total of 5½ years on active duty.

Farinholt received four separate Silver Stars for his heroic deeds during combat in France and Germany. The Silver Star is America's third highest medal for valor in combat. Additionally, his four Silver Stars are

FSU MAKES A DIFFERENCE FOR THE DOVE CENTER — Frostburg State University's recent "Make A Difference Day" did just that for the Dove Center and the clients it serves. The annual event involved hundreds of volunteers from the FSU campus who donated toiletry items which were packed in "personal care bags" for distribution to Dove Center shelter clients. Country singer Collin Raye, who is a member of Make A Difference Day's national advisory board, also participated by helping to bag the items before his performance during FSU's homecoming events. There were a total of 500 bags donated, along with 25 Biederlack blankets. FSU also partnered with the Sheetz chain, which gathered toiletries in local stores. the most awarded to any enlisted service member during WWII.

Donaldson said, however, that when she and her brothers were growing up in Carroll County, her father, like many other veterans, never talked much about the war. They knew he had four Silver Stars, but they did not realize that was unusual. Her father, who was a farmer and auto mechanic after the war, just said he did what was necessary, the same as other soldiers.

In recent years, however, Farinholt gained the attention of several groups and was recognized as one of the more highly decorated veterans. He decided to use those opportunities to help others learn more about the lives of veterans, as well as contribute to the WWII Legacy Project.

Bartlett and his staff coordinated with Farinholt earlier this year to prepare his materials about his experiences in accordance with the project's guidelines. Bartlett went to Farinholt's home and conducted the required videotaped interview.

Farinholt, however, died unexpectedly on June 11 before the materials were ready for presentation and never saw them formally entered into the library.

Scott noted at the presentation that all veterans' stories should be preserved, not just those of generals and famous soldiers.

"It's important to remember these people," said Donaldson, about the "ordinary" soldiers like her father. "It gives you a different perspective [about the war]."

She said veterans wishing to submit articles to the Legacy Project must sign a consent form, which allows persons to access the information from the Library of Congress.

AMERICAN LEGION POST 214

JRL User Fee Hikes Slated

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has slated a hike in the recreation day use fees at Jennings Randolph Lake, located on the North Branch of the Potomac River between Elk Garden, W.Va., and Bloomington. This is the first increase in day use fees since collection began eight years ago. Fees for special event permits and nationwide annual passes will also be increasing.

The new fee schedule, effective Jan. 1, 2003, is as follows: boat launch fees — $3; special events fee — $50; and nationwide annual passes — $30 ($15 for duplicate passes).

"The Corps is authorized under the Land and Water Conservation Act to charge fees for the use of recreation facilities and services provided at government expense," a spokesperson said. "Recreation use fees are used to offset operating and maintenance costs at Corps facilities, and help assure the public demand for high quality recreation opportunities is met."

Golden Age and Golden Access passports will be honored, with holders receiving a 50 percent discount on all recreation use fees.

For further information, persons may call the JRL office at 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., or consult the facility's web site at www.nab.usace.army.mil/recreation/jenran.

Volunteers Needed For Local AARP Tax Aide Program

AARP Tax Aide, a community service sponsored by the Area Agency on Aging, is seeking volunteers for the local program to assist people, especially those over 60, in filling out their tax returns. Volunteers will be trained locally in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service, and are expected to serve at least four hours a week at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland.

This marks the 11th year the free tax aide service has been available in Garrett County. For the 2001 tax season, over 30,000 volunteers assisted 1.7 million taxpayers as they filed their returns at 9,000 sites across the country. Persons interested in volunteering to be a tax aide may call 301-334-1323 or 301-387-6670.

Environmentalists Hopeful Ehrlich Will Uphold Glendening Legacy

by Ayesha Ahmad
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS Hope floats, but on polluted waters, for Gov.-elect Bob Ehrlich's environmental agenda in the wake of a strong legacy left by Maryland's outgoing "environmental governor," Parris Glendening.

Those who have worked with Glendening praise his environmental record and caution that committed leadership is needed to maintain and finance programs begun by him.

Ehrlich has already promised to push for federal funding for water pollution programs.

"It certainly helps to have a Republican governor lobbying a Republican president and a Republican congressional leadership," said Ehrlich spokesman Henry Fawell, referring to the governor-elect's intent to secure federal resources for upgrading Maryland's sewage treatment facilities.

As congressman for Maryland's Second District, Ehrlich authored legislation this year to allot $660 million to sewage treatment upgrades, which would reduce nitrogen and phosphorus pollution from treated water released into the Chesapeake Bay.

"He campaigned on this issue...it was the centerpiece of his environmental platform," Fawell said, noting that Ehrlich raised the issue

Ehrlich's proposal, backed by the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, was identical to a bill sponsored by Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Baltimore. Both await a final decision.

Ehrlich said Friday he was happy to hear about Glendening's $4 billion water treatment initiative.

"The dollars are enormous. The federal government must play a role" in funding the upgrades, Ehrlich said.

The bay water quality issue is the top environmental priority for Ehrlich and Lt. Gov.-elect Michael Steele, but some environmentalists worry about the departure of a governor with such a strong environmental record.

"Glendening has been absolutely extraordinary on the environment and Smart Growth," said Dru Schmidt Perkins, executive director of 1000 Friends of Maryland. "But Congressman Ehrlich's record has been not very strong on environmental issues."

The Maryland League of Conservation Voters, which commended Glendening as a "national leader" and gave him a B+ in 2001 for his environmental work, gave Ehrlich a lifetime environmental score of 26 percent and called the 2002 gubernatorial race a "disappointing loss."

But in a statement, the league noted Ehrlich had made significant pledges prior to his election and said, "We will look to the new governor to follow through on his campaign promises."

Schmidt-Perkins also acknowledged Ehrlich's promises, saying her organization was ready to work with the new governor.

"There are many people who have been concerned about his record and what that might mean to the environment," she added, "but as far as I'm concerned that was his (record) in Congress and now it's time for him to uphold the standards that the last six or seven governors have set, with very, very decisive actions."

The last eight years under Glendening have brought programs such as Smart Growth, which helps control urban sprawl, and costly land preservation efforts.

"Last year, for the first time in state history, we preserved more land than we lost to development," said Department of Natural Resources Secretary Charles Fox.

Glendening also helped create buffer zones around the Chesapeake Bay to protect its shore; worked to protect blue crabs; and enacted legislation after a pfiesteria outbreak to control pollution from agricultural sources.

The governor's successor "will face significant budgetary challenges in meeting the environmental commitments," particularly for land preservation, Fox said.

"The next governor's going to have to show a lot more leadership in the federal level in trying to secure additional federal support for our environmental programs" in light of the state's

Md. MS Chapter Asking Residents To Donate Cars

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Maryland Chapter, is seeking donations of cars, trucks, boats, or RVs. Free towing service will be provided, according to Lyndi Richards, manager of public relations and communications for the chapter.

The society provides programs and services to people with MS and supports MS research. For more information, persons may call 1-800-FIGHT-MS or visit www.nationalmssociety.org.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE by Michelle Holler

The November meeting of the Red House 4-H was called to order by Vice President Steve Knepp, and Kelsey Skipper led pledges.

There was a record book workshop for all members at 6 p.m. All members turned in their beef tickets at the meeting. The club also talked about the raising of dues for adults for the Livestock Association. The members who carried leaves in the Autumn Glory Parade were Rachel, Jordan, Carrie, and Kelsey Skipper. The members who did radio spots promoting 4-H were Rachel, Jordan, Daniel, Carrie, and Kelsey Skipper, Justin Fitzwater, Cassie Cussins, Caitlin Jones, and Ryann and Alison Friend. Travis Sanders reported to us that he got 6th place at his fishing tournament. The club voted to give two sunshine baskets to senior citizens in the community. The club's awards will be in February this year. Anthony Green did a demonstration on Hot Wheels, Steve Knepp on his market lamb Pete, and Ben Knepp on his market lamb Jasper.

The club also had elections. The new officers are: president, Stephanie Breneman; vice president, Steve Knepp; treasurer, Eli Green; secretary, Ryann Friend; reporter, Daniel Skipper; photographer, Cassie Cussins; and scrap book chair, Caitlin Jones.

Thank you, Joneses and Cussins, for the snacks.

Children's Author To Sign Books With Movie Dogs In Tow

Children's author Sandra Philipson and her two dogs Max and Annie, subjects of her books, will be in Oakland for a book signing session beginning at noon Friday, Nov. 29, at the Book Market along South Second Street. Philipson's newest work, Max and Annie's Mysterious Campfire, is the latest of four books about the two Springer Spaniels, who are also the subject of the upcoming Hollywood movie release Miracle Dogs.

In their work as therapy dogs, Max and Annie spend a great deal of time traveling to schools, hospitals, and events for children and families touched by cancer. Annie lost her left front leg to cancer three years ago, a story first told in the book Annie Loses Her Leg But Finds Her Way, the basis for the upcoming film.

The cast of Miracle Dogs includes Kate Jackson in Philipson's role, along with Josh Hutcherson, Ted Shackleford, and Stacy Keach. Starring in the title roles are Max and Annie, who portray themselves. The movie tells a story of "friendship, inspiration, and healing," according to Philipson's web site. "It emphasizes the sometimes magical relationship between animals and people."

Philipson is a reading specialist and educational consultant who resides with her family and dogs in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, just outside Cleveland. She has advanced degrees in education, reading, and literacy, and has published research in the field of medical literacy.

For further information about the book signing, persons may call the Book Market at 301-334-8778.

Fatherhood Group Slates Early Child Literacy Program

Project Dads, the new early childhood literacy training program for fathers sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee's Head Start/Early Head Start programs, has slated a seven-session literacy development course in Oakland. The first class, "Technology," will meet Thursday, Dec. 5, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Oakland Armory, with Tom Simpson facilitating the session.

"With these training sessions, fathers will learn successful and effective methods to aid in the development of their children, and strengthen their roles as 'dads,' explained GCCAC's Walter Wachter, coordinator of the Project Dads program. "Although maternal participation in the literacy development of children has been long recognized, the father's teaching role is sometimes overlooked. Project Dads seeks to empower fathers and other male family members by getting them productively involved in their children's reading and writing development."

The six subsequent sessions of the Project Dads training program will meet at the Mary Browning Senior Center from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on the following Thursdays: Dec. 12, "Storytelling" with Gary Yoder; Dec. 19, "Pre-Writing and Writing" with Jack Dubose; Jan. 2, "Reading Books" with Ross Grotfelty; Jan. 9, "School-Home Interaction," with Richard Stevens; Jan. 16, "Early Social Interaction" with Fred Polce; and Jan. 23, "Environmental Incidental Print" with Sam Fathers whose children are not participants in the Head Start/Early Head Start programs may attend these trainings as space permits. Refreshments will be served at each session.

To register for the literacy training sessions, persons may call GCCAC Head Start/Early Head Start at 301-334-9431, ext. 128, or 1-800-877-8403, ext. 128.

Will Uphold

Ehrlich's congressional record shows his work in some necessary areas. Aside from his sewage plant upgrade legislation, Ehrlich has voted for protecting wetlands, safer drinking water, and land preservation. In 1995, he opposed efforts by his own party to weaken the Environmental Protection Agency.

As governor, Fawell said, Ehrlich would continue to support Smart Growth but "unlike the outgoing administration he would not overrule actions by local jurisdictions."

Ehrlich may also work to restore oyster populations toward the twin goals of cleaning the bay's waters through the oyster's natural filtration process and creating more jobs for Maryland watermen.

The overriding theme of Ehrlich's environmental platform, Fawell said, would be to "strike a careful balance between a healthy bay and a healthy economy."

Glendening also worked along the same line, saying Maryland is a model of economic growth combined with environmental leadership.

Their administration's goal, said Steele, is to "make sure that in the process of protecting the environment, we're not encroaching on the lives of people" who have made their living off the bay for so long.

Supplement Evaluated for Alzheimer's

Alzheimer's disease (AD) is an incurable, degenerative disorder of aging that causes loss of memory and language skills. Researchers believe Alzheimer's causes damage to the brain due to oxidative stress and/or the attack of free radicals on brain and nerve tissue.

Vitamin E is an antioxidant that helps tie up free radicals and prevent their attack on normal tissue. Studies indicate that 1000 IU of vitamin E given twice daily (total daily dose of 2000 IU) may provide a safe, well tolerated, and effective way to prevent or slow development of AD.

Nutritional supplements called tocotrienols are closely related to vitamin E. These supplements reportedly have a unique chemical makeup that may make them more powerful antioxidants than vitamin E. Researchers who work with tocotrienols feel that they penetrate into fatty tissues of the brain more easily than does vitamin E. The tocotrienols occur naturally in rice, bran, and barley oil.

Faith in God's Gifts

It was Sharon's birthday, but no one had said a word. She knew her co-workers remembered, but it was nearly time to go home. She was absorbed in her work when, suddenly, Sharon sensed a movement beside her...and there it was...a beautiful birthday cake ablaze with candles! "Thank you so much", she exclaimed as bright tears reflected the candles. "Thank you for remembering my birthday!"

Do you sometimes feel forgotten, even by those closest to you? God always remembers you. You need only to believe in His plan and have faith in your Creator. God tells us in Jeremiah 29:11... "For I know the plans I have for you...to give you a future and a hope."

Worship God this week. Learn more of His plans for you.

Background Scripture:
Ezekiel 36 through 37.
Devotional Reading:
Jeremiah 32:36-41

We sometime make the mistake of thinking that grace is the invention of the New Testament.
Although the English word,
'grace,' occurs only six times in the Old Testament, God's grace is often present there. Ezekiel 36 is just one of those places where we find grace in the Old Testament.

"Thus says the Lord God: it is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations to..." (36:22). God will restore Israel, but not because they deserve it. They cannot afford God's justice, for it will keep them in captivity.

What God is going to do for these people, whose forbears repeatedly violated this covenant, is nothing short of a miracle.
"For I will take you from the nations, and gather you from all the countries, and bring you into your own land. (vs. 24,25). What a deal!

Undeserved Mercy
Their "abominable deeds" broke the old Sinai covenant.
Now, God is making a new covenant with them, a new relationship between God and Israel. They cannot make themselves clean. Only God can do that: "I will sprinkle clean water upon you and

Postage Stamps

Q. I recently inherited a collection of postage stamps. They are in albums and look interesting, but I know nothing about stamps. How can I find out some basic information about stamp collecting and see if the ones I have are valuable?

A. Stamp collecting is one of America's most popular hobbies. Almost everything imaginable has appeared on postage stamps, and that's one of the reasons why both U.S. and foreign issues are so fascinating.

The Official Stamp Collector's Bible by Stephen R. Datz (House of Collectibles, $22) is a highly recommended reference book for both the novice and advanced collector. Datz is one of our country's leading authorities on stamp collecting, and he helped appraise and liquidate the collection of President Gerald Ford.

This user-friendly guide is filled with valuable information such as how to find and identify stamp treasures, grading stamps, determining values, and the tools and supplies needed to protect a collection. It will even help you distinguish forgeries and fakes, and find insurance for your collection.

Of special interest are the ways to buy, sell and build a collection through auctions, clubs and the Internet. There is also a glossary of terms to help new collectors understand the language of stamp collecting.

Other sources that might be helpful include Rob Weiss, a dealer for some 20 years. His postal and Web addresses are Old Pueblo Coin Exchange, Inc., 4420 E. Speedway, Tucson, AZ 85712; and www.oldpueblocoin.com. Ray L. Coughlin is a well-known appraiser. Contact him at 639 Sycamore Springs Circle, Mountain Home, AR 72653; and www.raylcoughlin.com. Always include a stamped, self-addressed envelope when writing someone referenced in this column.

Cats' World Turned Topsy-Turvy

Q. I have two cats that are quite elderly. They have roamed the house, sat on the living-room furniture, etc., with no problem until recently. However, since my two adult children arrived, the cats have become quite spiteful and also will not use the litter box — they go on the floor. Is there a solution to this? — Josephine F., Staten Island, N.Y.

A. There are a couple of solutions, but neither is simple nor easy to reach. Your cats, who have probably lived a stable, unchanging routine for years — a nice, leisurely roam around the house, some play time and a quiet nap on the couch — obviously feel that their world has been turned upside down. The cause? Your newly arrived children.

Asking your children to move out is not a solution, so the goal here must be peaceful co-existence. Sit down together and talk about the cats, their behavior and anything you or your kids have noticed about them. Try to develop a consistent plan for dealing with the cats when they get spiteful or start soiling: place them in a quiet room for about an hour, with food, cushions and a litter box; don't strike or yell at them; keep their box clean (in fact, try adding a second litter box in the house; they may appreciate it); and feed them on a regular schedule. You must all be patient and give the cats time to adjust — as much as three months or more.

If things don't improve, take the cats to your veterinarian for a checkup, and ask about medication to calm them. Additionally, over-the-counter herbal remedies (Bach's Rescue Remedy is a popular choice) are available for pets that may give your older cats some peace of mind.

Prescription Drug List For Medicaid Patients Could Save State Millions

by Miesha Lowery
Capital News Service
ANNAPOLIS — With Maryland facing a $1.7 billion deficit, state health officials are trying to encourage doctors to use lower-cost medications to save the state $8 million. If the preferred prescription drug program is created, the state's Medicaid doctors will have to choose from a list of generic drugs instead of prescribing more expensive brand-name drugs to their patients.

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the General Assembly support instituting such a list to cut the cost of Medicaid. Legislation to implement the program passed both the House and Senate this year, but it failed to win final approval before the end of the session.

The proposed drug list will affect about 120,000 people who receive fee-for-service care, according to the health department.

"If the program is not implemented, then there will be additional pressure on the state budget and the state will have to cut spending from somewhere," said David Romans, budget analyst for the Maryland Department of Legislative Services.

Medicaid is a joint federal and state program that serves low-income individuals who cannot afford health care. The cost of the program will increase 7 to 8 percent each year for the next five years, while the general revenue fund will only increase about 4 percent, according to the Department of Legislative Services.

"Medicaid accounts for about 15 percent of the state budget," said Romans.

Some advocacy groups, including the newly formed Maryland Health Advocacy Alliance and the Maryland chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, say the list will limit access to drugs and interfere with the doctor-patient relationship.

A poll of Maryland voters revealed that 77 percent oppose the required authorization before a doctor can prescribe medication not on the list, according to Gonzales/Arscoff Research & Communication. The poll was taken before the state deficit estimates jumped from $1.3 billion to $1.7 billion.

"I think the poll shows there is still a strong doctor-patient relationship, but in the face of a $1.7 billion dollar deficit the debate is going to be very different," said Carol Arscoff of Gonzales/Arscoff.

Under the proposed program, a doctor who wants to prescribe a drug that does not appear on the list may call a 24-hour hotline and the Department of Health must respond within 24 hours. During the wait, physicians may prescribe a 72-hour emergency prescription.

Drugs used to treat HIV and anti-psychotic drugs will be exempt.

"Consumers will have access to all drugs," said Debbie Chang, secretary of Health Care Financing at DHMH.

"Our concern is that all drugs are clinically effective and if the drugs are clinically equal, then we will encourage doctors to go with the less expensive drug," said Chang.

Monumental City Medical Society, a Baltimore-based, African-American physician association, said that choosing drugs based on their effectiveness is not the real motivation of the Health Department.

"The process of determining this (clinical effectiveness) appears to be based primarily on cost. The result of such policy could be the selection of older, less-advanced medicine," the group said in a statement released Tuesday.

The Health Department said access to drugs will not be limited and the system will work effectively.

"There is no reason we should be paying for the expensive drug when the less expensive drug is the same thing," said John Folkemer, executive director of the Office of Planning and Finance in DHMH.

"For an overwhelming number of people, generic drugs will have the same effect as brand name, but for some people it will not work and the brand-name prescription can be prescribed."

senior citizens find it difficult to keep up with the rising cost of prescription drugs, and are, perhaps, the population most concerned with this program.

"Senior citizens are large users of the state medical program, and our members are very concerned with prescription drugs," said Donna DeLenc, advocacy representative for AARP.

"In general, AARP is concerned with consumer protection, and as long as the impact isn't negative, I don't think this will be an issue," she said.

The Health Department said the public would have ample opportunity to express concerns before the program can even begin, said Folkemer.

"It is the department's intent to get public comment," Chang said. "If it were approved it wouldn't be effective until 2003."

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on November 13.

The annual ingathering of thank offerings was observed with the service

"How Are You?" a thank offering devotion from Lutheran Woman Today, a magazine of Women of the ELCA. The service consisted of responsive readings, hymns, an exercise in which persons shared for what they are grateful, and a litany of thanksgiving.

The study theme, "Seeing and Believing," based on the Gospel of John, was led by Leota Baker. In this session, the group studied the story of the man born blind, and learned how God continues the work of healing, redeeming from sin, and creating faith.

Devotions closed with a prayer from Lutheran Woman Today.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

Acknowledgment and a message of gratitude was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Box Elder, Mont., for the package of gifts recently sent by Zion's unit, for the Christmas give-away to residents on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation.

Additional gifts of sweaters and hand-knitted caps have been donated, and are also being sent for the Christmas give-away at the reservation.

Tribute to the memory of Alverta Billmeyer was made through a gift offering to Women of the ELCA-Churchwide. This offering is being forwarded for the specific ministry Education, Work Skills, and Leadership Empowerment for Women and Girls.

A gift offering was sent to the Warm the Children Fund to assist in distributing clothing to children in Garrett County.

"Lutheran Lines," the synodical unit newsletter, has been received.

Evergreens have been gathered for making the Advent wreath.

The meeting adjourned

with the missionary benediction. Each was presented a Thanksgiving treat from a member of the group.

I read fifteen to twenty newspapers every weekend. No seriously, I work in advertising so mostly I just skim through looking for ads that catch my eye. I have noticed that every town, city and area have what seems to be their own style. Some areas who heavily advertise in the metropolitan publications, are very sophisticated. A lot of their print advertisements are very well thought out, colorful and technology related. Other areas have more of a country style. While these advertisements are also very well thought out it seems that there is a larger focus on education and a slower pace.

These thoughts made me take a step back and look at the area I reside in Garrett County, MD. My own advertisement kicked in and during my comparison I had an epiphany and began to think of all of the beautiful sights I had seen today in my drive to work. People often ask why I chose to live in this area and my answer always seems to be related to the idea that if you want to be beautiful you need to surround yourself with beautiful things. Obviously our county has it's up and down but it also has an enormous beauty and sense of style, not often mimicked, but a wonderful style. This beauty in the scenery we residents experience everyday is heavenly breathtaking. Look around and ask yourself "Is there anywhere else I would rather be?"

If you would like to share any of your thoughts or pictures of the area please email them to

7-Year-Old Cancer Patient Receives Simple Wish: Snow

Taylor Nicholson, a 7-year-old Terra Alta, W.Va., native who is battling cancer, recently got her wish. Taylor's simple request was "to eat and sit in snow."

With the help of Kim Riley, community relations manager at Hospice Care, and the cooler weather, the Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort was able to fulfill her request.

Using snowmaking equipment, the ski resort was able to make enough snow for Taylor, her parents, Tina and Ted Wiles, her sisters, Marlana, 14, and Jamilyn, 11, and other relatives and friends to slide down Marsh Mountain on toboggans, snowboards, and snow disks.

"It was the coolest thing to see the snow on the mountain as we crossed the Rt. 219 bridge over Deep Creek and know it was for Taylor," said Riley.

On July 11, 2001, Taylor was diagnosed with childhood brain stem glioma cancer, which is usually more common in boys. One in 250,000 children develops the disease, which is inoperable and almost inevitably fatal, according to Wisp spokesperson Paula Yudelevit.

Taylor's parents enrolled her in a clinical trial at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, where a series of new drugs and chemotherapy seemed to work. In December of 2001, an MRI showed no remaining traces of cancer.

In April of this year, however, Taylor's cancer reappeared. She is now reportedly on steroids and medication to keep fluid from accumulating in her lungs.

Ted and Tina wanted to fulfill what may be Taylor's last wish. "We sat and talked one night, and [Taylor] asked about the holidays and when they were," said Ted. "And she said she wanted to eat snow and sit in the snow."

Riley, with the help of Carrie Brainard, volunteer coordinator for Hospice, immediately went to work to make that wish come true.

"I called Bob Yaste, vice president of planning and development at Wisp. He didn't even hesitate and offered to take one of their snow makers to the Wiles' home," said Riley. "Bob would stay in touch with me regularly and let me know weather conditions and when snowmaking would begin. Wisp had an area of the mountain covered on Saturday (Nov. 2), and Taylor felt good enough to travel the short distance to the Wisp on Sunday."

Volunteers Brad and Monta Lawson of Grantsville Feed & Supply brought the toboggans and snow disks to complete the snow fun. Taylor and her mother slid down the mountain for more than an hour, according to Yudelevit.

"Cooler weather on Friday night made it possible to make enough snow to cover the beginner's area for Taylor and her friends," said Yaste. "We lined up about 20 of our portable big snow guns on Belly Flop Trail and let the snow fly. About 30 employees volunteered to make it happen. We all thought it was a great experience to be able to fulfill Taylor's wish."

Va. Man Handed Jail Sentence For Drug Possession

A Virginia man was sentenced to a three-month jail term during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing after he pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana charge. Presiding judge Ralph Burnett handed down the penalty.

Donald Ray Filsinger, 44, Triangle, received a one-year sentence, nine months of which were suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. His July arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from a traffic stop in Oakland when a K-9 drug detection dog "alerted" for the presence of marijuana in his vehicle. A search that followed uncovered a quantity of marijuana, smoking pipes, and rolling papers. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

In other district court news, a Friendsville man pleaded guilty to an assault charge that stemmed from a domestic altercation at his Morris Avenue residence.

Aaron Shane DeWitt, 31, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence along with a $100 fine, one year of unsupervised probation, and 20 hours of community service. Sheriff's deputies had arrested DeWitt in August after an incident during which he threw items that struck his wife, and allegedly grabbed a juvenile by the hair. An additional charge of second degree assault and a child abuse accusation were not prosecuted.

Terry Lynn Ford Sr., 40, Swanton, was deemed "not guilty" of violating an ex parte order when the alleged victim refused to testify against him by invoking her marital privilege. The charge had been filed in July after the woman had complained to sheriff's deputies that Ford had been stalking her and beating on the windows of her residence while a court order was on file banning him from initiating any contact with her.

Ford was also handed stet rulings in connection with four counts of violation of an ex parte order, and one count each of stalking, harassment, trespassing, and disturbing the peace. The charges were filed by sheriff's deputies after Ford allegedly repeatedly approached a woman at her home, and on two occasions in Oakland, while a court order was on file banning such contact on his part.

Ford faced additional allegations of second degree assault and disturbing the peace, also filed by sheriff's deputies in August, that were not prosecuted. Those charges were filed in the wake of an altercation at the same woman's home when a neighbor reportedly intervened in a domestic dispute between Ford and the woman. Reportedly highly intoxicated at the time of the incident, Ford was accused of pushing, kicking,

Brenda Jean Bittinger, 38, Swanton, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), along with a 30-day suspended sentence and two years of unsupervised probation. Additional charges of child abuse and reckless endangerment were not prosecuted.

Bittinger's September arrest by state troopers stemmed from an incident at her New Germany Road residence. She was accused of kicking a juvenile and pointing a loaded BB gun at his head from a short distance.

An unrelated charge of malicious destruction of property, filed by sheriff's deputies after Bittinger reportedly broke a sink in the jail while being held in the wake of her arrest, resulted in an order that she pay the county $165 in restitution.

Charges of second degree assault and reckless driving faced by Michael Gerald

Casteel, 44, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., were placed on the stet docket. Casteel had been jailed by state troopers

Cord Blood Donation May Benefit Others

By Beth L. Bowers

As new parents relish the miraculous gift of a newborn baby, many are taking a moment to give a gift to someone else. That gift is donating the blood from the baby's umbilical cord.

This procedure is entirely painless, and there is absolutely no harm to the mother or the baby.

Jackie Hawk of Oakland is scheduled to donate her cord blood this December after the birth of her second child.

Hawk, a team captain for Relay for Life, got the idea from watching Caroline's Miracle, an 11-minute video at one of the captains' meetings. Caroline's Miracle is the story of a 6-year-old North Carolina girl and her triumph over a second fight against cancer. Caroline had her cord blood transplant in 1998, five years after the first cord blood transplant at Duke University.

According to Bill Strother, Caroline's father, the American Cancer Society funded the research. Caroline's doctor did during the 1980s in cord blood transplants. "Caroline has gone through more pain in four years than most people will go through in a lifetime," he said. "She's alive today because of the cord blood transplant, because of Dr. Joanne Kurtzburg, and because of the American Cancer Society."

The American Cancer Society receives money for research from many sources, one being the Relay for Life event. The Relay for Life, which continues throughout the year, not just during the June walking event, raises money for such research.

Hawk said she decided to do it for the recipient, not as a reward. "My mother-in-law died of cancer, and this might have helped her," Hawk said. "I am looking forward to helping others with a painless procedure that benefits others. I am not doing this for a pat on the back. I just wanted to help others if I could."

The blood in the umbilical cord is rich in stem cells, which are the building blocks of the blood and immune systems.

Stem cells have been used as part of the treatment therapy in nearly 50 different cancers, immune deficiencies, and genetic disorders. Researchers are now looking to cord blood for answers to heart disease, stroke, diabetes, and muscular dystrophy.

The collection process is easy and painless, and does not interfere with the delivery and subsequent care for the newborn and the mother. After the baby is born but before the placenta is delivered, the obstetrician collects the blood in about 2 to 4 minutes.

The blood may be stored, for a fee, in a collection center to be used for that family, if the need should arise. Cord blood stem cells are a perfect match for the baby, have a 25% probability of being an exact match for a sibling, and can be potentially used for parents and grandparents.

The blood may also be donated, as is the case with Hawk.

Umbilical cord blood is being used as an alternative to bone marrow in bone marrow transplants, according to the Bone Marrow Foundation web site. "It functions to restore marrow function after a patient receives high-dose chemotherapy and radiation. Cord blood is a rich source of hematopoietic (blood-forming) stem cells. The first cord blood transplant took place in 1989. Since then, approximately 350 cord blood transplants have taken place worldwide," said Cynthia A. Fisher, president and CEO of Viacord Inc., a medical service company which provides families with umbilical cord blood banking.

"Cord blood has come into the mainstream in stem cell transplantation," she added. "There will continue to be a need for both private family and public (unrelated donor) cord blood banks. The establishment of national cord blood banks for unrelated donor banking will help fulfill the need for those individuals who don't have a match within their family."

She added that in the case of a transplant, it is preferable to use one's own stem cells or that of a family member. But if a perfect match were not found, an unrelated donor would be considered.

Fisher also said that much research is still needed to determine the unknowns about cord blood. For example, researchers do not know how long these stem cells from cord blood can be stored and then utilized.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE DAUGHTER...ARMED FORCES STYLE — The Perando family is making its contribution to this country in the uniform of the Air National Guard. Early this year Dale E. Perando, left, completed ANG Noncommissioned Officer Academy training in Knoxville, Tenn., and was promoted to master sergeant. In September Heather L.V. Perando, daughter of Dale Perando and Dixie R. Watson, earned her commission as an ANG second lieutenant after she completed six weeks of Officers Training School at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala. Her father attended the pinning ceremony at the ANG base in Martinsburg, W.Va., (right) and had the honor of pinning the lieutenant bars on his daughter and of being the first to render a salute to her. 2nd Lt. Heather Perando resides in Bunker Hill, W.Va., and is employed as a special education teacher in Sterling, Va., while Master Sgt. Dale Perando, a retired employee of the Maryland Environmental Service, resides in the Oakland area along Pycell Crosscut Road.

But cord blood is an "up and coming request," according to Hawk's physician, Dr. Patricia Gotsch of the Garrett Medical Group.

She added that she has performed the procedure several times in the past few years for families who wanted to store blood for their own future use.

Hawk and her husband Gary also have a son, who will be 6 in December.

Va. Man Handed

after a May altercation at his brother's Friendsville area home.

Carolyn Sue Smith, 52, Oakland, received a set ruling on a charge of second degree assault, which was filed in June by sheriff's deputies. Smith had allegedly struck a male during a domestic altercation in front of her Smith Drive residence.

Michael Patrick Grotfelty, 25, Oakland, and Mathew Alan Butler, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., were each handed set rulings in connection with second degree assault charges filed after a March altercation along Hutton Road. The pair had allegedly fought when Butler's sister was attempting to padlock the basement door to a residence to keep Grotfelty, her ex-boyfriend, from entering the home to remove property. Sheriff's deputies had arrested the pair in the wake of the fracas.

David W. Bittinger, 50, Swanton, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge filed by sheriff's deputies in September after Brenda Bittinger claimed that he had punched her during a domestic altercation.

Jesse A. Marcinkevich, 19, Chesterfield, Va., was not prosecuted on two counts of misdemeanor theft. Marcinkevich's April arrest by state troopers stemmed from his apprehension in the Finzel area with several state road signs in his possession. He had allegedly taken the signs as part of a Frostburg State University fraternity initiation "requirement."

Rick Harold Minnick, 41, Deer Park, was not prosecuted on marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges filed by sheriff's deputies after drugs allegedly belonging to him were turned in by a third party.

Barbara Tinkler, 58, Elkins, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a felony theft charge stemming from her August arrest by sheriff's deputies. She had been accused of taking several pieces of property, including a car, from the Oakland area residence of her ex-boyfriend when the pair split up.

Lois Cecilia Winters, 32, Cumberland, was not prosecuted on two counts each of second degree assault, third degree sex offense, and custodial child abuse, and one count of perverted practice. The charges were filed by state troopers following their investigation of reports that she had engaged in consensual sexual contacts with a 15-year-old male at the Meadow Mountain Youth Center, where she was employed at the time of the incidents.

Daniel Robert Myers Jr., 25, Hedgesville, W.Va., was not prosecuted on possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia charges filed by state troopers after an August traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Friendsville. A

Gary Dale Hardesty, 48, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a pair of second degree assault charges filed in May after his arrest by sheriff's deputies. Hardesty, allegedly intoxicated at the time of the incident, had reportedly struck two persons during a domestic-related altercation in Oakland. One of the suspected victims, Frederick L. Paugh Jr., 51, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge he was handed after he had allegedly struck Hardesty with a chair during the same incident.

Friendsville Mayor, Council To Sponsor Decorating Contest

The mayor and town council will again sponsor the annual Holiday Decorating Contest for town residences and businesses.

The cash prizes will be awarded as follows: first place residential, $50; second place residential, $30; third place residential, $20; and first place business, $25.

Independent judging will take place starting at 5:30 p.m. on Dec. 19. Winners will be announced at 7:30 p.m. during the regularly scheduled meeting of the mayor and town council that same evening.

No residence is eligible to win first place two consecutive years.

The Garrett County Memorial VFW Post 10077 held its annual Buddy Poppy Drive November 9th and 10th, 2002. The event was located at Arrowhead Market in Deep Creek, MD. The members of the post want to thank the management of Arrowhead Market for the use of their facilities. Members of the post Dick Ford, John Hirshman and Mike Myers participated in this fund-raising event, and proceeds benefitted hospitalized Veterans.

Lantz Named To Scholar Society

Christopher Lantz, a senior at Southern High School, has been selected for membership in the National Society of High School Scholars. The society inducts only the most outstanding high school students and honors them for superior academic achievement.

"The hard work and success of today's youth provides the foundation for a future dedicated to community and world-betterment. I congratulate Christopher on being recognized as one of the most outstanding high school seniors in the nation," said Claes Nobel, honorary chairman of the society.

The mission of the National Society of High School Scholars is to recognize and encourage academic excellence among the most exceptional high school seniors. The society selects students nationally and awards this distinction on a very limited basis.

Lantz is a member of Southern's National Honor Society, captain of the varsity soccer team, member of the track team, and student council representative.

He is the son of Steve and Mary Lantz, Oakland, and will attend college in the fall to major in engineering.

Diabetic Support Group Established In Friendsville

The Area Agency on Aging and Maryland Cooperative Extension are starting a support group for all persons with diabetes. The meetings will be held at the Friendsville Community Building, located at 952 Old River Road.

The first meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 2 p.m. Future meetings will be held the third Tuesday of every month.

"There will be an estimated 798,000 new cases diagnosed per year," said Ronnie Padmos of Area Agency on Aging. "A person who has diabetes must constantly assess his or her disease on a day-to-day basis through blood glucose monitoring, diet, and exercise."

According to the National Diabetes Information Clearinghouse, diabetes mellitus is a group of diseases characterized by high levels of blood glucose resulting from defects in insulin secretion, insulin action, or both. Diabetes can be associated with serious complications and premature death, but people with the disorder can take measures to reduce the likelihood of such occurrences.

It is estimated that 15.7 million people, 5.9 percent of the population, have diabetes. Of those, an estimated 5.4 million people are undiagnosed. The support group is free! Registration is suggested. Persons may do so by calling Jennifer D. Thorn, registered dietitian, at 301-334-6960.

Red Clover Ensilage for Dairy Cow
Alfalfa is still the most important forage fed to U.S. dairy cows, but USDA scientists say that red clover may be a superior alternative. Switching cows from alfalfa to red clover ensilage could help reduce manure nitrogen level, which would be a significant benefit to the environment. Glen Broderick is an Agricultural Research Service dairy scientist and says feeding trials were conducted with dairy cows at a research farm in Wisconsin. Broderick says that in the latest study involving red clover ensilage, cows produced the same amount of milk on less feed.
Farmers Should Prepare For USDA Census
Congress requires USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service to conduct a Census of Agriculture every five years. 2002 is one of those years. The federal agency will send forms to more than 2 million farms and ranches in late December to collect data for the 2002 calendar year. Completed forms are due February 3, 2003. US law requires anyone who receives a census report form to respond.
Milk Prices Not Expected To Rise Until Mid-2003
The good news is milk prices will get better. The bad news is that milk price recovery will take awhile. Last week, Michael Marsh, chief executive officer of Western United Dairymen, speaking at the 21st annual Agribusiness Management Conference in Fresno, Calif., said he expects price relief in the third quarter of 2003. University of Wisconsin's Bob Cropp agrees. Cropp, a dairy economist, delivered a similar message to northeast Iowa producers last week. He predicts that the Class III price will average about $11.69 next year.
Don't forget to make reservations for the High Tunnel Vegetable and Fruit Production workshop on Dec. 9, 2002, 7:00 p.m. at Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Soybean Harvest Half Complete

Although significantly behind, soybean harvest is just over halfway complete at 55 percent, 38 percent behind last year, and 26 percent behind the five-year average. The average suggests that soybeans should be 81 percent harvested by now, but recent wet weather conditions have made progress difficult. Concern is growing over the soybean quality as the unharvested crop remains in soggy soil. Reports indicate that mold and wet weed material such as grass and chick weed may be decreasing yield. This year's crop may not yield high enough quality beans to be used for seed.
Last week, rain fell off and off with the most precipitation accumulated over the weekend. Maryland farmers had only 2.2 days suitable for fieldwork due to the rain and muddy soils. Topsoil moisture rated in surplus supply jumped 22 percent. Topsoil is rated 47 percent in surplus, 47 percent adequate, 5 percent short, and 1 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is rated 15 percent surplus, 55 percent adequate, 25 percent short, and 5 percent very short.

GC Agricultural Mgmt. Course Schedule Slated

Eight agricultural management courses will be offered at Garrett College in spring semester 2003. All classes will meet in the Center for Adventure and Outdoor Studies on the McHenry campus.
Agricultural/Natural Resources Skills (AGM 104) will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. In this one-credit course, students will learn hunter and firearm safety, small engine maintenance, vehicle maintenance, tractor and farm machinery operation, and skills such as plumbing, basic carpentry, and welding.
Soil and Water Conservation (AGM 265), a four-credit course, will meet Tuesdays from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. and Thursdays from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m. This course will address principles of meteorology and hydrology affecting soil and water conservation practices, and the fundamentals of water resources management.
Farm Management (AGEC 111), a three-credit course, will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 10:10 to 11:40 a.m. This course gives students practice in developing decision-making skills in farm planning, budgeting, enterprise election, and cost analysis.
Another three-credit course, Power and Machinery (AGEN 102) will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. This course will present principles of selection, maintenance, operation, lubrication, adjustment, and care of farm machinery and power units.
Nutrient Management (AGRO 110), a one-credit course that examines the economic and environmental impact that livestock wastes have on crop production, will meet Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m.
Pesticide Use and Safety (AGRO 111), a two-credit course that considers environmental protection, personal safety, equipment, storage, and disposal, will meet at a time to be announced.
Animal Health (ANSC 103), a three-credit course, will meet Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. This course will present symptoms associated with health problems of farm animals and treatment procedures for common ailments.
Green House Management and Production (HORT 132), a three-credit course that will focus on structures, equipment, maintenance and general procedures associated with commercial greenhouse operation, will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 7 p.m.

Spring semester classes will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 21. Students may register for these courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays during business hours. Persons desiring further information about the agriculture courses may call Willie Lantz at 301-387-3331.

Maryland Dairy Annual Meeting To Be Tuesday

Dairy processors, retailers, and marketing experts will outline 21st century techniques at the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 2002 annual meeting later this month. The program on Tuesday, Nov. 26, will focus on innovations designed to assure economic viability of Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry in the opening years of the 21st century, according to MDIA president Myron L. Wilhide of Detour (Carroll County).
More than 150 dairy producers and industry representatives are expected to participate in the meeting, to be held at the New Midway fire hall, 12045 Woodboro Pike (Md. Route 194), in this Frederick County community.
Resource panels include officials from Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, Dairy Maid Dairy, Giant Food Inc., Marva Maid Inc., South Mountain Creamery, National Milk Producers Federation, and Moxley's Ice Cream. In addition to showcasing new milk and dairy products, the team will outline how innovative products and procedures, such as cheese-in-a-bag, dairy popcorn, and single-serve milk, are transforming the nation's dairy industry. A special presentation by Maryland's Department of Health & Mental Hygiene will introduce a program using dairy products to combat human osteoporosis.

fee will include a served country-style lunch, program breaks, and complete proceedings. Members are encouraged to bring family or farmstead workers to the industry program. Non-members are welcome. Food service, school lunch, and other nutrition professionals are being invited to experience the new dairy product presentations.

MDIA has designed a new meeting format that promises to be more appealing to the state's 750 dairy producers, officially convening at 10 a.m. and concluding at 3 p.m. An association business meeting is planned for the noon hour. Exhibits will be open at 9 a.m., with continental breakfast served to early attendees.

The 2002 MDIA annual meeting will feature nearly two dozen exhibits on latest dairy technology and services, as well as University of Maryland dairy extension reports, and election of directors and officers.

Maryland Dairy Industry Association was formed in 1997 to enhance the economic viability of Maryland dairy producers and the Maryland dairy industry. It has grown to include more than 200 of the state's leading dairy producers, along with major milk and ice cream processors, in addition to key industry suppliers.

Project DADS Dads As Developmental Specialists

Project DADS is an early childhood, literacy—training program that emphasizes father and other male involvement in children's early reading and writing development.

Purpose
The purpose of Project DADS is to address the need for early father involvement in their children's reading and writing development. Although maternal participation in the literacy development of children has long been recognized. Project DADS seeks to empower fathers and other male family members as well.
